SOME of the news is bad, some good.

There is a plague of influenza sweeping Europe, not quite, but nearly as bad as the original attack that killed millions just after the war. In Spain alone 200,000 are ill, France and Switzerland are hit by the epidemic Big American cities would do well to segregate severe influenza cases. New York Citys health department has set the example.

HERE is good and interesting news. The various talking moving picture contrivances have got together for the general improvement of talking pictures that will be the great educational and amusement devices of the future.

B. F. Blume, president, and J. E. Otterson, vice-president, of the Western Electric company, which controls the vitaphone, saw in William Fox's studio yesterday remarkable pictures of Raquel Meller, the Spanish actress, singing and acting.

In reproduction of voice, movement of lips, gestures and expression of the face synchronization were absolutely perfect. Having seen and heard that picture, it is not necessary to see Raquel Meller herself.

MR. BLUME, in whose laboratories was perfected the mechanism for talking across the Atlantic ocean, announces a arrangement by which the Fox-Case talking pictures method and the vitaphone method would be interchanged. Those that own various talking picture devices have arranged to exchange information and allow one to use the ideas or patents of the other, for the benefit of the industry.

MESSRS. BLUME and Otterson also saw intensely interesting educational pictures for public schools in which Mr. Fox is specializing. That is the great moving picture need of the day and other producers should interest themselves in it.

Mr. Eastman, of the kodak company, is producing educational moving pictures and will distribute actual moving picture lessons in surgery for doctors. The moving picture will make it possible for surgeons to be heard and see lecturing and operating at the same time.

TO MAKE Spain's influenza epidemic seem worse, there are earthquakes in Portugal, sending people flying into the streets and fields. Subterranean rumbles add to the terror.

Portugal, more than any other country, dreads earthquakes with good reason. The worst earthquake in all recorded history destroyed the city of Lisbon and caused one distinguish-

Right to Use "Super-Flash" Term is Upheld in Washington Ruling and Cleveland Court Decision.

The Ohio Valley Oil company, of East Liverpool, of which Frank G. Jones is president, today was a winner in two fights over the use of the trade mark, "Super-Flash," in the sale of gasoline, according to dispatches from Washington and Cleveland.

Later, in the United States district court in Cleveland, Judge Westenhaver refused the application of the Western Oil company for an injunction to restrain the Ohio Valley company from using the term, "Super-Flash." The Western company had charged that the name was an infringement upon their trade mark, "Silver Flash."

TWO BANDITS NABBED AFTER GUN PLAY NEAR GREENSBURG, PA.

Robbers Overpowered When One Youth's Pistol is Jammed.

BRAKEMAN HERO

Dashes for Armed Outlaw After Trainman is Robbed.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 13—Two bandits who attempted to hold up the Pennsylvania railroad's Keystone express, bound from New York to St. Louis, near here, early today were overpowered and arrested when one bandit's gun jammed as he started to shoot their way to freedom.

Search Passengers.

The attempted robbery occurred between Greensburg and Pitcairn.

Police said the bandits gave their names as W. F. Hevner, 21, of Tyrone, and L. D. Rhodes, 25, Johnstown.

Authorities said Hevner only recently was released from the state reformatory at Huntingdon. He had in his possession a bag given inmates of the Huntingdon institution and a bank book issued by a Tyrone, Pa., institution, when arrested.

Hevner was armed but his companion was not. As the train pulled out of Greensburg, 40 miles east of Pittsburgh, the bandits walked through the smoking car, their revolver drawn, and ordered passengers to surrender their valuables.

While the bandits were searching the passengers in the front part, other passengers in the rear of the car went for aid. The bandits fled into the baggage car when J. J. Fulton, a brakeman off duty, approached them.

Panic On Front Coaches.

After robbing F. W. Dorsey, baggagemaster, the bandits re-entered the smoker and were accosted by Fulton who made a dash for Hevner, the armed bandit. Hevner warned him to stand back, and pulled the trigger when Fulton ignored his command police said.

Fulton owes his life to the fact that Hevner's gun jammed. An instant later the railroad man overpowered Hevner, wrestling his gun from him. While passengers pounced upon Rhodes.

The prisoners were taken to Pittsburgh and turned over to police. While panic prevailed on the front coaches during the robbery many passengers in the rear coaches did not know the train was being robbed until the bandits had been captured.

Bottled home brew was found, police said.

Clark paid part of his fine and arranged to pay the balance.

Salem Constable Is Awarded $10,000 Damages in Suit

Earl Ritchie, Perry township constable, was awarded $10,000 damages against Mrs. Lucretia Oltean, Salem, by a jury in common pleas court at Lisbon, yesterday afternoon.

Ritchie, a former dry raider, claimed that he suffered injuries of a permanent nature when the defendant pushed him through a window while he was searching her house for liquor. His arm was badly lacerated by the broken glass, he charged. He sued for $25,000. Judge Charles N. Moore presided at the trial.

Attorneys for the defense announced today that the case would be carried to the appellate court on error if a notice for a new trial is overruled.

NOTICE, KILNMEN!

There will be a special meeting of the L. U. No 9, Friday, Jan. 14 to vote on two important questions. By order of President.

WORKERS SPEED JOB OF ERECTING PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE CHURCH OF CHRIST ADDITION IN ONE DAY

A score of workers, directed by John Smith, boss carpenter, today were speeding the task of erecting in eight hours an addition to the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ to accommodate crowds at Fife Brothers' evangelistic services.

As a battery of hammers were driving nails into the tabernacle, which will adjoin one end of the structure, in the hope of completing it in time for services at 7:30 o'clock tonight, twenty-women were working over pots and pans in the kitchen of the church preparing a hot dinner for the laborers.

Judging from the progress made at noon, the enlarged structure, furnace-heated, electrically-lighted and sawdusted, will be opened tonight.

With the erection of the addition the name of the house of worship will be changed to "The Tabernacle Church of Christ." It will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

"If Rev. C. Melvin McKay and the Fife brothers did not believe this tabernacle would be a blessing and add new members to all the churches of this city and raise the general spiritual tide of this community, I would not want to see it built," said Dr. Clyde Fife, head of the Radio Log Cabin Boys from Kentucky.

"The time has long passed when people believe that salvation can only be brought through one church or one preacher. I am only here to do my part and we had to have a place to put the people.

Condemns "Trial Marriage."

"When I read such damnable doctrines as 'Trial Marriage,' 'Black Oxen' and other infidel rot which is being fed to the world today, I become disgusted with life and feel that the last days predicted in my mother's Bible are here. But when I think of Mary and the children and remember that millions of Godly people still have common sense and their feet on the ground, I take courage to fight on to a glorious consummation of this great unfinished task.

"I have a little daughter and I hope to God I die before I ever see her a part of any trial marriage.

"Unless people want to rear children and nourish these little hands by which we lay hold of heaven, in God's name what is the use of marrying?

"In the name of reason does it take a fool or a philosopher to guess who will take care of these little babies born of these trial marriages. Who always took care of them? The poor mothers and the church of the living God.

Hits Free Thinkers.

"When I was a boy in Kentucky my daddy took me one day to a free thinkers' convention. That matchless, silver-tongued orator, Bob Ingersol, stood there and preached that day the doctrine of free love. Had I accepted his doctrine, I would have been piled up in hell 20 years ago. What saved me?

OHIO VALLEY OIL COMPANY WINS TWO-FOLD FIGHT OVER TRADE MARK

Right to Use "Super-Flash" Term is Upheld in Washington Ruling and Cleveland Court Decision.

The Ohio Valley Oil company, of East Liverpool, of which Frank G. Jones is president, today was a winner in two fights over the use of the trade mark, "Super-Flash," in the sale of gasoline, according to dispatches from Washington and Cleveland.

At a hearing before the commissioner of patents in the national capital, the East Liverpool company's application for registration of the trade mark was granted, despite objections made by the Western Oil company.

Later, in the United States district court in Cleveland, Judge Westenhaver refused the application of the Western Oil company for an injunction to restrain the Ohio Valley company from using the term, "Super-Flash." The Western company had charged that the name was an infringement upon their trade mark, "Silver Flash."

Attorney George E. Davidson represented Jones' interests in the two cases, while the Western Oil company's legal representatives included Roomler, Carter and Rust, and Hood and Hahn, Indianapolis, and Marty and Fuller, Cleveland.

TWO BANDITS NABBED AFTER GUN PLAY NEAR GREENSBURG, PA.

Robbers Overpowered When One Youth's Pistol is Jammed.

BRAKEMAN HERO

Dashes for Armed Outlaw After Trainman is Robbed.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 13—Two bandits who attempted to hold up the Pennsylvania railroad's Keystone express, bound from New York to St. Louis, near here, early today were overpowered and arrested when one bandit's gun jammed as he started to shoot their way to freedom.

Search Passengers.

The attempted robbery occurred between Greensburg and Pitcairn.

Police said the bandits gave their names as W. F. Hevner, 21, of Tyrone, and L. D. Rhodes, 25, Johnstown.

Authorities said Hevner only recently was released from the state reformatory at Huntingdon. He had in his possession a bag given inmates of the Huntingdon institution and a bank book issued by a Tyrone, Pa., institution, when arrested.

Hevner was armed but his companion was not. As the train pulled out of Greensburg, 40 miles east of Pittsburgh, the bandits walked through the smoking car, their revolver drawn, and ordered passengers to surrender their valuables.

While the bandits were searching the passengers in the front part, other passengers in the rear of the car went for aid. The bandits fled into the baggage car when J. J. Fulton, a brakeman off duty, approached them.

Panic On Front Coaches.

After robbing F. W. Dorsey, baggagemaster, the bandits re-entered the smoker and were accosted by Fulton who made a dash for Hevner, the armed bandit. Hevner warned him to stand back, and pulled the trigger when Fulton ignored his command police said.

Fulton owes his life to the fact that Hevner's gun jammed. An instant later the railroad man overpowered Hevner, wrestling his gun from him. While passengers pounced upon Rhodes.

The prisoners were taken to Pittsburgh and turned over to police. While panic prevailed on the front coaches during the robbery many passengers in the rear coaches did not know the train was being robbed until the bandits had been captured.

Bottled home brew was found, police said.

Clark paid part of his fine and arranged to pay the balance.

Salem Constable Is Awarded $10,000 Damages in Suit

Earl Ritchie, Perry township constable, was awarded $10,000 damages against Mrs. Lucretia Oltean, Salem, by a jur in common pleas court at Lisbon, yesterday afternoon.

Ritchie, a former dry raider, claimed that he suffered injuries of a permanent nature when the defendant pushed him through a window while he was searching her house for liquor. His arm was badly lacerated by the broken glass, he charged. He sued for $25,000. Judge Charles N. Moore presided at the trial.

Attorneys for the defense announced today that the case would be carried to the appellate court on error if a notice for a new trial is overruled.

NOTICE, KILNMEN!

There will be a special meeting of the L. U. No 9, Friday, Jan. 14 to vote on two important questions. By order of President.

WORKERS SPEED JOB OF ERECTING PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE CHURCH OF CHRIST ADDITION IN ONE DAY

A score of workers, directed by John Smith, boss carpenter, today were speeding the task of erecting in eight hours an addition to the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ to accommodate crowds at Fife Brothers' evangelistic services.

As a battery of hammers were driving nails into the tabernacle, which will adjoin one end of the structure, in the hope of completing it in time for services at 7:30 o'clock tonight, twenty-women were working over pots and pans in the kitchen of the church preparing a hot dinner for the laborers.

Judging from the progress made at noon, the enlarged structure, furnace-heated, electrically-lighted and sawdusted, will be opened tonight.

With the erection of the addition the name of the house of worship will be changed to "The Tabernacle Church of Christ." It will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

"If Rev. C. Melvin McKay and the Fife brothers did not believe this tabernacle would be a blessing and add new members to all the churches of this city and raise the general spiritual tide of this community, I would not want to see it built," said Dr. Clyde Fife, head of the Radio Log Cabin Boys from Kentucky.

"The time has long passed when people believe that salvation can only be brought through one church or one preacher. I am only here to do my part and we had to have a place to put the people.

Condemns "Trial Marriage."

"When I read such damnable doctrines as 'Trial Marriage,' 'Black Oxen' and other infidel rot which is being fed to the world today, I become disgusted with life and feel that the last days predicted in my mother's Bible are here. But when I think of Mary and the children and remember that millions of Godly people still have common sense and their feet on the ground, I take courage to fight on to a glorious consummation of this great unfinished task.

"I have a little daughter and I hope to God I die before I ever see her a part of any trial marriage.

"Unless people want to rear children and nourish these little hands by which we lay hold of heaven, in God's name what is the use of marrying?

"In the name of reason does it take a fool or a philosopher to guess who will take care of these little babies born of these trial marriages. Who always took care of them? The poor mothers and the church of the living God.

Hits Free Thinkers.

"When I was a boy in Kentucky my daddy took me one day to a free thinkers' convention. That matchless, silver-tongued orator, Bob Ingersol, stood there and preached that day the doctrine of free love. Had I accepted his doctrine, I would have been piled up in hell 20 years ago. What saved me?

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A moderate spurt in prices of railroad and dividend industrial stocks in early trading today was hailed as the evidence of an influx of investment buying. Meanwhile, the professionals have been gradually stirring up speculative interest in the oil stocks, which advanced in good form under the lead of Standard of New Jersey and a few of the well known independents.

Wall street was inclined to ignore the apparent gathering of the war clouds in Mexico and Nicaragua, and to place more emphasis on the evidences of easy money and the continuance of large scale industrial production. Gold importations from Canada, augmenting the new shipments from France yesterday, places the banks in a comfortable position. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

A 3 per cent gain in the mill operations of the U. S. Steel corporation helped to stiffen the market for the "big steel" stock, while Republic Iron and Steel continued the move which started on Monday, moving up to a new high at 62. Anaconda, Kennecott and other copper stocks were in good demand at fractionally higher prices.

Standard Oil of New Jersey showed unusual strength in moving up about a point to 39¼ in the first hour in a huge volume of trading. Rights for the purchase of the new stock at $25 a share expire this week. Marland sold above 58, while Pure Oil, Simms, California Pet'o and Texas company were active and firm.

Lehigh Valley led the rails with its new advance to 106 on "inside buying." Atchison, Rock Island and New York Central sold fractionally higher. Motor stocks were inactive but firm specialties steady.

THIS proud country now owns the biggest banking institution in the world, New York's National City bank, of which Charles E. Mitchell is president. That bank's deposits run $162,000,000 above the billion mark. To celebrate, the bank yesterday added twenty-five millions to its fifty millions of capitalization.

THIS is a prosperous country and the boom is disappointing those that expected to see it die or, at least, dwindle at the beginning of the year. We have 22,330,000 automobiles running, enough to carry our whole population at once, and more than 17,000,000 telephones.

DENTISTS warn women that excessive smoking bringing on "Vincent's Disease" also called "Trench Mouth." This disease which inflicted soldiers that had nothing to do but smoke, while waiting in the trenches is painful, attacks the tissues, destroys the gums, causes bleeding.

However, if women want to smoke dentists won't stop them. This writer tried it in vain, twenty-five years ago, by warning women that smoking makes their noses red, and makes their moustaches grow and they wouldn't stop.

My mother's prayers. I could answer Ingersol but I could not answer my life.

"I tell you the answer to all this. You mothers should open up the old fashioned parlor for your daughters to have their company at home and then sister, you get out of the room and don't try to do all the talking. I despise that. When you think more of your old, rotten furniture and carpets than you do of your children you become a zero with the rim rubbed out and drive your children from your home until the word home means not even hot soup for them.

"Let me ask you a question. Who will care for and what is to become of these cast off women of trial marriages? What man of any self respect wants a woman that has been pawned and licked over by every old yap. They become embittered and curse God and die. But before they die, they reap their revenge.

"Ben Lindsay talks about what all science has done for them. Hear me! What is the finality of this promiscuous business. Leprosy, what did science ever do for leprosy? Not a blooming thing. It does not even know what it is. Great God, men, go with me to the Island of Molokai and watch that leprous throng eaten slowly away by this knawing rot that dieth not. Rockefeller's millions, all human "foundations for scientific research" never touched that disease. And since the matchless Son of God healed that disease 2,000 year ago no other answer has been found. I therefore turn from Ben Lindsay to my mother's Bible and find in the teachings of my Saviour the answer for the problems that perplex the mind and vex the soul."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A moderate spurt in prices of railroad and dividend industrial stocks in early trading today was hailed as the evidence of an influx of investment buying. Meanwhile, the professionals have been gradually stirring up speculative interest in the oil stocks, which advanced in good form under the lead of Standard of New Jersey and a few of the well known independents.

Wall street was inclined to ignore the apparent gathering of the war clouds in Mexico and Nicaragua, and to place more emphasis on the evidences of easy money and the continuance of large scale industrial production. Gold importations from Canada, augmenting the new shipments from France yesterday, places the banks in a comfortable position. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

A 3 per cent gain in the mill operations of the U. S. Steel corporation helped to stiffen the market for the "big steel" stock, while Republic Iron and Steel continued the move which started on Monday, moving up to a new high at 62. Anaconda, Kennecott and other copper stocks were in good demand at fractionally higher prices.

Standard Oil of New Jersey showed unusual strength in moving up about a point to 39½ in the first hour in a huge volume of trading. Rights for the purchase of the new stock at $25 a share expire this week. Marland sold above 58, while Pure Oil, Simms, California Pete and Texas company were active and firm.

Lehigh Valley led the rails with its new advance to 106 on "inside buying." Atchison, Rock Island and New York Central sold fractionally higher. Motor stocks were inactive but firm. specialties steady.

Other millions, fortunately, reflecting on the rarity of such earthquakes, believed in Providence all the more.

THIS proud country now owns the biggest banking institution in the world, New York's National City bank, of which Charles E. Mitchell is president. That bank's deposits run $162,000,000 above the billion mark. To celebrate, the bank yesterday added twenty-five millions to its fifty millions of capitalization.

THIS is a prosperous country and the boom is disappointing those that expected to see it die or, at least, dwindle at the beginning of the year. We have 22,330,000 automobiles running, enough to carry our whole population at once, and more than 17,000,000 telephones.

DENTISTS warn women that excessive smoking bringing on "Vincent's Disease" also called "Trench Mouth." This disease which inflicted soldiers that had nothing to do but smoke, while waiting in the trenches is painful, attacks the tissues, destroys the gums, causes bleeding.

However, if women want to smoke dentists won't stop them. This writer tried it in vain, twenty-five years ago, by warning women that smoking makes their noses red, and makes their moustaches grow and they wouldn't stop.

My mother's prayers. I could answer Ingersol but I could not answer my life.

"I tell you the answer to all this. You mothers should open up the old fashioned parlor for your daughters to have their company at home and then sister, you get out of the room and don't try to do all the talking. I despise that. When you think more of your old, rotten furniture and carpets than you do of your children you become a zero with the rim rubbed out and drive your children from your home until the word home means not even hot soup for them.

"Let me ask you a question. Who will care for and what is to become of these cast-off women of trial marriages? What man of any self-respect wants a woman that has been pawned and licked over by every old yap. They become embittered and curse God and die. But before they die, they reap their revenge.

"Ben Lindsay talks about what all science has done for them. Hear me! What is the finality of this promiscuous business. Leprosy, what did science ever do for leprosy? Not a blooming thing. It does not even know what it is. Great God, men, go with me to the Island of Molokai and watch that leprous throng eaten slowly away by this knawing rot that dieth not. Rockefeller's millions, all human "foundations for scientific research" never touched that disease. And since the matchless Son of God healed that disease 2,000 year ago no other answer has been found. I therefore turn from Ben Lindsay to my mother's Bible and find in the teachings of my Saviour the answer for the problems that perplex the mind and vex the soul."

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

UNCLE SAM'S ACTUARY RADIATES FIGURES INTO SPARKLING FACTS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Joseph S. McCoy is government actuary. He deals in statistics.

There are plenty of other government statisticians. All the departments have them. The army and navy departments can tell, on an average, just how much damage is done by a given number of pounds of high explosives The agriculture department has volumes of statistics on weather. The census bureau wallows in statistical comparisons. The labor department compiles them by the ream.

JOSEPH McCOY

Oh, yes, there are plenty of statisticians in Washington, but there's only one Joseph S. McCoy.

A statistician is supposed to be a dry-as-dust old duck—a creature of charts, with curves and zig-zag lines. He's supposed to know nothing but figures—to see nothing but what he's worked out mathematically.

How utterly unlike such conception is Joseph S. McCoy.

His surroundings are according to Hoyle, to be sure. He has a dim, dank dungeon in the bowels of the Treasury Buildings. It's a moldy, gloomy hole—and ideal place in which to look for a treasury actuary.

And then you see J. S. McCoy. The dungeon lights up immediately. With McCoy's inside it, no place could look grim and drear.

He's oldish, that's a fact. He has to be, to have assimilated as many figures as he has. Right there his resemblance to the conventional statistician ends. He probably is the jolliest-looking, white-mustached old gentleman in Washington.

You ask for some statistics and you get 'em, but statistics served in the funniest form you ever beheld. They don't suggest statistics at all.

The idea is, McCoy mixes his figures with imagination. He doesn't mix 'em with fiction. He deals only with facts, but he shows imagination in the way he combines them

Figures are his raw material. His product is romance.

I called on him the other day in connection with a query concerning post-war finances—international debts money market control, problems of exchange and the shape that current banking developments are likely to take.

"Well, you see," replied the veteran actuary, "you can't look far into the future without glancing back into the past."

And he glanced straightway back to the time of the earlier Crusades.

Then, it appears, was when the international financier got his real start.

There were some dabblers in the business in really ancient times, but the Crusaders were the folk who had to float the first sure-enough war loans.

From the Crusades, McCoy proceeded on down through history, hitting the financial high spots here and there, to the Battle of Waterloo, when the Rothschilds made their initial big killing.

Jumping then to the United States, he sketched America's banking and commercial career to date.

On this foundation he built the superstructure of his prediction for the future.

What it was is neither here nor there, further than that it was optimistic, as might be expected from so cheerful a statistician as Joseph S. McCoy. The point is that there are mighty few actuaries who can compile a set of figures as thick as Webster's Unabridged and reel 'em off in the form of the most exciting kind of a story book, dating from the days of Richard the Lion Hearted to collection of the last war debt outstanding in favor of the United States.

Four Actions Before Common Pleas Court.

Steps to collect inheritance taxes from four former Columbiana county residents have been taken in the common pleas court. The judgments have been placed on the execuction docket to act as a lien against the property owned by the estate.

In the estate of the late Harrison B. Rinehart, of East Liverpool, there is a judgment for $141 and interest from April 10, 1924. In the case of the late A. P. Van Fleet, there is an unpaid tax of $175 and interest from November 11, 1920. The Elizabeth M. Ausley estate owes $227.57 and interest from September 25, 1923, while a judgment of $14 and interest from Nov. 20, 1922, rests against the estate of the late Henry C. Groff.

The sheriff is empowered to collect the taxes through public sale of the property involved.

MACHINE GUN SALE BAN MOVE

Representative Emmons Introduces Bill at Columbus.

State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester, has introduced a bill in the lower branch of the state legislature making the sale or possession of machine guns, except by police or national guardsmen, a felony.

The proposal would make the penalty for carrying concealed weapons, which is now from one to three years, 30 days to nine months in penitentiary. Concealed weapons, according to the provisions of the measure, would include "blackjack, billy, sandclub, sandbag, metal knuckles, bludgeon, dagger, dirk, dangerous knife, razor or stiletto.'

The bill also requires that all owners of firearms shall register them and procure a license from the county clerk. Sale or possession of a bomb would result, upon conviction, in a term of one to five years in the penitentiary. The measure it is claimed, has the backing of the American Legion.

Why We Become Weak, Run-Down If Glands Fail

THOUSANDS drag through life always tired and worn-out, suffering with loss of energy and vitality, and fail to recognize the cause of their trouble. Medical authorities now know the trouble as "asthenia," and claim it is caused by an unbalanced glandular system or weakened glands.

Glands exert a remarkable influence on health, strength and vitality. When the glands function normally they supply their vitalizing hormones (or secretions) which are essential to physical well-being. And when the glands fail to function, health fails.

Now, glandular treatment ,which is endorsed by eminent scientists and physicians of this country and Europe, is being used by thousands of men and women to help overcome a weakened, worn-out, rundown, exhausted condition, and to regain the strength, vigor and vitality that are the natural benefits resulting from a normal glandular system.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen is prepared in convenient tablet form, for both men and women. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Mathews Cut Rate Store will supply you.

What's What in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Joseph S. McCoy is government actuary. He deals in statistics.

There are plenty of other government statisticians. All the departments have them. The army and navy departments can tell, on an average, just how much damage is done by a given number of pounds of high explosives. The agriculture department has volumes of statistics on weather. The census bureau wallows in statistical comparisons. The labor department compiles them by the ream.

Not Guilty

Confidence in the honesty of baseball since the outlawing of principals in the "fixed" world series of 1919, was strengthened yesterday by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis' decision exonerating Eddie Collins, of the Philadelphia Athletics; Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Ray Schalk, pilot of the Chicago White Sox; Clarence Rowland and others of charges preferred by Charles (Swede) Risberg and Arnold (Chick) Gandil, discredited players.

The baseball commissioner, accepting the testimony of the accused men that they had not been implicated in any crookedness, and comparing it with the statements of Risberg and Gandil, barred from participation in major league games because of their alleged complicity in "thrown" games, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The decision was no suprise to the fans, for the 33 men named in charges of a "sloughed" series between the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox had emphatically denied on the witness stand any knowledge of wrongdoing in the playing the games. And the Judge Landis believed their stories.

On the other hand, the supreme court of the national pastime, like most of the fans, took little stock in the statements of Risberg and Gandil, for they had nothing to lose and everything to gain by the so-called expose. And, too, it was hinted that their expenses, and probably other compensation, in connection with the investigation were paid by sources outside of baseball.

The only disappointment to the public in the exoneration of the men named in the Risberg-Gandil allegations was the fact that Judge Landis made no reference to the charges made by Hubert (Dutch) Leonard against Tris Speaker and Tyrus Cobb, former pilots of the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians. Both men are urging that the baseball commissioner define their status, and it will prove no surprise if they, too, are given a clean bill of health.

And at the same time, it is hoped that the judge shall pass upon the application of George (Buck) Weaver, star third baseman of the White Sox in the alleged "fixed" series with the Cincinnati Reds, for reinstatement. Weaver, one of the best infielders the national pastime has seen, always insisted, and many fans have believed him, that he was innocent of any complicity in the 1919 scandal. He refused to support Risberg and Gandil in their charges, and in concluding his testimony, in which he said he declined to contribute to a pool for Detroit pitchers, requested restoration to good standing. And Judge Landis has promised to act upon the request.

Within the next week or 10 days, finis probably will be written on all cases of alleged crookedness in the game. And it is a foregone conclusion that the revelations will serve as a warning in the future. The investigation should prove beneficial to the game.

Italian Saber-Rattling

War between France and Italy? Some writers see this possibility in the news that six Fascist legions have been mobilized along the French border. The French are reported to have sent troops in their turn as a counter-demonstration.

The mutual ill-will of the two countries had its chief origin a few months ago, when Mussolini denounced France for permitting criticism of the Italian government. Later it developed that Italy was hiring agents in France to work up conspiracies against Fascist rule, in order to be able to complain that these plots were hatched on French soil. (Among these agents was the grandson of the great Garibaldi). In other words, Mussolini was manufacturing his own grievances.

Unquestionably relations are strained, but war is unlikely. Not long ago prophets foretold immediate war between Italy and Germany. Now these countries have signed a ten-year arbitration treaty. Today the Italians threaten France; tomorrow it may be Turkey, where Mussolini sees an outlet for Italy's surplus population.

Italy has nothing to gain by war with France or Germany. The present hostile demonstrations probably aim only to flatter Italy's self-esteem and distract popular discontent. If any foreign blow is meant, Turkey is the most likely country to receive it.

Straw Print Paper

A plant now being installed in Edmonston, Canada, will turn out newsprint paper from straw. Apparently a process has been devised for transferring this rather difficult material into a pulp smooth and white enough for the purpose.

It is a good use for the strawstacks of the great Canadian wheat belt, and should do much to conserve the Canadian pulpwood forests.

And if in Canada, why not in the United States, where there is less timber and more straw? Cornstalks, which used to be mostly waste, are now, as silage, turned into beef, milk and butter. If straw, which probably represents the biggest wastage still left on the American farm, can be turned into newspapers, it will save the forests and make money for farmers.

WHEN THE POLICE START THINKING.

Either the secretary of the Los Angeles civil service commission is a practical joker or the first order of the members of the Los Angeles police department are a lot of unconscious humorists. Let the reader decide:

Some time ago an examination was held in the Fillum City for patrolmen who desired to qualify for future vacancies among the sergeants. Naturally, the candidates for promotion were numerous.

Afterwards the secretary of the commission, in going over the papers, compiled certain questions, with the answers to those questions, and made copies of them and distributed them among his friends. On his word of honor he swore that he had changed no single word and that, if anybody doubted his word, he had the original papers on file in his office to prove it.

Be that as it may, here is the collection:

Question: What would you do in case of a race riot?

Answer: Get the number of both cars.

Question: What is sabotage?

Answer: Breaking the laws of the Sabbath.

Question: Name an act that would constitute reckless driving.

Answer: Driving without due regard to the Presbyterians on the street.

Question: What is arson?

Answer: Mistreating a woman.

Question: What first-aid treatment would you give a person having an epileptic fit?

Answer: Take him to a doctor and have the bite treated.

Question: What are the rabies and what would you do for them?

Answer: Rabies are Jewish priests and I would be very glad to do anything I could for them.

Question: To what extent may an officer use force in effecting an arrest.

Answer: Use good common sense, and if not capable, summon help.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—Hollywood dinners are mostly buffet. Thus no embarrassment. A hostess may invite 15 and 50 will arrive. The camaraderie is close knit and "crashing the gate" is not considered a breach of etiquette nor does it offend.

Last night at George Van Cleve's I met more of those who had attained Hollywood celebrity. Tom Mix was there in correct dinner dress but clinging to the wide, white two gallon hat of the pampas. Jack Pickford who is considered Hollywood's neatest dancer.

Anita Stewart who is going in for voice culture on the side. Fragile Lila Lee and her robust husband, James Kirkwood. Carmel Myers who has a flair for poetry. Charles Christy who with his brother Al built the first studio in Hollywood. G. G. Young, the publisher, who collects stamps when not civic promoting.

Marion Davies was also there. She is the Hollywood hoyden—the life of every party and considered the best story teller in the colony. Also Elinor Glyn in severe black with tufts of fiery red hair peeping from under a wide Gainsborough hat.

Bebe Daniels—whose off hours are spent flushing out antiques—and her mother. Several who had come out here for the last great adventure and were in the bloom of rugged health. Cecil De Mille, coming late from the studio, to tell a good story.

It was the sort of party to which I might have taken Aunt Het, who has spells, with her knitting and she would have never dropped a stitch. There was a cycle of songs by a London singer, a duet, a piano number and several amusing slitherings of the Black Bottom.

Afterward some drifted off to bridge, others danced and still others paired off into chatting groups. I am still on the trail of a "wild" Hollywood party where they stay out later than midnight. But too many must be at the studios early, it seems, for that.

Elinor Glyn's chief fame perhaps lies in her novel "Three Weeks." One expects to find an exotic lady a little aflame with varying emotions. She is instead soft spoken, sedate and the sort usually described as "motherly."

It has been a dream when my ship comes in to buy the famous Bernheimer Japanese mansion poised with such delicate grace on the Hollywood hills. Today I met its new owner Joe Toplitzky. He is a New York youth in his thirties with a collegiate look and boyish smile. He is one of those young Americans to spring up like a Jack-in-the-box from nowhere to astounding wealth. His realty holdings are in the millions and his hat fits him still.

Early this morning I visited the Valentino estate in Beverly hills It has been ravaged of its treasures for public auction and the home seemed an empty echo of an amazing glory. I remained there only a few moments.

There are very few taxicabs in Los Angeles for the simple reason there is one private auto to every three persons in the town. Taxis are used by hotel visitors and in a rain by Los Angelans and that is all. I have always believed ramshackled, loud patterned taxis spoiled the beauty of many streets. This is proven in Los Angeles.

Hollywood streets in the evening resemble somewhat the popular notion. Here you see the sheiks and Shebas strolling about. Also those lisping infants whose mouths are pused in perpetual puckers, thrumming the one stringed ukes. And hoping to be discovered by Mons. Griffith

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

How Salt is Produced.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—Salt is said to be the most universally uesd article of food known to mankind. It is so common and so cheap that when one wishes to disparage a man the expression, "He's not worth his salt," is frequently used, and on the other hand it is so important and of such excellence in savouring food that it is a term of the highest praise to say of a man that he is the salt intervened.

Wars have been waged over sources of salt supply, salt has been used as a medium of exchange, many of the ancient trade routes were laid out for the transportation of salt, soldiers of the Roman Empire at one time were paid in part in salt, salt taxes in the olden days were found a prolific source of revenue, and quite recently some natives in Ecuador were killed when, desperate for need of salt, they attempted to raid a government warehouse and seize a supply. In fact, salt's value to man has been comparable to that of water, and man has shown that he will do almost anything to possess himself of this essential condiment

Salt is produced either by the evaporation of sea or other salt water or by mining. In some of the latter processes it is mined like coal; in others the said deposits are reduced to brine and then pumped or forced out. Europe goes in largely for the former process. At Wieliczka, in Austria, is one of the most famous of the old world salt mines, opened up in 1608, that is said to be even yet the largest in the world. It is 984 feet deep and extends 300 feet below sea level. In the mine are over 25 miles of railroad converging in a central station that has been carved out of solid salt, and there is an enormous salt room in the mine in which many royal fetes have been held. More than 1200 miners are employed. At Sperenberg, Germany, is another famous salt deposit that is known to be over 3,000 feet in thickness.

A Colonial Salt Works.

In colonial days in this country salt was secured by allowing sea water to evaporate in open pans. The product was not pure, but it was the best obtainable. The first salt works for producing this crude article was operated in Virginia along about 1620.

The more extensive deposits of salt in the United States are found in New York, Michigan, Ohio, Louisiana, Kansas, Texas, California, Nevada, Utah, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In New York, Michigan and Ohio the deposits are found at depths varying from 1,200 to 2,700 feet; in some of the Kansas fields, at a depth of only 100 feet. Some of the New York and Kansas beds are fully 300 feet in thickness.

By the more modern mining processes generally used in this country, wells are drilled into the salt bed and two pipes, one inside the other, are sunk to the bottom of the wells. Then water is forced down the outer pipe under great pressure to dissolve the salt and be returned as brine through the inner pipe. In a few plants the water is permitted to flow into the wells from natural sources and the brine is pumped out.

From the well houses the brine is conveyed to enourmous settling tanks, which may be two or three stories in height, and are used for the precipitation of the impurities in the salt. After the impurities have left the brine it is pumped into huge storage tanks where it presents a beautifully clear, sparkling appearance. Looking down from the top, the bottom of the tank may be seen as clearly as if no liquid interevened.

As the first step in forcing the brine to give up its salt, explains M. H. Joffe, of the Colonial Salt company, of Akron, it is preheated. From this point two paths may be taken, one leading to the vacuum pans where hard cube salt is made, and the other to the grainer where the soft, porous, flaky variety is produced. The grainer is a vast hollow vat. Steam pipes run through its entire length, and below the pipes are ingenious automatic rakes. As the temperature of the brine is increased, and the water begins to evaporate, the point is soon reached where the salt leaves the solution and falls like snow to the bottom.

Final Drying Done in Kilns.

The flow of the brine and the temperature are carefully controlled, so that a constant formation of salt is secured, continues Mr. Joffe. The automatic rakes travel along the bottom of the grainer, and the accumulating salt is slowly worked toward the fornt where it is carried up a slight incline. There most of the water drains out. More moisture is driven out by a series of centrifugal machines to which wide belt conveyors carry the wet salt, but the finel drying is done in the kiln driers.

A kiln drier is nothing more than a boiler plate cylinder mounted horizontally and at a slight incline. A series of narrow shelves are arranged equidistant around the inner surface for the entire length of the drier. In the center is a cylindrical drum, also running the entire length of the drier, which is kept extremely hot by means of steam coils inside. The drier rotates slowly and the salt from the centrifugal machine as it enters at one end, drops from the shelf to the hot drum in the center. This operation is repeated hundreds of times during its slow journey through the drier.

Next the dried salt is conveyed to the screening department where it passes over a series of screens of differing mesh. The fine salt drops through at the first or finest mesh screen, of course, and so on, until at the end of the very coarse salt is screened. Each grade has its own storage bins, where it is ready for packing and shipping.

Cube salt is made by placing the huge tops. Some of the air in these the brine in containers that resemble vacuum pans, which are pans only in name, is removed so that the water or brine in them will boil at a lower temperature than in the open air. This process produces salt much more economically than the grainer, it is stated, but it is a salt of hard crystalline character that is much less soluable than the flake salt produced by the grainer.

The differing types of salt to be found in the market are prepared by adding certain ingredients to pure salt. The common variety of free-running table salt is made by adding a small amount of magnesium carbonate or similar material, and iodized salt, of which much is now heard, is produced by the addition of a very small amount of sodium iodide.

Included in a modern salt plant are the shops where barrels and boxes paper cartons of various shapes and sizes and cloth sacks are made. Also there bust be a printing plant for turning out the labels that are used on the containers.

Brine is very corrosive and the machinery in a salt plant wears out very quickly.

Not Guilty

Confidence in the honesty of baseball since the outlawing of principals in the "fixed" world series of 1919, was strengthened yesterday by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis' decision exonerating Eddie Collins, of the Philadelphia Athletics; Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Ray Schalk, pilot of the Chicago White Sox; Clarence Rowland and others of charges preferred by Charles (Swede) Risberg and Arnold (Chick) Gandil, discredited players.

The baseball commissioner, accepting the testimony of the accused men that they had not been implicated in any crookedness, and comparing it with the statements of Risberg and Gandil, barred from participation in major league games because of their alleged complicity in "thrown" games, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The decision was no suprise to the fans, for the 33 men named in charges of a "sloughed" series between the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox had emphatically denied on the witness stand any knowledge of wrongdoing in the playing the games. And the Judge Landis believed their stories.

On the other hand, the supreme court of the national pastime, like most of the fans, took little stock in the statements of Risberg and Gandil, for they had nothing to lose and everything to gain by the so-called expose. And, too, it was hinted that their expenses, and probably other compensation, in connection with the investigation were paid by sources outside of baseball.

The only disappointment to the public in the exoneration of the men named in the Risberg-Gandil allegations was the fact that Judge Landis made no reference to the charges made by Hubert (Dutch) Leonard against Tris Speaker and Tyrus Cobb, former pilots of the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians. Both men are urging that the baseball commissioner define their status, and it will prove no surprise if they, too, are given a clean bill of health.

And at the same time, it is hoped that the judge shall pass upon the application of George (Buck) Weaver, star third baseman of the White Sox in the alleged "fixed" series with the Cincinnati Reds, for reinstatement. Weaver, one of the best infielders the national pastime has seen, always insisted, and many fans have believed him, that he was innocent of any complicity in the 1919 scandal. He refused to support Risberg and Gandil in their charges, and in concluding his testimony, in which he said he declined to contribute to a pool for Detroit pitchers, requested restoration to good standing. And Judge Landis has promised to act upon the request.

Within the next week or 10 days, finis probably will be written on all cases of alleged crookedness in the game. And it is a foregone conclusion that the revelations will serve as a warning in the future. The investigation should prove beneficial to the game.

Italian Saber-Rattling

War between France and Italy? Some writers see this possibility in the news that six Fascist legions have been mobilized along the French border. The French are reported to have sent troops in their turn as a counter-demonstration.

The mutual ill-will of the two countries had its chief origin a few months ago, when Mussolini denounced France for permitting criticism of the Italian government. Later it developed that Italy was hiring agents in France to work up conspiracies against Fascist rule, in order to be able to complain that these plots were hatched on French soil. (Among these agents was the grandson of the great Garibaldi). In other words, Mussolini was manufacturing his own grievances.

Unquestionably relations are strained, but war is unlikely. Not long ago prophets foretold immediate war between Italy and Germany. Now these countries have signed a ten-year arbitration treaty. Today the Italians threaten France; tomorrow it may be Turkey, where Mussolini sees an outlet for Italy's surplus population.

Italy has nothing to gain by war with France or Germany. The present hostile demonstrations probably aim only to flatter Italy's self-esteem and distract popular discontent. If any foreign blow is meant, Turkey is the most likely country to receive it.

Straw Print Paper

A plant now being installed in Edmonston, Canada, will turn out newsprint paper from straw. Apparently a process has been devised for transferring this rather difficult material into a pulp smooth and white enough for the purpose.

It is a good use for the strawstacks of the great Canadian wheat belt, and should do much to conserve the Canadian pulpwood forests.

And if in Canada, why not in the United States, where there is less timber and more straw? Cornstalks, which used to be mostly waste, are now, as silage, turned into beef, milk and butter. If straw, which probably represents the biggest wastage still left on the American farm, can be turned into newspapers, it will save the forests and make money for farmers.

Some time ago an examination was held in the Fillum City for patrolmen who desired to qualify for future vacancies among the sergeants. Naturally, the candidates for promotion were numerous.

Afterwards the secretary of the commission, in going over the papers, compiled certain questions, with the answers to those questions, and made copies of them and distributed them among his friends. NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—Hollywood dinners are mostly buffet. Thus no embarrassment. A hostess may invite 15 and 50 will arrive. The camaraderie is close knit and "crashing the gate" is not considered a breach of etiquette nor does it offend.

Last night at George Van Cleve's I met more of those who had attained Hollywood celebrity. Tom Mix was there in correct dinner dress but clinging to the wide, white two gallon hat of the pampas. Jack Pickford who is considered Hollywood's neatest dancer.

Anita Stewart who is going in for voice culture on the side. Fragile Lila Lee and her robust husband, James Kirkwood. Carmel Myers who has a flair for poetry. Charles Christy who with his brother Al built the first studio in Hollywood. G. G. Young, the publisher, who collects stamps when not civic promoting.

Marion Davies was also there. She is the Hollywood hoyden—the life of every party and considered the best story teller in the colony. Also Elinor Glyn in severe black with tufts of fiery red hair peeping from under a wide Gainsborough hat.

Bebe Daniels—whose off hours are spent flushing out antiques—and her mother. Several who had come out here for the last great adventure and were in the bloom of rugged health. Cecil De Mille, coming late from the studio, to tell a good story.

It was the sort of party to which I might have taken Aunt Het, who has spells, with her knitting and she would have never dropped a stitch. There was a cycle of songs by a London singer, a duet, a piano number and several amusing slitherings of the Black Bottom.

Afterward some drifted off to bridge, others danced and still others paired off into chatting groups. I am still on the trail of a "wild" Hollywood party where they stay out later than midnight. But too many must be at the studios early, it seems, for that.

Elinor Glyn's chief fame perhaps lies in her novel "Three Weeks." One expects to find an exotic lady a little aflame with varying emotions. She is instead soft spoken, sedate and the sort usually described as "motherly."

It has been a dream when my ship comes in to buy the famous Bernheimer Japanese mansion poised with such delicate grace on the Hollywood hills. Today I met its new owner Joe Toplitzky. He is a New York youth in his thirties with a collegiate look and boyish smile. He is one of those young Americans to spring up like a Jack-in-the-box from nowhere to astounding wealth. His realty holdings are in the millions and his hat fits him still.

Early this morning I visited the Valentino estate in Beverly hills It has been ravaged of its treasures for public auction and the home seemed an empty echo of an amazing glory. I remained there only a few moments.

There are very few taxicabs in Los Angeles for the simple reason there is one private auto to every three persons in the town. Taxis are used by hotel visitors and in a rain by Los Angelans and that is all. I have always believed ramshackled, loud patterned taxis spoiled the beauty of many streets. This is proven in Los Angeles.

Hollywood streets in the evening resemble somewhat the popular notion. Here you see the sheiks and Shebas strolling about. Also those lisping infants whose mouths are pused in perpetual puckers, thrumming the one stringed ukes. And hoping to be discovered by Mons. Griffith

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

How Salt is Produced.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—Salt is said to be the most universally uesd article of food known to mankind. It is so common and so cheap that when one wishes to disparage a man the expression, "He's not worth his salt," is frequently used, and on the other hand it is so important and of such excellence in savouring food that it is a term of the highest praise to say of a man that he is the salt intervened.

Wars have been waged over sources of salt supply, salt has been used as a medium of exchange, many of the ancient trade routes were laid out for the transportation of salt, soldiers of the Roman Empire at one time were paid in part in salt, salt taxes in the olden days were found a prolific source of revenue, and quite recently some natives in Ecuador were killed when, desperate for need of salt, they attempted to raid a government warehouse and seize a supply. In fact, salt's value to man has been comparable to that of water, and man has shown that he will do almost anything to possess himself of this essential condiment.

Salt is produced either by the evaporation of sea or other salt water or by mining. In some of the latter processes it is mined like coal; in others the said deposits are reduced to brine and then pumped or forced out. Europe goes in largely for the former process. At Wieliczka, in Austria, is one of the most famous of the old world salt mines, opened up in 1608, that is said to be even yet the largest in the world. It is 984 feet deep and extends 300 feet below sea level. In the mine are over 25 miles of railroad converging in a central station that has been carved out of solid salt, and there is an enormous salt room in the mine in which many royal fetes have been held. More than 1200 miners are employed. At Sperenberg, Germany, is another famous salt deposit that is known to be over 3,000 feet in thickness.

A Colonial Salt Works.

In colonial days in this country salt was secured by allowing sea water to evaporate in open pans. The product was not pure, but it was the best obtainable. The first salt works for producing this crude article was operated in Virginia along about 1620.

The more extensive deposits of salt in the United States are found in New York, Michigan, Ohio, Louisiana, Kansas, Texas, California, Nevada, Utah, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In New York, Michigan and Ohio the deposits are found at depths varying from 1,200 to 2,700 feet; in some of the Kansas fields, at a depth of only 100 feet. Some of the New York and Kansas beds are fully 300 feet in thickness.

By the more modern mining processes generally used in this country, wells are drilled into the salt bed and two pipes, one inside the other, are sunk to the bottom of the wells. Then water is forced down the outer pipe under great pressure to dissolve the salt and be returned as brine through the inner pipe. In a few plants the water is permitted to flow into the wells from natural sources and the brine is pumped out.

From the well houses the brine is conveyed to enourmous settling tanks, which may be two or three stories in height, and are used for the precipitation of the impurities in the salt. After the impurities have left the brine it is pumped into huge storage tanks where it presents a beautifully clear, sparkling appearance. Looking down from the top, the bottom of the tank may be seen as clearly as if no liquid interevened.

As the first step in forcing the brine to give up its salt, explains M. H. Joffe, of the Colonial Salt company, of Akron, it is preheated. From this point two paths may be taken, one leading to the vacuum pans where hard cube salt is made, and the other to the grainer where the soft, porous, flaky variety is produced. The grainer is a vast hollow vat. Steam pipes run through its entire length, and below the pipes are ingenious automatic rakes. As the temperature of the brine is increased, and the water begins to evaporate, the point is soon reached where the salt leaves the solution and falls like snow to the bottom.

Final Drying Done in Kilns.

The flow of the brine and the temperature are carefully controlled, so that a constant formation of salt is secured, continues Mr. Joffe. The automatic rakes travel along the bottom of the grainer, and the accumulating salt is slowly worked toward the fornt where it is carried up a slight incline. There most of the water drains out. More moisture is driven out by a series of centrifugal machines to which wide belt conveyors carry the wet salt, but the finel drying is done in the kiln driers.

In the center is a cylindrical drum, also running the entire length of the drier, which is kept extremely hot by means of steam coils inside. The drier rotates slowly and the salt from the centrifugal machine as it enters at one end, drops from the shelf to the hot drum in the center. This operation is repeated hundreds of times during its slow journey through the drier.

Next the dried salt is conveyed to the screening department where it passes over a series of screens of differing mesh. The fine salt drops through at the first or finest mesh screen, of course, and so on, until at the end of the very coarse salt is screened. Each grade has its own storage bins, where it is ready for packing and shipping.

Cube salt is made by placing the huge tops. Some of the air in these the brine in containers that resemble vacuum pans, which are pans only in name, is removed so that the water or brine in them will boil at a lower temperature than in the open air. This process produces salt much more economically than the grainer, it is stated, but it is a salt of hard crystalline character that is much less soluable than the flake salt produced by the grainer.

The differing types of salt to be found in the market are prepared by adding certain ingredients to pure salt. SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, narrator of the tale, is an American employed by a bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to visit the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying abroad. During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the league is discussing the illicit drug traffic. At the municipal casino he sees a stout, flashily dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a dancing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marce—calls on him and demands the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped, made prisoner in a house outside the city and questioned by a Japanese. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door, which he cannot open, but through which finally comes a shaft of light.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Something was happening to the door, and I watched it breathlessly. Some sort of panel had slipped back, disclosing a square opening in the middle, through the light was streaming. Presently a bare hand and arm came slowly through the aperture, and began groping at my side of the door. I held my breath, and could hear the scratch and patter of fingers as the hand probed this way and that. Presently it stopped, and a thumb pressed hard a small knot in the middle of the door. Nothing happened, however, and I heard an exclamation of annoyance from the unseeen owner of the arm. After some further fumbling and pressing, the arm was withdrawn, and I heard a voice saying in French, with a strange foreign accent, which I could not immediately place:

"The door is jammed. I must get some oil."

The arm vanished, and I heard footsteps upon the farther side. The panel, however, was not closed, and creeping up to it I cautiously applied my eyes to the hole.

This is what I saw. Half lying, half kneeling on a heap of straw was the little man whom I had met at Dijon who had behaved so mysteriously, and who had so strangely disappeared during the night. I recognized him immediately by his oddly contrasting chin and mustache, though he was no longer wearing the horn spectacles. His wrists were bound to his ankles, and his whole body bent back in an attitude of considerable strain. His face was white, dirty and streaked with sweat, and every now and again

A bare hand and arm came slowly through the aperture.

he moaned. I no longer had any doubt as to his identity.

It was the man from New York!

Opposite the man from New York was another familiar figure—none other than the fat Italian Baldassare Marce. His back was toward me, and he was shouting something to an unseen person whose steps were faintly retreating. Then he turned to my friend from Dijon, the man who, according to the Japanese whom I had met in the room with the silken hangings, "had to go." Nor was I left long in doubt as to the manner of his going.

"Why not end this ceremony quickly, brother?" said my late companion. "Isn't there any member of this concern who can shoot a gun?"

The Italian laughed.

"Plenty, mio povere Americano," he said in English. "You've got to 'quit,' as you say in America. Persons who get up against the Center usually do quit sooner or later, but you ought to feel yourself flattered. The old well has not been used since the Middle Ages. This is the way into Count Emilco's passage. He was a great lord on the lake in the twelfth century, and this house is all that remains of his castle. A fine man was Count Emilco. He disliked strangers who spied upon him and little rats of foreigners. So he gave them the home of a rat to live in and the death of a rat to die."

The American groaned. This Italian rhetoric was clearly not to his fancy, and I could quite understand his point of view. I was myself overcome with horror as I listened, but before I could make up my mind what to do next, I heard footsteps returning. A moment later the door into the cellar was flung open and a little Japanese entered, carrying a lantern which lit up his impassive yellow countenance.

"There is oil," he said, "but where is sack and what have you done with pole?"

Baldassare glared at him.

"What's the matter with you, Fug!? I left them for you to bring along. I suppose I must go and get them myself while you attend to the door."

Baldassare departed, grumbling, up the steps.

The little Japanese hung the lantern on a hook in the middle of the cellar and approached the aperture. I stooped and watched his bare yellow arm as it came through the crack and made its way towards the knot of wood. Presently I heard a creaking, and with much protesting the door began to slide sideways into the wall.

At that instant I made up my mind. I crouched down, making myself as small as I could on the side of the wall into which the door was disappearing. Fortunately it had not been used for a long while, for it stuck several times, and finally stopped with some six inches still protruding from the wall, thus screening me partially from view. I took a hasty peep at the little Japanese.

His back was towards me, and he was bending down to look at my American friend. I took a stealthy step forward, and raising the leg of the couch, hit him as hard as I could behind the ear. He fell forward with a slight groan beside my late traveling companion.

The American uttered a cry of astonishment.

"It's all right," I assured him. "Quick. We must do something."

I went to the little Japanese and examined him. I had dealt him a shrewd blow. He was quite unconscious, and for all I knew he might be dead. I did not stop to look further, but turned my attention to his prisoner. The late schoolmaster from the Middle West was on his knees, bewildered.

"Don't you remember me," I said. "We met at Dijon yesterday. I'm lending a friendly hand if it's any use to you."

He looked at me, puzzled for a moment, then his expression cleared.

"Holy Mike," he said, "and I had begun to think you were one of the bunch."

I felt in my pocket for a knife.

"Can you lock the cellar door?" he asked. "The Italian will be back in a moment, and we would like to be private."

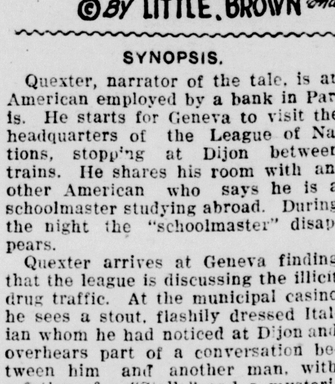

His voice broke, and I saw he was on the edge of hysteria—a fact that explained his nervous behavior at Dijon.

I unhooked the lantern and looked at the door. It was of heavy timber and stood ajar. Feeling outside with my hand I discovered the key. I pulled it out of the lock, shut the door and locked it on the inside.

"It will take him some time to get through that," I said.

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, narrator of the tale, is an American employed by a bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to visit the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying abroad. During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the league is discussing the illicit drug traffic. At the municipal casino he sees a stout, flashily dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a dancing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marce—calls on him and demands the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped, made prisoner in a house outside the city and questioned by a Japanese. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door, which he cannot open, but through which finally comes a shaft of light.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Something was happening to the door, and I watched it breathlessly. Some sort of panel had slipped back, disclosing a square opening in the middle, through the light was streaming. Presently a bare hand and arm came slowly through the aperture, and began groping at my side of the door. I held my breath, and could hear the scratch and patter of fingers as the hand probed this way and that. Presently it stopped, and a thumb pressed hard a small knot in the middle of the door. Nothing happened, however, and I heard an exclamation of annoyance from the unseeen owner of the arm. After some further fumbling and pressing, the arm was withdrawn, and I heard a voice saying in French, with a strange foreign accent, which I could not immediately place:

"The door is jammed. I must get some oil."

The arm vanished, and I heard footsteps upon the farther side. The panel, however, was not closed, and creeping up to it I cautiously applied my eyes to the hole.

This is what I saw. Half lying, half kneeling on a heap of straw was the little man whom I had met at Dijon who had behaved so mysteriously, and who had so strangely disappeared during the night. I recognized him immediately by his oddly contrasting chin and mustache, though he was no longer wearing the horn spectacles. His wrists were bound to his ankles, and his whole body bent back in an attitude of considerable strain. His face was white, dirty and streaked with sweat, and every now and again

A bare hand and arm came slowly through the aperture.

he moaned. I no longer had any doubt as to his identity.

It was the man from New York!

Opposite the man from New York was another familiar figure—none other than the fat Italian Baldassare Marce. His back was toward me, and he was shouting something to an unseen person whose steps were faintly retreating. Then he turned to my friend from Dijon, the man who, according to the Japanese whom I had met in the room with the silken hangings, "had to go." Nor was I left long in doubt as to the manner of his going.

"Why not end this ceremony quickly, brother?" said my late companion. "Isn't there any member of this concern who can shoot a gun?"

The Italian laughed.

"Plenty, mio povere Americano," he said in English. "You've got to 'quit,' as you say in America. Persons who get up against the Center usually do quit sooner or later, but you ought to feel yourself flattered. The old well has not been used since the Middle Ages. This is the way into Count Emilco's passage. He was a great lord on the lake in the twelfth century, and this house is all that remains of his castle. A fine man was Count Emilco. He disliked strangers who spied upon him and little rats of foreigners. So he gave them the home of a rat to live in and the death of a rat to die."

The American groaned. This Italian rhetoric was clearly not to his fancy, and I could quite understand his point of view. I was myself overcome with horror as I listened, but before I could make up my mind what to do next, I heard footsteps returning. A moment later the door into the cellar was flung open and a little Japanese entered, carrying a lantern which lit up his impassive yellow countenance.

"There is oil," he said, "but where is sack and what have you done with pole?"

Baldassare glared at him.

"What's the matter with you, Fug!? I left them for you to bring along. I suppose I must go and get them myself while you attend to the door."

Baldassare departed, grumbling, up the steps.

The little Japanese hung the lantern on a hook in the middle of the cellar and approached the aperture. I stooped and watched his bare yellow arm as it came through the crack and made its way towards the knot of wood. Presently I heard a creaking, and with much protesting the door began to slide sideways into the wall.

At that instant I made up my mind. I crouched down, making myself as small as I could on the side of the wall into which the door was disappearing. Fortunately it had not been used for a long while, for it stuck several times, and finally stopped with some six inches still protruding from the wall, thus screening me partially from view. I took a hasty peep at the little Japanese.

His back was towards me, and he was bending down to look at my American friend. I took a stealthy step forward and raising the leg of the couch, hit him as hard as I could behind the ear. He fell forward with a slight groan beside my late traveling companion.

The American uttered a cry of astonishment.

"It's all right," I assured him. "Quick. We must do something."

I went to the little Japanese and examined him. I had dealt him a shrewd blow. He was quite unconscious, and for all I knew he might be dead. I did not stop to look further, but turned my attention to his prisoner. The late schoolmaster from the Middle West was on his knees, bewildered.

"Don't you remember me," I said. "We met at Dijon yesterday. I'm lending a friendly hand if it's any use to you."

He looked at me, puzzled for a moment, then his expression cleared.

"Holy Mike," he said, "and I had begun to think you were one of the bunch."

I felt in my pocket for a knife.

"Can you lock the cellar door?" he asked. "The Italian will be back in a moment, and we would like to be private."

His voice broke, and I saw he was on the edge of hysteria—a fact that explained his nervous behavior at Dijon.

I unhooked the lantern and looked at the door. It was of heavy timber and stood ajar. Feeling outside with my hand I discovered the key. I pulled it out of the lock, shut the door and locked it on the inside.

"It will take him some time to get through that," I said.

Prague Municipality Accepts Program for Electrical Railroads

PRAGUE.—Headed by the Mayor, M. Baxa, the municipality of Prague has practically accepted a scheme for underground electric railroads.

Numerous offers have been made both by American and German financiers in the past few years to float similar concerns; but there has been considerable opposition to the idea of using foreign money in city enterprise.

The outlying inhabitants welcome the scheme with enthusiasm because, until now, street cars have been their only means of transportation. It is estimated that 44,000 passengers will be transported in one hour by the new system at the busy hours of the day, and that there will be a minute service of trains, travelling at 17 miles per hour.

The total cost will be 110,000,000 Czech crowns.

ROAD BUILDING TOPIC AT MEET

Farmers of State Told $35,000,000 Needed to Complete System.

Approximately $35,000,000 will be required to complete West Virginia's system of state highways, declared F. O. Sanders, head of the transportation division of the state road commission in an address delivered last night before more than 400 men and women attending the annual farmers' week convention at the state university, Morgantown.

Mr. Sanders said that the system contains 3,780 miles of highways, 1,800 miles of which are surfaced, 1,150 miles are graded and 830 miles are unimproved. The average costs are $26,000 a mile for hard surfacing, $15,000 for grading and drainage only, and $5,000 for graveling. The grading of the unimproved roads in the state system would cost about $12,500,000.

For 1926, the state had receipts of $3,700,000 from license fees and $2,925,000 from a gasoline tax. Of this amount, $4,225,000 was used for the sinking fund and interest on the $50,000,000 state road bond issue leaving $2,400,000 to supplement a $450,000 legislative appropriation for the maintainance of highways and other expenses of the state road commission. With this sum, the commission has been able to allot only $750 a mile for maintenance, whereas a minimum of $1,000 a mile should be set aside, he said.

Sanders estimated that about $8,000,000 a year should be available for the completion of the state system, but did not propose any means of raising this money, however, other than to say that four means were possible; an additional bond issue, a direct state levy, an increase in the gasoline tax, or an appropriation out of the general state funds raised by indirect taxation.

Sanders asked the farmers to regard the state's road-building activities as confined to the completion and maintenance of the state highway system, and to depend upon counties to handle local problems that the state had no means of solving.

BRITONS MADE MAD AS SPAIN TAKES RAILWAY

Madrid-Portugal Line Directors are Indignant.

ROAD IS SEIZED

See Government Plan to Nationalize Transportation System.

LONDON—British directors of the Madrid and Portugal Direct Railway (Avila and Salamanca) Ltd.—which was built by British capital—are frantically indignant at the Spanish government's alleged unwarrantable confiscation of the line.

The annual report, signed by John Kitching, Chairman of Directors, states that the company, on the faith of the Spanish Government Commissary's report on the brilliant traffic prospects, took up the concession granted in 1888 of the projected railway from Avila to Salamanca, a distance of about 69 miles.

"The concession carried no Government subvention or assistance of any kind, nor freedom from import duties on construction materials, and the line had to be completed by 1896. The section from Salamanca to Peneranda, about 25 miles, was constructed entirely with British capital, and opened for traffic in 1894, but owing to the unsatisfactory position of Spain, both financial and political it was found impossible to raise the further moneys required for the construction of the line between Peneranda and Avila.

Government Refused.

"The company offer to the Spanish government either to surrender the concession as applying to the Peneranda-Avila section, thus forfeiting the considerable expenditure already incurred thereon, or to finish the line throughout if granted the assistance usual to Spanish railroads—a cash subvention per kilometre and freedom from import duties on materials.

"The Spanish government refused both offers, and although the company had operated the Salamanca-Peranda section efficiently and satisfactorily since 1894, and at a loss to itself, the government, in 1906, purely as the result of local political pressure declared the commission in a state of forfeiture.

"In 1908, after having officially valued the existing line at some 210,000 pounds, and offerd it three times by public auction, as required by the law, but without success, the government took forcible possession of the property without any compensation whatever.

To Nationalize Lines.

The Spanish government thence forward has claimed the railroad as its own property.

"The efforts of the directors having failed, there appears no chance of the debenture holders, and still less of the shareholders, receiving anything.

This company adds one more to the disastrous failures of Spanish railways, which, with only two or three exceptions, pay little or nothing to their original investors. It is said that the Spanish government intends to nationalize its railways. In the case of this company it has made a very cheap beginning."

GORE SUBMITS SHORT MESSAGE

Governmental economy measures, removal of restriction on financing road work, and the clarifying of evic tion laws affecting houses owned by employers and occupied by employes were among the recommendations to the legislature presented by Gov. Howard M. Gore today.

In one of the shortest biennial messages of recent years, the governor referred to report to be made to the legislature by special commissions and indicated that he would present further recommendation and suggestions, as the occasion arose, on the subjects of thse re orts and on other matters on which he touched briefly.

The message was subdivided into discussion of industrial peace, removal of the state auditor from office, the budget, roads, election methods, taxes, prohibition, water power, the state capitol and insurance.

ROAD BUILDING TOPIC AT MEET

Farmers of State Told $35,000,000 Needed to Complete System.

Approximately $35,000,000 will be required to complete West Virginia's system of state highways, declared F. O. Sanders, head of the transportation division of the state road commission in an address delivered last night before more than 400 men and women attending the annual farmers' week convention at the state university, Morgantown.

Mr. Sanders said that the system contains 3,780 miles of highways, 1,800 miles of which are surfaced, 1,150 miles are graded and 830 miles are unimproved. The average costs are $26,000 a mile for hard surfacing, $15,000 for grading and drainage only, and $5,000 for graveling. The grading of the unimproved roads in the state system would cost about $12,500,000.

For 1926, the state had receipts of $3,700,000 from license fees and $2,925,000 from a gasoline tax. Of this amount, $4,225,000 was used for the sinking fund and interest on the $50,000,000 state road bond issue leaving $2,400,000 to supplement a $450,000 legislative appropriation for the maintainance of highways and other expenses of the state road commission. With this sum, the commission has been able to allot only $750 a mile for maintenance, whereas a minimum of $1,000 a mile should be set aside, he said.

Sanders estimated that about $8,000,000 a year should be available for the completion of the state system, but did not propose any means of raising this money, however, other than to say that four means were possible; an additional bond issue, a direct state levy, an increase in the gasoline tax, or an appropriation out of the general state funds raised by indirect taxation.

Sanders asked the farmers to regard the state's road-building activities as confined to the completion and maintenance of the state highway system, and to depend upon counties to handle local problems that the state had no means of solving.

BRITONS MADE MAD AS SPAIN TAKES RAILWAY

Madrid-Portugal Line Directors are Indignant.

ROAD IS SEIZED

See Government Plan to Nationalize Transportation System.

LONDON—British directors of the Madrid and Portugal Direct Railway (Avila and Salamanca) Ltd.—which was built by British capital—are frantically indignant at the Spanish government's alleged unwarrantable confiscation of the line.

The annual report, signed by John Kitching, Chairman of Directors, states that the company, on the faith of the Spanish Government Commissary's report on the brilliant traffic prospects, took up the concession granted in 1888 of the projected railway from Avila to Salamanca, a distance of about 69 miles.

"The concession carried no Government subvention or assistance of any kind, nor freedom from import duties on construction materials, and the line had to be completed by 1896. The section from Salamanca to Peneranda, about 25 miles, was constructed entirely with British capital, and opened for traffic in 1894, but owing to the unsatisfactory position of Spain, both financial and political it was found impossible to raise the further moneys required for the construction of the line between Peneranda and Avila.

Government Refused.

"The company offer to the Spanish government either to surrender the concession as applying to the Peneranda-Avila section, thus forfeiting the considerable expenditure already incurred thereon, or to finish the line throughout if granted the assistance usual to Spanish railroads—a cash subvention per kilometre and freedom from import duties on materials.

"The Spanish government refused both offers, and although the company had operated the Salamanca-Peranda section efficiently and satisfactorily since 1894, and at a loss to itself, the government, in 1906, purely as the result of local political pressure declared the commission in a state of forfeiture.

"In 1908, after having officially valued the existing line at some 210,000 pounds, and offerd it three times by public auction, as required by the law, but without success, the government took forcible possession of the property without any compensation whatever.

To Nationalize Lines.

The Spanish government thence forward has claimed the railroad as its own property.

"The efforts of the directors having failed, there appears no chance of the debenture holders, and still less of the shareholders, receiving anything.

This company adds one more to the disastrous failures of Spanish railways, which, with only two or three exceptions, pay little or nothing to their original investors. It is said that the Spanish government intends to nationalize its railways. In the case of this company it has made a very cheap beginning."

My Smile

Shows a row of pearls

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I am asked by countless people how I got such pretty teeth. And how I keep them sound and glistening at my age. This is what I tell them.

For many years I spent on my teeth about 30 minutes daily. I used a cleanser, then a polisher, then an antiseptic mouth wash. And I forced magnesia between the teeth to neutralize all acids.

All this I did under dental advice, and I consulted high authorities. But now the great experts have combined all these helps in one tooth paste. I just apply that, and it does in a minute, all I did with many applications.

This new-type dentifrice is called Quindent, which means five in one. It is made by Quindent Laboratories to meet modern requirements. The makers supply me ten-day samples and I will gladly mail one to anyone who asks. The coupon will bring it with my Beauty Book. Even one night's use will bring you new conceptions of a tooth paste.

Q. What is the age of the oldest person at the Soldiers' Home, Washington, D. C.? M. E. W.

A. The oldest member of this home is ninety-three and the youngest is twenty.

Q. Can you tell me about how many people took motor tours last year? S. A. H.

A. The American Automobile association estimates that during last summer 12,000,000 persons in 3,000,000 cars took such trips. This represents those who camped along the way and not those who merely motored from one city to another.

Q. What was the largest cake ever made? G. E. L.

A. Probably the largest cake was that ordered by Frederick William I, King of Prussia, in June 1730. It is said that this contained 36 bushels of flour, 200 gallons of milk, one ton of butter, one ton of yeast, and 5,000 eggs. The finished cake was 18 yards long, 8 yards broad, and more than half a yard thick. It was so large that 30,000 soldiers could not eat it all.

Q. When was the Franklin head changed to the Washington head on one-cent postage stamps? E. A.

A. The change was made on February 12, 1912.

Q. Who introduced Hereford cattle into the United States? E. K.

A. The Bureau of Animal Industry says that Henry Clay was the first to import into the United States Hereford cattle in 1817.

Q. Does the Army operate a laundry service? O. D. S.

A. During the last fiscal year forty laundries were operated. The total earnings of these for the year amounted to $2,086,580.86 as against operating expenses of $1,570,930.36.

Q. Why does water take the form of leaves, ferns, and other crystals when it freezes on a window pane? V. E. S.

A. Frost crystallizations have a great variety and the formation of each of the various types seems to depend upon meteorological and other conditions—some of them obscure. On window panes three types generally form—the granular, crystalline, and membranous. The last variety forms only in heated rooms on panes covered with an uncongealed film of water, as a dew-like condensation of Moisture: It occurs most frequently in the form of long curving feather-like ferns or a net-work of lines. This is due to the process of crystallization taking place during the conversion of a film of water into ice. The crystalline variety forms only on panes that are free from water in liquid form.

Q. What is the probable reason for King David making reference to renewing "thy youth like the eagle's"? F. M. W.

A. The International Critical Commentary of the Bible says with respect to the verse you cite that the metaphor undoubtedly originated in the known longevity of the eagle and the fact that even at the present time an infirm or ailing eagle is hardly known. The ancients were superstitious in their veneration of this bird and endowed it with many supernatural powers which do not exist in actual fact.

Q. When paper money is totally destroyed by fire, is the government treasury enriched? G. A.

A. When paper money is destroyed by fire, theoretically, the United States treasury gains, since it is never called upon to redeem this paper currency.

My Smile

Shows a row of pearls

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I am asked by countless people how I got such pretty teeth. And how I keep them sound and glistening at my age. This is what I tell them.

For many years I spent on my teeth about 30 minutes daily. I used a cleanser, then a polisher, then an antiseptic mouth wash. And I forced magnesia between the teeth to neutralize all acids.

All this I did under dental advice, and I consulted high authorities. But now the great experts have combined all these helps in one tooth paste. I just apply that, and it does in a minute, all I did with many applications.

This new-type dentifrice is called Quindent, which means five in one. It is made by Quindent Laboratories to meet modern requirements. The makers supply me ten-day samples and I will gladly mail one to anyone who asks. The coupon will bring it with my Beauty Book. Even one night's use will bring you new conceptions of a tooth paste.

CONVICTED SLAYER OF DON R. MELLETT ENTERS PRISON

PAT M'DERMOTT TODAY BECAME CONVICT 56,488

Wise-cracking Fails to Impress Warden With Same Initials.

GETS AUTO TRIP

Gives Occupation as Barber as he Begins Life Sentence.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Wise-cracking Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, lost his monicker here today and became No. 56,488 on the records of P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio state penitentiary.

McDermott arrived at the prison late yesterday to begin his life sentence, and get a close-up view of the death house and electric chair he escaped when the jury which found him guilty of first degree murder recommended mercy.

The Nanty Glo, Pa., man grinned and beamed as usual when he and six Stark county deputies rolled to the prison entrance in a big touring car.

"Your initials and mine are the same," Patrick Eugene told the warden as that official put his official "P. E. Thomas' to a document the Canton authorities brought with them.

The warden wasn't in the humor for jokes, and McDermott's repartee was lost on the grim stones of the high prison walls.

Another "Lifer" Arrives.

McDermott gave his occupation as barber, but it is expected he will not labor at that trade for the present. Warden Thomas said today McDermott would not be assigned for any particular duty for the present.

Just before the arrival of McDermott, penitentiary attaches received Montrose Hickman, convicted at Chillicothe with his brother John, for the killing of Patrolman Dan Garrett.

Hickman became No. 56,487, and is to serve a second degree murder life sentence.

John Hickman is in the death house awaiting execution.

Says Five Killed Mellett.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—All suspicion that Jack Lopez, Laredo, Texas, prisoner, might have participated in the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher, at Canton last July, was eliminated here today when Governor Vic Donahey was informed that Lopez was in jail at Sharon, Pa., the night Mellett was murdered.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13. — Claim that five persons, including Pat McDermott, Louis Mazer, Jack Lopez, a man named Palmer and another man, known as "Jackie, the Greek," of Chicago, participated in the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, at Canton last July, is contained in an alleged written confession, signed by Lopez and submitted to Prosecuting Attorney Henry W. Harter, Ja., at Canton, by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey, it became known here today.

McDermott, convicted recently of murdering Mellett, is serving life in the Ohio penitentiary. Mazer is awaiting trial at Canton on a first degree murder charge in connection with the editor's death.

Lopez, a prisoner at Laredo, Texas, has been ordered deported to Mexico, following conviction of a crime in Pennsylvania.

Officials at the office of Governor Donahey today explained that Sisson was sent to Laredo to interview Lopez after the governor received a letter from an U. S. Immigration official there in which belief was expressed that Lopez was "the real murderer of Mellett."

Returning to Columbus with Lopez's confession, Sisson conferred with Governor Donahey and then went to Cleveland Tuesday where he conferred with federal authorities. From Cleveland, Sisson went to Canton where he presented the confession to Prosecutor Harter Wednesday it was stated.

Drove in Stutz Car.

Lopez told Sisson, it was stated at the governor's office, that McDermott, Mazer, Lopez, Palmer, and "Jackie, the Greek," drove in a Stutz car to Mellett's home the night of the murder and that McDermott, "Jackie, the Greek," and Lopez fired the shots at Mellett while Mazer remained in the auto to watch Palmer, the driver, who, according to Lopez, was distrusted, the other members of the party fearing he might "drive off and leave them in the lurch," if someone did not remain in the machine with him.

Officials at the governor's office declared that a number of the statements made by Lopez have been corroborated, but that others have not.

Since Sisson's return from Texas, it was stated, Governor Donahey has been told that Lopez bore a reputation for confessing that he committed or participated in, a number of "murders (?)" Taking no stock in Lopez's alleged confessions, authorities at Canton, and elsewhere, the governor's office was told, have consistently refused to indict Lopez.

Believe Lopez Was in Canton.

Despite the fact that Lopez' alleged confession might turn out to be worthless, Governor Donahey, it was stated, in view of the positive declaration of the Texas federal immigration officer that Lopez helped murder Mellett, felt that nothing should be left undone that might aid in properly punishing the slayers of the editor. It was for this reason, it was said, that Sisson was sent to interview Lopez.

Officials at the governor's office were confident, they stated today, that Lopez was in Canton when Mellett was murdered.

State authorities here were told that the order of deportation to Mexico was based upon the belief that Lopez was a Mexican. It is reported, however, that Mexican authorities claimed Lopez is not a Mexican citizen and will not permit him to enter Mexico.

Some state officials here today voiced the opinion that Lopez, knowing some of the facts connected with the Mellett murder, but not being a participant in the crime itself, concocted his latest alleged confession in the hope that, as a result, he would be returned to Canton and liberated there after the authorities decided they could make no case against him.

GUARD KILLS ARMY PRIVATE

Exoneration Expected in Shooting in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Exoneration for the guard who shot and killed Private John B. Kearns, 25, Philadelphia, is expected today after an investigation by Captain R. E. Jones, adjutant at Fort Hayes.

Kearns, an alleged deserter, held in the guard house here awaiting court-martial, the adjutant reported, sawed his way from his cell and was making a dash for nearby railroad yards when ordered to halt. He failed to comply and the guard shot. Kearns died an hour later in the post hospital with a bullet wound in his head.

Records at the post disclose Kearns deserted from the army signal school, Brooklyn, and was captured January 3 at Pittsburgh. He was brought to the Columbus post January 4.

Kearns' home address was given as 1654 Ridge street, Frankford, Philadelphia.

DR. COPELAND TELLS HOW TO WARD OFF FLU

Re-appearance of Disease Prompts Hints by Medical Authority.

CONDUCT RULES

Senator Says Influence is Generally Hand-conveyed.

(Editor's Note—Public health authorities and the medical profession are perturbed over the reappearance of influenza in some sections. While not as virulent apparently as in the war years, it is nevertheless sufficiently widespread to cause alarm. In the following article, Senator Royal S. Copeland (D.) of New York, the senate's medical authority, tells how to avoid the disease.)

BY SENATOR ROYAL S. COPELAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—If we are to have a repetition of the 1918 experience with influenza, let us profit now by what we learned then. What did we learn?

The first things is that influenza is a hand conveyed disease. The spray from the nose and throat carries the germs, and this moisture reaching the lips or the nostrils of another will lead to the infection of the susceptible person. But the common way to get the germs is from the hands of the influenza patients who pass the germs to toilet articles, eating utensils, door knobs, pencils, or anything liable to be handled by others. More commonly, of course, hand to hand contact is the way the infection is conveyed.

Lowered physical vitality, fear, fatigue, poor ventilation, loss of sleep, and any act which lowers resistance, will prepare the way for the germs of dread influenza.

The following are rules of conduct which will help to ward off the disease:

1—Wash the hands frequently and invariably do so before eating.

2—Keep the hands from the face, and, on returning home at night, wash the face with soap and abundance of water. Wash out the openings of the nostrils whenever the face is bathed.

3—Brush the teeth thoroughly three times a day.

4—If you have occasion to cough or sneeze, cover the face with the handkerchief, and, under no circumstances, receive in your face the moist blast of another's sneezing or coughing.

5—Eat in no place where the table utensils are not boiled in the cleansing process. Eat sparingly whenever and wherever you eat.

6—Sleep a lot in a well ventilated room.

7—Go about your affairs calmly and unafraid.

8—If you find yourself sneezing, with eyes running, and a feeling of feverishness, go home, take a hot bath, and go to bed. If you are not right the next morning, call your doctor.

Epidemic in Philippines.

MANILA, Jan. 13.—The Philippine islands were being swept by an epidemic of influenza today. Health officers declared that several thousand cases have been reported, but owing to those who refuse to consult physicians the exact number of cases is not definitely known.

Authorities said that deaths so far were less than a hundred.

Thousands died in the Philippines during the epidemic of 1918, the disease being especially virulent among the mountain tribes.

One Stolen Auto Recovered; Another Machine Abandoned

Ford touring car, belonging to Elmer Crawford, Allison street insurance agent, stolen while parked on Broadway Tuesday night, was found last evening by police on Dresden avenue where it had been abandoned. The car was not damaged except for a torn side curtain.

Sedan belonging to J. C. Springer, which was stolen while parked in front of his home on Thompson avenue, last evening, was located a few hours later. "Joy riders" are believed to have "borrowed" both machines.

Bolshevik Troops And Gunboat Fire Upon Roumanians

LONDON, Jan. 13. — Bolshevik troops aided by a soviet gunboat have made an attack upon the Roumanian frontier near Bugaz, according to an official communique issued in Bucharest, dispatches from the Roumanian capital said today.

The Bolshevik soldiers are reported to have crossed the Dniester and opened a machine-gun attack upon the Roumanian outpost.

After a sharp exchange of shots the Bolsheviks were driven back towards Odessa, with the loss of one Roumanian.

Scion of Wealth is Arrested.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 13.—Richard Ray, 22, who claimed to be the son of a wealthy Indianapolis, Ind., merchant, today was being held under $5,000 bond for grand jury action in a robbery charge now pending against him.

Murder Solved!

The brutal assault and murder of Beulah Purvis, 19, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., is believed solved by the reported statement of Joseph Carr, 23, to Assistant Prosecutor Carl Basler, of Hamilton county, O. The body of Miss Purvis was found battered and bruised on the bank of the Big Miami river near Valley Junction, O., last October 20, just 10 days after she disappeared from home. Carr made his statement to Marshall Andrew Wagner, of Lockland, O., while the latter was questioning him regarding a burglary. Wagner turned him over to the assistant prosecutor.

TRAIN KILLS PROOF READER

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 13.—Roy A. Booth, 21, proof reader for the Morning Times-Recorder, was almost instantly killed at the State street railroad crossing when his auto was struck by a fast B. and O. passenger train at 2:35 o'clock this morning. He died in Bethesda hospital an hour later without regaining consciousness. He was active in Y. M. C. A. gymnasium work and was widely known in "Y" circles.

Government Plans Slap at Ford in Tax Appeals Suit

DETROIT, Jan. 13.—A slap at Henry Ford is being planned by the government as one of its trump cards in the contest to recover about $34,000,000 from former stockholders of the Ford Motor company, it was revealed today.

Alexander W. Gregg, 27-year-old government attorney, revealed that the government will attack the methods used by Henry and Edsel Ford in 1919 when they obtained an advance valuation from the internal revenue department on Ford stock.

MISSIONARIES QUIT WAR ZONE

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Two hundred Americans and 400 British mostly missionaries, are evacuating the Province of Szechon, according to a Hankow dispatch to the Evening News.

Missionaries in the vicinity of Hankow are steadily leaving their posts and taking refuge in the international centers, the dispatch states.

Two Men Killed, Third Injured by Engine Explosion

ROME, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured today by an engine explosion on a New York Central freight train three miles east of here.

The men killed were Thomas Steinbeck, a brakeman, and C. Johnson, a fireman. Moxy Reidell, engineer of the freight, was seriously scalded, and is not expected to live.

The engine was demolished.

Follows Rickard's Plans.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Jack Dempsey is willing to place his activities in the hands of Tex Rickard, even to the extent of meeting the winner of Rickard's heavyweight elmination, Leonard Sachs, secretary of the ex-champion, said today. Sachs held a long distance conversation with Dempsey last night, he said, and that Jack, abandoning his demand for a return bout with Gene Tunney without further ado, had decided to string along with Rickard's plans.

ADD LIFE TO YOUR YEARS

As well as years to your life. Life without health is burdensome and the lack of it casts a shadow over all our activities. Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant to the kidneys, cause a regular, health-giving flow, carrying out of the body in a natural way, that waste matter, which, if not promptly removed, spreads its poisons throughout the entire system, to the detriment of health. Bodily aches, severe pains, a run-down condition of the system, inevitably results. Avoid this. Ask for Foley Pills, diuretic. Sold everywhere.

"ABSURD," SAYS SOVIET ANSWER TO KELLOGG

Denies Bolsheviks are Fomenting Trouble in Central America.

BORAH TO SPEAK

Mexican-Nicaraguan Controversy Rages in Congress.

MOSCOW, Jan. 13.—"The height of absurdity" . . . This was the reply of the soviet foreign office today to the charges of United States Secretary of State Kellogg that Bolsheviks are fomenting troubles in Central America.

"Only Americans could be naive enough to credit such a yarn," said a high official of the soviet foreign office.

Hint Diplomatic Break.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 3.—A severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico at an early date was regarded as inevitable today, as the reaction here to the publication of Secretary of State Kellogg's charges to the senate committee that the Soviet government of Russia was operating here and in Central America against the interests of the United States.

The early recall of Ambassador Sheffield was presaged, as the Ambassador is generally regarded as being responsible for the state department's vigorous attitude toward the protection of American rights.

Denies Sheffield Recall.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Secretary of State Kellogg denied today renewed reports that Ambassador Sheffield is shortly to leave his post at Mexico City.

The secretary's denial was said to refer, however, to reports of Sheffield's retirement, and not to the possibility that he might be withdrawn because of a break in diplomatic relations.

Defeat Anti-administration Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A move to have the house investigate the Mexican-Nicaraguan policy of President Coolidge was squelched in the foreign affairs committee today, when by a vote of 8 to 5, it defeated a motion to bring Secretary of State Kellogg before the committee tomorrow.

The vote followed a sever attack upon administration policy in Latin-America, and a staunch defense of it by the Republican members.

Opposition Without Leader.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Mexican-Nicaraguan controversy continued to burn fiercely in congress today.

Secretary of State Kellogg's open charges of a "red plot" to undermine and destroy American influence in Latin-America, directed from Mexico, had the effect of solidifying wavering Republicans behind the administration program, but it left the leadership of the opposition absolutely cold

The attitude of the Democrats generally was one of "watchful waiting." Some Democrats will support the administration's firm policy below the Rio Grande, others will not, but it was apparent today that the majority prefer to await developments before committing themselves to a party policy. It is likely a Democratic caucus will be called shortly to discuss the situation.

Senator Borah served notice this morning that he would address the senate this afternoon on the American-Nicaraguan situation.

Wrangling in House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy was again subjected to severe attack today at a wrangling session of the house foreign affairs committee.

Representative Huddleston (D.) of Alabama, who charged that the administration is moving "consciously and deliberately toward war with Mexico," asserted that President Coolidge has exceeded his authority in Nicaragua.

Republican members countered with denials and said the president was merely employing the police power of the nation to protect American interests.

Calles Crushing Rebellion

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The Calles government insists today that the rebellion in north and central Mexico presents no great difficulty and announced its firm intention of using drastic measures to put down the insurrectionary movement.

As mute evidence of the government's stern program travelers reaching Mexico City report that 142 bodies are swaying from the branches of trees on the hillside at Ozumba—apparently the bodies of those sentenced to death after having been implicated in rebel activities.

Mexican Rebels Routed.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The complete rout of 300 rebels with a loss of 40 dead, at the hands of 80 federal dragoons, who have recaptured the village of Cocula in Jailisco, was reported to the war department today.

For eight hours the battle raged before the rebels were put to flight and the federal forces lost but one dead and two wounded.

Primary elections are not the only cause of the lack of popular interest in politics; there's the automobile.—Fostoria Times.

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Emma J. Werner committed suicide today as Coroner Ralph E. Johnson extended his probe of the death of Russell West, 20-year old youth who lived at the Werner home, to include the death of his brother, Ralph West, last September.

Coroner Johnson announced he had learned Mrs. Werner had collected $1,000 insurance upon Ralph's death and that she also had a similar insurance policy on Russell's life.

Battle in Senate Over Interstate Board Membership

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—One of the most complicated political battles in its history was pending in the senate today over the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, as a member of the inter-state commerce commission.

Although his appointment was rejected by the senate interstate commerce committee by a vote of 8 to 6, the ultimate action of the senate remained in doubt. Both his friends and foes predicted victory.

A former American diplomat, a successful business man and the personal selection of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Woods was said to possess all the necessary personal qualifications for the post. His nomination, however, may be rejected by the senate because the senate has split into two of the strangest political camps on record.

House Committee Approves Haugen Farm Bill, 13 to 8

COUNT SALM GETS $325,000 FOR LOST LOVE

Separation Suit Against Former Millicent Rogers Settled.

ACTION DROPPED

Quiet Divorce Case in Paris by Countess is Forecast.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Count Ludwig Salm's suit for separation from the former Millicent Rogers, heiress to the $40,000,000 Standard oil fortune of her father, Colonel H. H. Rogers, has been settled out of court, it was reported today.

By the terms of the settlement the Austrian nobleman will receive $325,000 from his wife's father, it was reliably stated. The payment of this sum was said to be in abatement of the count's projected suits against Colonel and Mrs. Rogers for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

The count's suit for separation will be dropped forever, the reports said, but a quiet divorce in Paris was forecast for the countess.

A further provision of the settlement will accord Count Salm partial custody of his little son, Peter, the figure around whom the suit for separation pivoted. The extent of this custody has not yet been determined, it was said.

Ends International Romance.

Thus ends one of the most spectacular international romances of recent years. Attorneys for both sides, advising the court that a settlement had been reached, stated that reconciliation was not the basis of settlement.

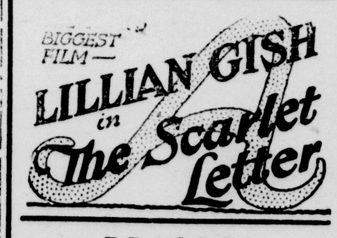

The suit, brought by the count against his young American wife, opened in New York county supreme court December 8, but was abruptly adjourned December 9 until January 17, next Monday, after two days of taking testimony, during which several letters written by the countess to the count's mother, following the couple's separation in Paris, were read in open court. In these letters the countess expressed her affection for the count, and revealed that the count had been offered $12,000 a year by Colonel Rogers to remain out of America and away from the countess.

Following the adjournment there were numerous reports that the count had been offered amounts ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to abandon his suit. These reports were denied by both parties.

Yesterday, as a preliminary to the final public announcement of the suit's discontinuance, counsel for the count and the countess again adjourned the renewed hearing until March 21. It was then they advised Justice Levy that the suit had been settled.

CONVICTED SLAYER OF DON R. MELLETT ENTERS PRISON

PAT M'DERMOTT TODAY BECAME CONVICT 56,488

Wise-cracking Fails to Impress Warden With Same Initials.

GETS AUTO TRIP

Gives Occupation as Barber as he Begins Life Sentence.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Wise-cracking Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, lost his monicker here today and became No. 56,488 on the records of P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio state penitentiary.

McDermott arrived at the prison late yesterday to begin his life sentence, and get a close-up view of the death house and electric chair he escaped when the jury which found him guilty of first degree murder recommended mercy.

The Nanty Glo, Pa., man grinned and beamed as usual when he and six Stark county deputies rolled to the prison entrance in a big touring car.

"Your initials and mine are the same," Patrick Eugene told the warden as that official put his official "P. E. Thomas' to a document the Canton authorities brought with them.

The warden wasn't in the humor for jokes, and McDermott's repartee was lost on the grim stones of the high prison walls.

Another "Lifer" Arrives.

McDermott gave his occupation as barber, but it is expected he will not labor at that trade for the present. Warden Thomas said today McDermott would not be assigned for any particular duty for the present.

Just before the arrival of McDermott, penitentiary attaches received Montrose Hickman, convicted at Chillicothe with his brother John, for the killing of Patrolman Dan Garrett.

Hickman became No. 56,487, and is to serve a second degree murder life sentence.

John Hickman is in the death house awaiting execution.

Says Five Killed Mellett.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—All suspicion that Jack Lopez, Laredo, Texas, prisoner, might have participated in the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher, at Canton last July, was eliminated here today when Governor Vic Donahey was informed that Lopez was in jail at Sharon, Pa., the night Mellett was murdered.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13. — Claim that five persons, including Pat McDermott, Louis Mazer, Jack Lopez, a man named Palmer and another man, known as "Jackie, the Greek," of Chicago, participated in the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, at Canton last July, is contained in an alleged written confession, signed by Lopez and submitted to Prosecuting Attorney Henry W. Harter, Ja., at Canton, by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey, it became known here today.

McDermott, convicted recently of murdering Mellett, is serving life in the Ohio penitentiary. Mazer is awaiting trial at Canton on a first degree murder charge in connection with the editor's death.

Lopez, a prisoner at Laredo, Texas, has been ordered deported to Mexico, following conviction of a crime in Pennsylvania.

Officials at the office of Governor Donahey today explained that Sisson was sent to Laredo to interview Lopez after the governor received a letter from an U. S. Immigration official there in which belief was expressed that Lopez was "the real murderer of Mellett."

Returning to Columbus with Lopez's confession, Sisson conferred with Governor Donahey and then went to Cleveland Tuesday where he conferred with federal authorities. From Cleveland, Sisson went to Canton where he presented the confession to Prosecutor Harter Wednesday it was stated.

Drove in Stutz Car.

Lopez told Sisson, it was stated at the governor's office, that McDermott, Mazer, Lopez, Palmer, and "Jackie the Greek," drove in a Stutz car to Mellett's home the night of the murder and that McDermott, "Jackie, the Greek," and Lopez fired the shots at Mellett while Mazer remained in the auto to watch Palmer, the driver, who, according to Lopez, was distrusted, the other members of the party fearing he might "drive off and leave them in the lurch," if someone did not remain in the machine with him.

Officials at the governor's office declared that a number of the statements made by Lopez have been corroborated, but that others have not.

Since Sisson's return from Texas, it was stated, Governor Donahey has been told that Lopez bore a reputation for confessing that he committed or participated in, a number of "murders (?)" Taking no stock in Lopez's alleged confessions, authorities at Canton, and elsewhere, the governor's office was told, have consistently refused to indict Lopez.

Believe Lopez Was in Canton.

Despite the fact that Lopez' alleged confession might turn out to be worthless, Governor Donahey, it was stated, in view of the positive declaration of the Texas federal immigration officer that Lopez helped murder Mellett, felt that nothing should be left undone that might aid in properly punishing the slayers of the editor. It was for this reason, it was said, that Sisson was sent to interview Lopez.

Officials at the governor's office were confident, they stated today, that Lopez was in Canton when Mellett was murdered.

State authorities here were told that the order of deportation to Mexico was based upon the belief that Lopez was a Mexican. It is reported, however, that Mexican authorities claimed Lopez is not a Mexican citizen and will not permit him to enter Mexico.

Some state officials here today voiced the opinion that Lopez, knowing some of the facts connected with the Mellett murder, but not being a participant in the crime itself, concocted his latest alleged confession in the hope that, as a result, he would be returned to Canton and liberated there after the authorities decided they could make no case against him.

GUARD KILLS ARMY PRIVATE

Exoneration Expected in Shooting in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Exoneration for the guard who shot and killed Private John B. Kearns, 25, Philadelphia, is expected today after an investigation by Captain R. E. Jones, adjutant at Fort Hayes.

Kearns, an alleged deserter, held in the guard house here awaiting court-martial, the adjutant reported, sawed his way from his cell and was making a dash for nearby railroad yards when ordered to halt. He failed to comply and the guard shot. Kearns died an hour later in the post hospital with a bullet wound in his head.

Records at the post disclose Kearns deserted from the army signal school, Brooklyn, and was captured January 3 at Pittsburgh. He was brought to the Columbus post January 4.

Kearns' home address was given as 1654 Ridge street, Frankford, Philadelphia.

DR. COPELAND TELLS HOW TO WARD OFF FLU

Re-appearance of Disease Prompts Hints by Medical Authority.

Senator Says Influence is Generally Hand-conveyed.

(Editor's Note—Public health authorities and the medical profession are perturbed over the reappearance of influenza in some sections. While not as virulent apparently as in the war years, it is nevertheless sufficiently widespread to cause alarm. In the following article, Senator Royal S. Copeland (D.) of New York, the senate's medical authority, tells how to avoid the disease.)

BY SENATOR ROYAL S. COPELAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—If we are to have a repetition of the 1918 experience with influenza, let us profit now by what we learned then. What did we learn?

The first things is that influenza is a hand conveyed disease. The spray from the nose and throat carries the germs, and this moisture reaching the lips or the nostrils of another will lead to the infection of the susceptible person. But the common way to get the germs is from the hands of the influenza patients who pass the germs to toilet articles, eating utensils, door knobs, pencils, or anything liable to be handled by others. More commonly, of course, hand to hand contact is the way the infection is conveyed.

Lowered physical vitality, fear, fatigue, poor ventilation, loss of sleep, and any act which lowers resistance, will prepare the way for the germs of dread influenza.

The following are rules of conduct which will help to ward off the disease:

1—Wash the hands frequently and invariably do so before eating.

2—Keep the hands from the face, and, on returning home at night, wash the face with soap and abundance of water. Wash out the openings of the nostrils whenever the face is bathed.

3—Brush the teeth thoroughly three times a day.

4—If you have occasion to cough or sneeze, cover the face with the handkerchief, and, under no circumstances, receive in your face the moist blast of another's sneezing or coughing.

5—Eat in no place where the table utensils are not boiled in the cleansing process. Eat sparingly whenever and wherever you eat.

6—Sleep a lot in a well ventilated room.

7—Go about your affairs calmly and unafraid.

8—If you find yourself sneezing, with eyes running, and a feeling of feverishness, go home, take a hot bath, and go to bed. If you are not right the next morning, call your doctor.

Epidemic in Philippines.

MANILA, Jan. 13.—The Philippine islands were being swept by an epidemic of influenza today. Health officers declared that several thousand cases have been reported, but owing to those who refuse to consult physicians the exact number of cases is not definitely known.

Authorities said that deaths so far were less than a hundred.

Thousands died in the Philippines during the epidemic of 1918, the disease being especially virulent among the mountain tribes.

One Stolen Auto Recovered; Another Machine Abandoned

Ford touring car, belonging to Elmer Crawford, Allison street insurance agent, stolen while parked on Broadway Tuesday night, was found last evening by police on Dresden avenue where it had been abandoned. The car was not damaged except for a torn side curtain.

Sedan belonging to J. C. Springer, which was stolen while parked in front of his home on Thompson avenue, last evening, was located a few hours later. "Joy riders" are believed to have "borrowed" both machines.

The Bolshevik soldiers are reported to have crossed the Dniester and opened a machine-gun attack upon the Roumanian outpost.

After a sharp exchange of shots the Bolsheviks were driven back towards Odessa, with the loss of one Roumanian.

Scion of Wealth is Arrested.

Murder Solved?

The brutal assault and murder of Beulah Purvis, 19, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., is believed solved by the reported statement of Joseph Carr, 23, to Assistant Prosecutor Carl Basler, of Hamilton county, O. The body of Miss Purvis was found battered and bruised on the bank of the Big Miami river near Valley Junction, O., last October 20, just 10 days after she disappeared from home. Carr made his statement to Marshall Andrew Wagner, of Lockland, O., while the latter was questioning him regarding a burglary. Wagner turned him over to the assistant prosecutor.

TRAIN KILLS PROOF READER

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 13.—Roy A. Booth, 21, proof reader for the Morning Times-Recorder, was almost instantly killed at the State street railroad crossing when his auto was struck by a fast B. and O. passenger train at 2:35 o'clock this morning. He died in Bethesda hospital an hour later without regaining consciousness. He was active in Y. M. C. A. gymnasium work and was widely known in "Y" circles.

Government Plans Slap at Ford in Tax Appeals Suit

DETROIT, Jan. 13.—A slap at Henry Ford is being planned by the government as one of its trump cards in the contest to recover about $34,000,000 from former stockholders of the Ford Motor company, it was revealed today.

Alexander W. Gregg, 27-year-old government attorney, revealed that the government will attack the methods used by Henry and Edsel Ford in 1919 when they obtained an advance valuation from the internal revenue department on Ford stock.

MISSIONARIES QUIT WAR ZONE

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Two hundred Americans and 400 British mostly missionaries, are evacuating the Province of Szechon, according to a Hankow dispatch to the Evening News.

Missionaries in the vicinity of Hankow are steadily leaving their posts and taking refuge in the international centers, the dispatch states.

Two Men Killed, Third Injured by Engine Explosion

ROME, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured today by an engine explosion on a New York Central freight train three miles east of here.

The men killed were Thomas Steinbeck, a brakeman, and C. Johnson, a fireman. Moxy Reidell, engineer of the freight, was seriously scalded, and is not expected to live.

The engine was demolished.

Follows Rickard's Plans.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Jack Dempsey is willing to place his activities in the hands of Tex Rickard, even to the extent of meeting the winner of Rickard's heavyweight elimination, Leonard Sachs, secretary of the ex-champion, said today. Sachs held a long distance conversation with Dempsey last night, he said, and that Jack, abandoning his demand for a return bout with Gene Tunney without further ado, had decided to string along with Rickard's plans.

ADD LIFE TO YOUR YEARS

As well as years to your life. Life without health is burdensome and the lack of it casts a shadow over all our activities. Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant to the kidneys, cause a regular, health-giving flow, carrying out of the body in a natural way, that waste matter, which, if not promptly removed, spreads its poisons throughout the entire system, to the detriment of health. Bodily aches, severe pains, a run-down condition of the system, inevitably results. Avoid this. Ask for Foley Pills, diuretic. Sold everywhere.

"ABSURD," SAYS SOVIET ANSWER TO KELLOGG

Denies Bolsheviks are Fomenting Trouble in Central America.

BORAH TO SPEAK

Mexican-Nicaraguan Controversy Rages in Congress.

MOSCOW, Jan. 13.—"The height of absurdity" . . . This was the reply of the soviet foreign office today to the charges of United States Secretary of State Kellogg that Bolsheviks are fomenting troubles in Central America.

"Only Americans could be naive enough to credit such a yarn," said a high official of the soviet foreign office.

Hint Diplomatic Break.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 3.—A severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico at an early date was regarded as inevitable today, as the reaction here to the publication of Secretary of State Kellogg's charges to the senate committee that the Soviet government of Russia was operating here and in Central America against the interests of the Unitde States.

The early recall of Ambassador Sheffield was presaged, as the Ambassador is generally regarded as being responsible for the state department's vigorous attitude toward the protection of American rights.

Denies Sheffield Recall.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Secretary of State Kellogg denied today renewed reports that Ambassador Sheffield is shortly to leave his post at Mexico City.

The secretary's denial was said to refer, however, to reports of Sheffield's retirement, and not to the possibility that he might be withdrawn because of a break in diplomatic relations.

Defeat Anti-administration Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A move to have the house investigate the Mexican-Nicaraguan policy of President Coolidge was squelched in the foreign affairs committee today, when by a vote of 8 to 5, it defeated a motion to bring Secretary of State Kellogg before the committee tomorrow.

The vote followed a sever attack upon administration policy in Latin-America, and a staunch defense of it by the Republican members.

Opposition Without Leader.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Mexican-Nicaraguan controversy continued to burn fiercely in congress today.

Secretary of State Kellogg's open charges of a "red plot" to undermine and destroy American influence in Latin-America, directed from Mexico, had the effect of solidifying wavering Republicans behind the administration program, but it left the leadership of the opposition absolutely cold

The attitude of the Democrats generally was one of "watchful waiting." Some Democrats will support the administration's firm policy below the Rio Grande, others will not, but it was apparent today that the majority prefer to await developments before committing themselves to a party policy. It is likely a Democratic caucus will be called shortly to discuss the situation.

Senator Borah served notice this morning that he would address the senate this afternoon on the American-Nicaraguan situation.

Wrangling in House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy was again subjected to severe attack today at a wrangling session of the house foreign affairs committee.

Representative Huddleston (D.) of Alabama, who charged that the administration is moving "consciously and deliberately toward war with Mexico," asserted that President Coolidge has exceeded his authority in Nicaragua.

Republican members countered with denials and said the president was merely employing the police power of the nation to protect American interests.

Calles Crushing Rebellion

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The Calles government insists today that the rebellion in north and central Mexico presents no great difficulty and announced its firm intention of using drastic measures to put down the insurrectionary movement.

As mute evidence of the government's stern program travelers reaching Mexico City report that 142 bodies are swaying from the branches of trees on the hillside at Ozumba—apparently the bodies of those sentenced to death after having been implicated in rebel activities.

Mexican Rebels Routed.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The complete rout of 200 rebels with a loss of 40 dead, at the hands of 80 federal dragoons, who have recaptured the village of Cocula in Jailisco, was reported to the war department today.

For eight hours the battle raged before the rebels were put to flight and the federal forces lost but one dead and two wounded.

Primary elections are not the only cause of the lack of popular interest in politics; there's the automobile.—Fostoria Times.

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Emma J. Werner committed suicide today as Coroner Ralph E. Johnson extended his probe of the death of Russell West, 20-year old youth who lived at the Werner home, to include the death of his brother, Ralph West, last September.

Coroner Johnson announced he had learned Mrs. Werner had collected $1,000 insurance upon Ralph's death and that she also had a similar insurance policy on Russell's life.

Battle in Senate Over Interstate Board Membership

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—One of the most complicated political battles in its history was pending in the senate today over the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, as a member of the inter-state commerce commission.

Although his appointment was rejected by the senate interstate commerce committee by a vote of 8 to 6, the ultimate action of the senate remained in doubt. Both his friends and foes predicted victory.

A former American diplomat, a successful business man and the personal selection of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Woods was said to possess all the necessary personal qualifications for the post. His nomination, however, may be rejected by the senate because the senate has split into two of the strangest political camps on record.

COUNT SALM GETS $325,000 FOR LOST LOVE

Separation Suit Against Former Millicent Rogers Settled.

ACTION DROPPED

Quiet Divorce Case in Paris by Countess is Forecast.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Count Ludwig Salm's suit for separation from the former Millicent Rogers, heiress to the $40,000,000 Standard oil fortune of her father, Colonel H. H. Rogers, has been settled out of court, it was reported today.

By the terms of the settlement the Austrian nobleman will receive $325,000 from his wife's father, it was reliably stated. The payment of this sum was said to be in abatement of the count's projected suits against Colonel and Mrs. Rogers for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

The count's suit for separation will be dropped forever, the reports said, but a quiet divorce in Paris was forecast for the countess.

A further provision of the settlement will accord Count Salm partial custody of his little son, Peter, the figure around whom the suit for separation pivoted. The extent of this custody has not yet been determined, it was said.

Ends International Romance.

Thus ends one of the most spectacular international romances of recent years. Attorneys for both sides, advising the court that a settlement had been reached, stated that reconciliation was not the basis of settlement.

The suit, brought by the count against his young American wife, opened in New York county supreme court December 8, but was abruptly adjourned December 9 until January 17, next Monday, after two days of taking testimony, during which several letters written by the countess to the count's mother, following the couple's separation in Paris, were read in open court. In these letters the countess expressed her affection for the count, and revealed that the count had been offered $12,000 a year by Colonel Rogers to remain out of America and away from the countess.

Following the adjournment there were numerous reports that the count had been offered amounts ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to abandon his suit. These reports were denied by both parties.

Yesterday, as a preliminary to the final public announcement of the suit's discontinuance, counsel for the count and the countess again adjourned the renewed hearing until March 21. It was then they advised Justice Levy that the suit had been settled.

CHAPLIN WINS RACE AGAINST NEWS SCRIBES

Charley, "Cornered" in Chicago, Outwits Newspapermen.

POSES FOR PHOTO

"It's Terrible" Only Comment on Wife's Divorce Suit.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Charley Chaplin continued as elusive as ever today, despite the fact that newspaper reporters had him "cornered" for a few minutes here last night after he stepped off a Santa Fe train from California.

The famous film comedian is believed enroute to New York, although no one is quite sure just what became of him. The Atlantic express which left here early today with one Pullman for New York, was reported carrying a passenger and a servant who resembles Chaplin and his Japanese valet.

"It's terrible—simply terrible," said Chaplin to reporters who met him as he stepped off the Santa Fe train. When asked for a statement regarding the divorce suit filed against him in Los Angeles last Monday by Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, the comedian said:

"Please, boys, let's don't talk about it. It's too terrible for words. I can't make any statement—not now. Not until I confer with my attorney."

Lost in Traffic.

Chaplin was very nervous. He appeared drawn and worried. Apparently he hoped to slip into the city unnoticed, as he and his servant were the last to leave the train.

When Charley learned he had been discovered, he shrugged his shoulders resignedly and paused in the group of reporters and photographers. But the old Chaplin smile was missing. He was a sorry, pathetic figure.

"Don't steal a picture of me, boys," he told the photographers. "I'll pose for you." And so he did. But after refusing point blank to make a statement concerning the divorce proceedings, his only reply to further questioning was a tightening of the lips.

Suddenly, as though by a prearranged plan, Charley and his servant stepped through a side door of the station, into a taxicab and were soon lost in the traffic. Efforts to follow them in other cabs proved futile.

Lita Grey Fights for Estate.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin, who is seeking a divorce from Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, may seek to obtain the entire Chaplin estate for herself and her two babies, instead of asking for half of the $16,000,000 fortune as is customary in California divorce settlements, it was learned here today from attorneys representing the young wife.

At the same time it was learned that Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys were prepared to take drastic steps to protect the interests of the film comedian's girl wife.

On the heels of the receivership which left all of Chaplin's funds and property in California "tied up," notice was served by Edwin T. McMurray, heading Mrs. Chaplin's legal battery, that he will move to halt the pay of Edna Purviance, one-time leading woman for Chaplin, and still said to be on the Chaplin payroll at $250 a week.

Murray contended that Miss Purviance was not entitled to any salary because, he alleged, she had not been in the employ of the Chaplin studios for several years. He also declared he would investigate just why this money was still being paid Miss Purviance.

"This money should go to Chaplin's children," Murray said.

CHAPLIN WINS RACE AGAINST NEWS SCRIBES

Charley, "Cornered" in Chicago, Outwits Newspapermen.

"It's Terrible" Only Comment on Wife's Divorce Suit.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Charley Chaplin continued as elusive as ever today, despite the fact that newspaper reporters had him "cornered" for a few minutes here last night after he stepped off a Santa Fe train from California.

The famous film comedian is believed enroute to New York, although no one is quite sure just what became of him. The Atlantic express which left here early today with one Pullman for New York, was reported carrying a passenger and a servant who resembles Chaplin and his Japanese valet.

"It's terrible—simply terrible," said Chaplin to reporters who met him as he stepped off the Santa Fe train. When asked for a statement regarding the divorce suit filed against him in Los Angeles last Monday by Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, the comedian said:

"Please, boys, let's don't talk about it. It's too terrible for words. I can't make any statement—not now. Not until I confer with my attorney."

Lost in Traffic.

Chaplin was very nervous. He appeared drawn and worried. Apparently he hoped to slip into the city unnoticed, as he and his servant were the last to leave the train.

When Charley learned he had been discovered, he shrugged his shoulders resignedly and paused in the group of reporters and photographers. But the old Chaplin smile was missing. He was a sorry, pathetic figure.

"Don't steal a picture of me, boys," he told the photographers. "I'll pose for you." And so he did. But after refusing point blank to make a statement concerning the divorce proceedings, his only reply to further questioning was a tightening of the lips.

Suddenly, as though by a prearranged plan, Charley and his servant stepped through a side door of the station, into a taxicab and were soon lost in the traffic. Efforts to follow them in other cabs proved futile.

Lita Grey Fights for Estate.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin, who is seeking a divorce from Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, may seek to obtain the entire Chaplin estate for herself and her two babies, instead of asking for half of the $16,000,000 fortune as is customary in California divorce settlements, it was learned here today from attorneys representing the young wife.

At the same time it was learned that Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys were prepared to take drastic steps to protect the interests of the film comedian's girl wife.

On the heels of the receivership which left all of Chaplin's funds and property in California "tied up," notice was served by Edwin T. McMurray, heading Mrs. Chaplin's legal battery, that he will move to halt the pay of Edna Purviance, one-time leading woman for Chaplin, and still said to be on the Chaplin payroll at $250 a week.

Murray contended that Miss Purviance was not entitled to any salary because, he alleged, she had not been in the employ of the Chaplin studios for several years. He also declared he would investigate just why this money was still being paid Miss Purviance.

"This money should go to Chaplin's children," Murray said.

LEWIS STONE AT AMERICAN

"Midnight Lovers" Screen Show Friday and Saturday.

If a man loves his wife should he help her get a divorce?

Lewis Stone is cast in this unique predicament in his feathered role of "Midnight Lovers," which will be shown at the American theatre Friday and Saturday.

Deeply in love with his wife of a month, the husband is asked by her lawyer to help her get a divorce so she can marry another whom she loves.

The process for securing the divorce is very interesting, as demonstrated on the screen. By forging past letters to each other, in which the wife asks the husband to return and the husband refuses, the proper grounds for divorce are established.

"Gums the Detail."

The husband does all this for his wife, but gets drunk, and returns to his house before the proper time limit for desertion is past. The rest of the story is hilarious in the denouement by which the husband wins back his wife and ejects the other suitor.

Anna Q. Nilsson plays the role of the sentimentally comic wife, and John Roche acts as the other lover.

The others in the cast are Chester Conklin, Dale Fuller, Purnell Pratt and Harvey Clarke.

Carey Wilson, who wrote the adaptation, also was editorial director of the production, and John Francis Dillon directed it.

"Midnight Lovers" was produced for First National under the management of John McCormick.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEETS

C. C. Bair, Field Service Agent, Delivers Principal Address.

"Even one of the outstanding accomplishments of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation is worth $10 a year to any one who is interested in agriculture," declared C. C. Bair, of North Canton and field agent for the farm bureau federation, who spoke to over 200 men and women associated with Columbiana County Farm Bureau following a dinner served in the ball room of the Knights of Pythian lodge at Lisbon Wednesday.

"The four points which farmers should consider when they refer to the activity of the farm bureau work is that they 'have a voice in government,' 'lower farmers' costs,' 'central marketing for farm products,' 'rendering a better service to the home of farmers, the farmers' community and the farm craft.," Mr. Bair declared.

"It is the farmers' organizations that obtained the gasoline tax in Ohio, and in this state the farmers pay most of the cost for road improvements. Farmers pay an excessive large freight rate, because they pay the freight on the merchandise they buy, and they pay the freight on the products they have to sell. For years the Ohio farm bureau has taken a great interest in traffic problems, and it may be of interest to you to know how many large manufacturers in Ohio now contribute to the support of the farm bureau traffic bureau for the reason that they derive a great benefit from this service. This shows that the Ohio farm bureau organization is of not only a great benefit to agriculture, but to others just as well.

"There are now seven important hearings scheduled before the I. C. C. at Washington that have to do with agricultural problems.

"Another important matter that the Ohio farm bureau federation has done, that is worth $10 per year to any member, is that it has stopped the sale of fake stocks. It may be of interest for you to know that a few years ago there were more than 9,000 fake stock salesmen working in Ohio, and today there are less than 900 salesmen, and all of these are selling legitimate issues as approved by the state banking department. That's something the farm bureau has done for the people of Ohio and has saved the investor thousands of dollars.

"We hear that we don't sell stock feeds lower than any one else. Well, we do not. We never said that we did, but we do say that we do sell a better feed that gives better results over a period of years than any other on the market—and that's worth something to the man who operates a stock farm. The same can be said about the fertilizer that is sold through the farm bureau. Last year farmers who bought fertilizer through the farm bureau saved eight per cent. in all, you must think of the Ohio farm bureau federation and the grange as an insurance proposition for the benefit of the farmer, and then you have the situation sized up aright."

O. R. Keyser, county agent of Stark county, with offices at Canton, spoke on the subject of "Building Without a Hammer."

Mr. Keyser referred to certain movements that had been launched in the years gone by by some thinker, and that after these ideas had been adopted generally those who thought out such movements were called progressive. "Then," he said, "after these movements and ideas were accepted by society, and continued on, that unless other improvements were made the initial movement got beyond the one who thought it out.

"The habit of the people is to pull back at the beginning, and these people can be classed as knockers.

"Constructive criticism is excellent when used in the right way, but there is no use in condemning a whole structure when one or two people within that structure go wrong. This would apply to a religious organization as well as to any other institution no matter what it be, provided that institution is founded on a sound basis."

Mr. Keyser urged the crowd to read and study. "Read the local newspapers," he declared. "You have to get your mind off the one or two things you constantly come into contact with and broaden your mind. This will give you a different view of life. Do not have a closed mind, but keep it open always."

Mrs. Blanche Bowers, of the extension service department of Ohio State university spoke briefly upon home economics and the value of a home demonstration agent attached to the county farm bureau units. Mrs. Bowers explained that such a worker is needed just as much today as is the county agent.

The gathering was designed by the Columbiana county farm bureau for the purpose of bringing the members in township units in closer contact. The meeting was opened by President Whinnery, and the singing of "America." The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. P. W. Macaulay of the Lisbon Presbyterian church. Outside of the annual farm bureau meeting, the event was the largest attended of the character the bureau ever arranged at Lisbon.

PETITION FILED FOR RECEIVER

An application for the appointment of a receiver has been made in the petition filed in common pleas court by Billingsley & Moore of Lisbon in behalf of the Meyercord Co., Inc., of Chicago, Ill., against Gibbs & Brown and the Modern Lubricating company of Columbiana. In addition the plaintiff seeks a judgment against the defendants for $405 and interest on a bill of merchandise sold the defendant Gibbs & Brown.

It is related in the petition that Gibbs & Brown transferred in bulk all its stock of materials and goods to the Modern Lubricating company and that the latter interest received from Gibbs & Brown no list of the creditors of Gibbs & Brown. The court is also asked by the plaintiff to declare the transfer void.

The plaintiff sold the defendant Gibbs & Brown 1,100 sets of decal transfers on April 5, 1926, and the claim, it is alleged, has not been paid.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to James Stewart, of Kensington, and a former resident of Carroll county, and Miss Ruth Archibald, of Kensington, and formerly residing at Minerva, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Archibald. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Presbyterian church by the Rev. P. W. Macaulay.

Case Settled.

A settlement out of court has been announced in the case of James McConville against William F. Smith and others, an action for a dissolution of partnership filed in common pleas court April 19, 1923. The case goes without record, and the settlement has been at the costs of the plaintiff.

LOAN ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS NAMED

The eighth annual meeting of the Columbiana County National Farm Loan association was held at the office of the County Farm Bureau at Lisbon.

Directors elected for the fiscal year are: Clark J. Halverstadt, Leetonia; Harry Reash, Columbiana; John G. Houlette, Columbiana; W. H. Zundel, Negley; J. Ellsworth Rice, Lisbon; Harry Shinn, Salem. The board organized by electing Mr. Halverstadt president, Mr. Reash vice president and Mr. Houlette secretary-treasurer, the latter having held this office for some years.

During 1926, the report of Mr. Houlette disclosed, loans totaling $39,000 were closed, and two loans were paid off in full. The loans now outstanding total $296,500. Dividends paid members of the association for 1926 amounted to $1,083.24, eight per cent being issued by the National Farm Loan association.

The association in this district now has a membership of 100.

Awarded Judgment.

A jury was waived and there was a trial to the court in the case of M. Hammerschlag & Son against R. A. McMullin for an account for $198.05, and a judgment for $150 was handed down.

Old At 40? Or Full of "Pep" And Energy? How To "Come Back"

Not age, but overworked, sluggish kidneys, bladder weakness and prostate gland trouble are what makes practically seven out of ten men past forty care-worn, fagged-out and old in every way before their time. They break down easily and are unfit for either work or pleasure But now, with the vitalizing internal exercise produced by the marvelous restorative radium power of ARIUM Tablets, the normal, youthful action of the glands and organs is often quickly renewed, just as Nature intended. You should see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

Amazing testimony of physicians and users gives convincing proof of the remarkable power of ARIUM to help restore health and strength to the sick and afflicted. H. COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEETS

C. C. Bair, Field Service Agent, Delivers Principal Address.

"Even one of the outstanding accomplishments of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation is worth $10 a year to any one who is interested in agriculture," declared C. C. Bair, of North Canton and field agent for the farm bureau federation, who spoke to over 200 men and women associated with Columbiana County Farm Bureau following a dinner served in the ball room of the Knights of Pythian lodge at Lisbon Wednesday.

"The four points which farmers should consider when they refer to the activity of the farm bureau work is that they 'have a voice in government,' 'lower farmers' costs,' 'central marketing for farm products,' 'rendering a better service to the home of farmers, the farmers' community and the farm craft.," Mr. Bair declared.

"It is the farmers' organizations that obtained the gasoline tax in Ohio, and in this state the farmers pay most of the cost for road improvements. Farmers pay an excessive large freight rate, because they pay the freight on the merchandise they buy, and they pay the freight on the products they have to sell. For years the Ohio farm bureau has taken a great interest in traffic problems, and it may be of interest to you to know how many large manufacturers in Ohio now contribute to the support of the farm bureau traffic bureau for the reason that they derive a great benefit from this service. This shows that the Ohio farm bureau organization is of not only a great benefit to agriculture, but to others just as well.

"There are now seven important hearings scheduled before the I. C. C. at Washington that have to do with agricultural problems.

"Another important matter that the Ohio farm bureau federation has done, that is worth $10 per year to any member, is that it has stopped the sale of fake stocks. It may be of interest for you to know that a few years ago there were more than 9,000 fake stock salesmen working in Ohio, and today there are less than 900 salesmen, and all of these are selling legitimate issues as approved by the state banking department. That's something the farm bureau has done for the people of Ohio and has saved the investor thousands of dollars.

"We hear that we don't sell stock feeds lower than any one else. Well, we do not. We never said that we did, but we do say that we do sell a better feed that gives better results over a period of years than any other on the market—and that's worth something to the man who operates a stock farm. The same can be said about the fertilizer that is sold through the farm bureau. Last year farmers who bought fertilizer through the farm bureau saved eight per cent. in all, you must think of the Ohio farm bureau federation and the grange as an insurance proposition for the benefit of the farmer, and then you have the situation sized up aright."

O. R. Keyser, county agent of Stark county, with offices at Canton, spoke on the subject of "Building Without a Hammer."

Mr. Keyser referred to certain movements that had been launched in the years gone by by some thinker, and that after these ideas had been adopted generally those who thought out such movements were called progressive. "Then," he said, "after these movements and ideas were accepted by society, and continued on, that unless other improvements were made the initial movement got beyond the one who thought it out.

"The habit of the people is to pull back at the beginning, and these people can be classed as knockers.

"Constructive criticism is excellent when used in the right way, but there is no use in condemning a whole structure when one or two people within that structure go wrong. This would apply to a religious organization as well as to any other institution no matter what it be, provided that institution is founded on a sound basis."

Mr. Keyser urged the crowd to read and study. "Read the local newspapers," he declared. "You have to get your mind off the one or two things you constantly come into contact with and broaden your mind. This will give you a different view of life. Do not have a closed mind, but keep it open always."

Mrs. Blanche Bowers, of the extension service department of Ohio State university spoke briefly upon home economics and the value of a home demonstration agent attached to the county farm bureau units. Mrs. Bowers explained that such a worker is needed just as much today as is the county agent.

The gathering was designed by the Columbiana county farm bureau for the purpose of bringing the members in township units in closer contact. The meeting was opened by President Whinnery, and the singing of "America." The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. P. W. Macaulay of the Lisbon Presbyterian church. Outside of the annual farm bureau meeting, the event was the largest attended of the character the bureau ever arranged at Lisbon.

PETITION FILED FOR RECEIVER

An application for the appointment of a receiver has been made in the petition filed in common pleas court by Billingsley & Moore of Lisbon in behalf of the Meyercord Co., Inc., of Chicago, Ill., against Gibbs & Brown and the Modern Lubricating company of Columbiana. In addition the plaintiff seeks a judgment against the defendants for $405 and interest on a bill of merchandise sold the defendant Gibbs & Brown.

It is related in the petition that Gibbs & Brown transferred in bulk all its stock of materials and goods to the Modern Lubricating company and that the latter interest received from Gibbs & Brown no list of the creditors of Gibbs & Brown. The court is also asked by the plaintiff to declare the transfer void.

The plaintiff sold the defendant Gibbs & Brown 1,100 sets of decal transfers on April 5, 1926, and the claim, it is alleged, has not been paid.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to James Stewart, of Kensington, and a former resident of Carroll county, and Miss Ruth Archibald, of Kensington, and formerly residing at Minerva, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Archibald. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Presbyterian church by the Rev. P. W. Macaulay.

Case Settled.

A settlement out of court has been announced in the case of James McConville against William F. Smith and others, an action for a dissolution of partnership filed in common pleas court April 19, 1923. The case goes without record, and the settlement has been at the costs of the plaintiff.

LOAN ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS NAMED

The eighth annual meeting of the Columbiana County National Farm Loan association was held at the office of the County Farm Bureau at Lisbon.

Directors elected for the fiscal year are: Clark J. Halverstadt, Leetonia; Harry Reash, Columbiana; John G. Houlette, Columbiana; W. H. Zundel, Negley; J. Ellsworth Rice, Lisbon; Harry Shinn, Salem. The board organized by electing Mr. Halverstandt president, Mr. Reash vice president and Mr. Houlette secretary-treasurer, the latter having held this office for some years.

During 1926, the report of Mr. Houlette disclosed, loans totaling $39,000 were closed, and two loans were paid off in full. The loans now outstanding total $296,500. Dividends paid members of the association for 1926 amounted to $1,083.24, eight per cent being issued by the National Farm Loan association.

The association in this district now has a membership of 100.

Awarded Judgment.

A jury was waived and there was a trial to the court in the case of M. Hammerschlag & Son against R. A. McMullin for an account for $198.05, and a judgment for $150 was handed down.

County League First Half Title At Stake Here Tomorrow

ELKS BATTLE WITH STRONG DAMASCUS FIVE

Victory Will Practically Clinch Honors for Locals.

THE top rung in the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league, to which the East Liverpool Elks are now clinging as a result of an unbroken string of seven victories, will be at stake in Friday night's circuit battle with Damascus at the high school gymnasium.

A victory will keep the Elks out in front and a defeat will permit the Quakers to go into the lead.

The contest, in fact, sizes up as the engagement that will decide the championship for the first half of the season, with the two strongest teams of the loop scrapping for the coveted position.

If the Elks lose tomorrow night, it'll be all off, so far as the first half is concerned, for this will be the second clash with the Damascus team, permitting, consequently, no comeback. The league schedule for the half, calls for two games against each league opponent, one at home and one abroad. The Elks dropped their first one at Damascus in the opening week of play and if they should lost this one, the title likely will go winging its way to Quakertown, for it is improbable that any other outfit will take the measure of the Damascans before the end of the half.

Damascus had lost two and the Elks have dropped two and if the locals should have another loss tackled on the chase would be almost hopeless.

However, the Antlers are entertaining no thoughts except those of victory for Bill Powell's outfit is out after that first half championship. Two obstacles must be surmounted, the game with Damascus tomorrow night and the concluding first half setto at Salem on January 28.

The two Laughlin, Newell, basketball squads, will clash in the preliminary tomorrow night.

The league race today remains unchanged as a result of scheduled attractions last night, Lisbon and Columbiana being the beneficiaries of forfeit victories from Wellsville and East Palestine, respectively.

The Wellsville quint was scheduled at Columbiana and East Palestine at Lisbon.

East Palestine went out of the circuit a week or so ago, their action being ratified at Sunday's meeting, and Wellsville went out yesterday.

"The league is now a circuit of six teams and it will continue the first half of the season without East Palestine and Wellsville," Secretary H. P. Brahman announced today. "Both teams were officially dropped from the league's roll yesterday and notices were sent to all managers. Wellsville hopes to re-enter the league at the second half, if a floor can be obtained there. This has been the stumbling block for several weeks, and the team has made every effort to continue."

As a result of the retirement of the Wellsville and East Palestine clubs, all games during the remainder of the first half will be forfeited to the opposing teams.

Bethany Cage Quint Faces Tough Game With Waynesburg

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 13.—Preparation for the Fairmont encounter having proven of real value, the Bethany college varsity basketeers will now turn to their second big contest of the week, that with Waynesburg college at the Waynesburg armory on Friday evening. The Bisons have come through three collegiate contests to date on the long end of the scores, and from all indications, a remarkable record should be hung up by the great team of this year.

Bethany is now sharing first place honors in the Tri-State Conference with Duquesne and Geneva. Coming contests this week and next, will ultimately determine the probable finish of the Bisons in this titular chase, as a good start has never yet failed to instill into Bison team that "consistent team play" will produce successful results. Those three words have been taken as the Green and White basketball motto with Captain Leland Beckwith and Coach Nuss as the leaders, therefore, Bison followers and alumni can look for nothing but real contests wherever the West Virginians play.

CHICAGO CAUSES BIG TEN UPSET

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 13.—Another upset of the Big Ten basketball season was in the records today as a result of Chicago's brilliant triumph over Northwestern at Patton gymnasium last night. The score was 34 to 27.

The Wildcats got away fast and were leading at the half 19 to 14, but they could not maintain the pace. They tired in the final period and the Maroons won "easing up."

Kaplan and Gist starred for the victors, each shooting four ringers. Gleichman and Fisher did good work for the Purple.

Speaker-Cobb Case Action Is Expected; Landis Is Evasive

Stars Accused in Leonard's Charges May Try to Force Commissioner's Hand; May Hold Risberg Verdict as Precedent.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—There was a vague yet conscious promise today of possible developments in the scandal of Cobb and Speaker versus organized—or disorganized—baseball, hard upon Judge Landis' verdict of acquittal for Eddie Collins, Schalk, Bush, Rowland, Dauss, Ehmke and other defendants charged by Swede Risberg with being accessories to a "barney" in September, 1917. Some undercurrent of activity in the Cobb-Speaker matter is eddying around the judge's headquarters in Chicago but the official policy seems to call for neither admission nor denial.

The judge, usually frank with newspapermen, was evasive when I asked him whether he would receive Cobb and Speaker in the event that they attempted to re-open their case.

"I have reasons of my own for not saying what course I would take in that event," was his reply. "Just say that anybody can see me any time."

That Cobb and Speaker, having bided their time while awaiting the Risberg verdict, have been in communication with Landis, either personally or through their attorneys, seems to be pretty well understood in certain well-informed circles in Chicago. That the accused but neither convicted nor exonerated stars will try to force Landis' hand appears to be equally probable.

They may take the Risberg verdict, with its refusal to accept the word of self-implicated "fixers," as having established a precedent and demand that Landis render a decision in their case. It was because of the deposition of "Dutch" Leonard, who freely admitted his party in the alleged conspiracy, that Cobb and Speaker became involved in charges of engaging in a betting coup late in the season of 1919.

However, the judge was smart enough not to commit himself either one way or the other on Leonard's charges; therefore, it can't very well be said that he took anybody's word for anything. It will be the policy of Cobb and Speaker, in consequence, to attempt the forcing of an admission of guilt or innocence and, if the former be the verdict, to take the matter into court.

Indications are, however, that Landis will decline to pass judgment on the case, in which event the courts again will be the choice of the accused stars. They will contend that their names have been maligned and that baseball has left them without the benefit of an official ruling.

A possible factor in Cobb's defense clearly was established by his telegram to Landis, which gained a denial from all witnesses at the Risberg hearing that they never had known of Cobb being other than an exemplary ball player. John McGraw's rather damaging admission that he had been told to "lay off" when he proposed signing Cobb also may be used as evidence that baseball, while officially refusing to condemn the players, has raised the bars against them.

It may be that another attempt will be made to persuade Leonard to come on from California to testify, that reopening the case automatically. Or it may be that the mountain, having refused to come to mohammed, mohammed will go to the mountain.

In other words, Landis may give the three defendants, Cobb, Speaker and Joe Wood, a chance to face Leonard at Fresno and engage in a final show down. Even if the judge doesn't offer to pay expenses, I can't see how that would be of any great moment under the circumstances. If the choice was left to me, I'd rather lose good money than a good name.

NINETEEN GAMES ON DAYTON CARD

DAYTON, Jan. 13.—Dayton university is playing a 19-game basketball schedule in 1927, seven of the contests being carded with Ohio Conference foes.

Only a handful of veterans have returned for practice this year. Among them are Captain Sam Hipa, star guard of three season's play; John Debesis, his running mate at guard who is a junior; Shorty Sharpenter, a junior who uses his six foot six to advantage at center, and football captain-elect John McGarry, forward.

Dick Snelling, all star forward of last year's quintet, failed to report this year. Graduation and ineligibility took their toll in Guard Louis Mahrt, Forward Bill Blake and Guard Conan Doyle.

When you hold your head still during the back swing by having some one hold his hand against it you will observe that when you reach the top of the back swing there will have taken place a very considerable tightening of the muscles about the waist and the legs. However, there is no tightening up in the arms and shoulders. The arms are perfect free and, as you stand at the top position, you can if you wish hold that position, then whip the arms up and down with the club with absolute freedom. This illustrates that the forward swing is in the arms. From the top of the back swing you start forward with the hands and arms—exactly as you start away from the ball with the hands—and you whip the club entirely with the hands and arms, the head holding still until the ball is hit. To accomplish this best the player will do well to stand firmly on the right foot until the ball is hit. This accelerates the arm and hand action with the club, whereas if you let the right foot lift it releases the spring of the body and encourages you to begin lunging.

PLAN TO AMEND DIAMOND RULES

Landis Suggests Four Drastic Regulations.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. — Four drastic amendments to the rules that regulate organized baseball may be a direct result of the late Risberg scandal affair, it was learned today.

Commissioner K. M. Landis, who returned a score or more of baseball's celebrities to their "lily white" standing with his decision which exonerated them of the charges brought by Swede Risberg, will himself suggest the four proposed changes in the baseball rules.

The amendments will be proposed and considered when a committee representing the major and minor leagues meet at French Lick Springs next Monday.

The commissioner's suggestions, which no doubt will be adopted, are these:

1—A statute of limitations with respect to alleged baseball offenses.

2—Ineligibility for one year for offering or giving any gift or "reward" by the players or management of one club to the players or management of another club for services rendered in defeating a competing club.

3—Ineligibility for one year for betting any sum whatever upon any ball game in connection with which the bettor has no duty to perform.

4—Permanent ineligibility for betting any sum whatsoever upon any ball game in connection with which the bettor has any duty to perform.

BERGER VICTOR IN ACADEMY TILT

"Dutch" Berger nosed out H. Small by a three-point margin in their three cushion billiard match last night at the Academy parlors. The final count was 25 to 22.

Each of the contenders had runs of three. Small, substituting for Connelly, made Berger extend himself to the limit to cop.

Tonight's match will bring together McDowell and C. Shenkel, beginning at 8 o'clock.

OSBORNE WINS AT AMERICAN

Clicking off a high run of 31 straight, B. Osborne triumphed over Lanning, 75 to 47, in last night's match in the American pocket billiard tournament. The contest was fairly close until Osborne started his run.

Tonight's schedule is: L. Herbert vs B. Hanna; N. Johnson vs T. Watson.

LAUGHLIN HALL TO OPEN FRIDAY

Laughlin Athletic club hall will be open Friday night for members not at the county league basketball game scheduled for the night.

The following members are requested to report at Hume's, at 6:30 Friday night: Golden, Kirkham, Kittridge, Berg, Holt, V. Bailey, Bickerton, Rardin, Gilchrist, Laughlin, E. Bailey, Greenwood, Rose, Williams, Cubberly, Boso, L. Applegate, Edgar and E. Applegate.

HIGHS TO FACE YOUNGSTOWN, SALEM SQUADS

Clash With Red and White Friday on North County Court.

SALEM and Youngstown Chaney formerly known as Youngstown East, are the two foes who will appear this week on the East Liverpool high school basketball schedule.

Lohrah's Blue and White passers, victorious in their last two contests, Akron East and Lisbon, will tackle a tough job tomorrow night at Salem This engagement probably will provide considerable more opposition than the contest with the Youngstown aggregation.

After several straight setbacks, the locals found themselves in the Akron East game here last Friday night which they won decisively after overcoming an eight point lead and they continued their drive on the following night when they ran away from Lisbon at the county seat.

Salem has one of the strongest squads in recent years and one of the most formidable in county circles. The Red and White trounced Alliance recently and last week indulged in a practice tilt with Wooster.

In the latter contest Salem ran up a score of 30 to 1 in the first half, permitting the Wooster lads to collect 11 more points in the second half with every available Salem substitute performing.

While Salem is an old and worthy foe, Chaney, of Youngstown, is a newcomer among the ranks of E. L. H. S. opponents and will be more or less an unknown quantity until they put in their appearance here Saturday night.

150 ENTERED IN CATALINA DERBY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—The 20-mile swim across Catalina channel next Saturday for the $40,000 Wrigley prizes promises to be one of the greatest open sea marathons in the history of sport.

One hundred and fifty-three swimmers from all parts of the United States and Canada, including many of the famous and near famous of the sport, have already been entered for the big swim.

Of this number, 16 are women, with such swimmers as Mrs. Charlotte Moore Schoemmell, Clarabelle Barrett and Lottie Mayer given an edge over the rest of the field of feminine contestants and a good chance of finishing.

Norman Ross, of Chicago, continues to hold sway as the favorite in the race. Ross has the speed and the ability and the experience, and in addition he is said to be in top condition.

Baseball "Scandal" Figures are Glad That "It's Over"

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Here is what five local baseball men, concerned in the latest scandal, had to say regarding the decision of commissioner Landis exonerating all those involved:

Ban Johnson, president of the American league:—It's simply a revival of the cases tried by Judge Landis six years ago. The same men were given a clean bill. There was nothing new, either in the charges or the exoneration.

Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox:—I do not see how it would have been possible for the commissioner to have done otherwise.

Ray Schalk, manager of the White Sox and one of the accused:—That's just the way I knew it would finish. Now we will get ready for the battles on the ball field.

Eddie Collins, also accused:—There never was any question in my mind as to what the decision would be. I am glad it is settled. Now I can get in shape for the coming season.

Clarence Rowland, American league umpire, also named in the charges:—I was confident it would end in such a verdict. Those stories told by Risberg and Gandil were lies. Judge Landis knew it.

LEFTY LEIFIELD

He starred for the Pittsburgh Pirates for eight years — 1905 to 1912—and won the rep of being one of the greatest left-handers in the game.

Then after a few months with the Chicago Cubs and later the Atlanta and San Francisco teams, he dropped out of the game—only to the semi-pro ranks in St. Louis.

But his reputation as a brainy hurler failed to die out with his departure from the big show, Lee Fohl calling him back in 1918 to coach the Brown hurlers.

Even the failure of Fohl at St. Louis and Boston (whither Lefty went with Lee) failed to dim Leifield's fame as a coach.

Now he has a better chance than ever to show his stuff with the Tiger pitchers—always an uncertain and faltering factor in the Tiger makeup.

Doctors Endorse New Studebaker No-Draft Windshield

This diagram shows how the Studebaker no-draft ventilating windshield, when opened outward, directs the air up over the occupants' heads. The convenient handle on the dash adjusts the windshield to any desired position. A hidden trough under the cowl carries off rain when the windshield is set for storm-proof ventilation.

IN the matter of giving professional endorsements, doctors are the most conservative of men. Nevertheless, many leaders of the profession have volunteered their approval of the new no-draft ventilating windshield (patented by Studebaker).

Keeps Out Rain—Lets In Air—Avoids Drafts

Opened inwardly, this new Studebaker windshield directs the air currents down into the driver's compartment. In this position the windshield is also waterproof. In the stormiest downpour, with a driving rain slashing head-on against the open windshield, none can enter the car.

Opened outwardly, it deflects the air in a gentle current up over the heads of the occupants.

In neither case is there any direct draft, yet tobacco smoke and stale air are carried off, while the supply of clean, fresh air is constantly renewed.

All Studebaker Custom Cars have the following equipment

Front and rear bumpers; engine thermometer and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on the dash; coincidental lock; oil filter; automatic windshield cleaner; rear-vision mirror; traffic signal light; 4-wheel brakes; full-size balloon tires; and two-beam acorn headlights, controlled from steering wheel.

Only the fact that Studebaker manufactures all the vital parts of its cars in its own great plants makes such outstanding values possible.

"Your No-Draft Ventilating Windshield not only adds considerably to the comfort of driving, but gives a definite protection against the ills caused by riding in a draft. I believe it to be a decided reform from cowl or open windshield ventilation."
DR. CHAS. J. WHALEN,
Past President,
Illinois Medical Assn.,
Editor, Ill. Medical Journal.

"I am glad to write you what I think about the new Studebaker windshield. I have been over the matter carefully and think that it looks so good I feel sure my next car will have it. It looks like a physical impossibility that any amount of draft can bother the occupants of the seats of the vehicle."
J. M. BLACKFORD, M. D.,
Seattle, Wash.

"In the new Custom Sedan which you have just brought out, the ventilating windshield attracted my attention. I believe this windshield and the ventilating system used thereon, is about the most attractive and up to date arrangement I have ever seen.
"I tried the full effects of the windshield on a rainy day and am very much enthused about the operation of same and the benefits derived therefrom."
J. T. TRAVERS, M. D.,
New York City.

"The new windshield ventilating system is ideal. Its 'overhead or underfoot' selective feature is excellent for the avoidance of the disagreeable draughts to which one is subjected in most cars; and its rainstorm ventilation is a triumph. No more hot, stuffy cars during summer showers."
DR. B. STEWART RALSTON,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

"The health protection afforded by the new Studebaker ventilation system is not only unique, but should prove very valuable to persons who are subject to colds and other ailments caused by sudden weather changes. Studebaker is to be congratulated on this important advancement."

County League First Half Title At Stake Here Tomorrow

ELKS BATTLE WITH STRONG DAMASCUS FIVE

Victory Will Practically Clinch Honors for Locals.

THE top rung in the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league, to which the East Liverpool Elks are now clinging as a result of an unbroken string of seven victories, will be at stake in Friday night's circuit battle with Damascus at the high school gymnasium.

A victory will keep the Elks out in front and a defeat will permit the Quakers to go into the lead.

The contest, in fact, sizes up as the engagement that will decide the championship for the first half of the season, with the two strongest teams of the loop scrapping for the coveted position.

If the Elks lose tomorrow night, it'll be all off, so far as the first half is concerned, for this will be the second clash with the Damascus team, permitting, consequently, no comeback. The league schedule for the half, calls for two games against each league opponent, one at home and one abroad. The Elks dropped their first one at Damascus in the opening week of play and if they should lost this one, the title likely will go winging its way to Quakertown, for it is improbable that any other outfit will take the measure of the Damascans before the end of the half.

Damascus had lost two and the Elks have dropped two and if the locals should have another loss tackled on the chase would be almost hopeless.

However, the Antlers are entertaining no thoughts except those of victory for Bill Powell's outfit is out after that first half championship. Two obstacles must be surmounted, the game with Damascus tomorrow night and the concluding first half setto at Salem on January 28.

The two Laughlin, Newell, basketball squads, will clash in the preliminary tomorrow night.

The league race today remains unchanged as a result of scheduled attractions last night, Lisbon and Columbiana being the beneficiaries of forfeit victories from Wellsville and East Palestine, respectively.

The Wellsville quint was scheduled at Columbiana and East Palestine at Lisbon.

East Palestine went out of the circuit a week or so ago, their action being ratified at Sunday's meeting, and Wellsville went out yesterday.

"The league is now a circuit of six teams and it will continue the first half of the season without East Palestine and Wellsville," Secretary H. P. Brahman announced today. "Both teams were officially dropped from the league's roll yesterday and notices were sent to all managers. Wellsville hopes to re-enter the league at the second half, if a floor can be obtained there. This has been the stumbling block for several weeks, and the team has made every effort to continue."

As a result of the retirement of the Wellsville and East Palestine clubs, all games during the remainder of the first half will be forfeited to the opposing teams.

Speaker-Cobb Case Action Is Expected; Landis Is Evasive

He starred for the Pittsburgh Pirates for eight years — 1905 to 1912—and won the rep of being one of the greatest left-handers in the game.

Then after a few months with the Chicago Cubs and later the Atlanta and San Francisco teams, he dropped out of the game—only to the semi-pro ranks in St. Louis.

But his reputation as a brainy hurler failed to die out with his departure from the big show, Lee Fohl calling him back in 1918 to coach the Brown hurlers.

Even the failure of Fohl at St. Louis and Boston (whither Lefty went with Lee) failed to dim Leifield's fame as a coach.

Now he has a better chance than ever to show his stuff with the Tiger pitchers—always an uncertain and faltering factor in the Tiger makeup.

Doctors Endorse New Studebaker No-Draft Windshield

This diagram shows how the Studebaker no-draft ventilating windshield, when opened outward, directs the air up over the occupants' heads. The convenient handle on the dash adjusts the windshield to any desired position. A hidden trough under the cowl carries off rain when the windshield is set for storm-proof ventilation.

IN the matter of giving professional endorsements, doctors are the most conservative of men. Nevertheless, many leaders of the profession have volunteered their approval of the new no-draft ventilating windshield (patented by Studebaker).

Keeps Out Rain—Lets In Air—Avoids Drafts

Opened inwardly, this new Studebaker windshield directs the air currents down into the driver's compartment. In this position the windshield is also waterproof. In the stormiest downpour, with a driving rain slashing head-on against the open windshield, none can enter the car.

Opened outwardly, it deflects the air in a gentle current up over the heads of the occupants.

In neither case is there any direct draft, yet tobacco smoke and stale air are carried off, while the supply of clean, fresh air is constantly renewed.

All Studebaker Custom Cars have the following equipment

Front and rear bumpers; engine thermometer and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on the dash; coincidental lock; oil filter; automatic windshield cleaner; rear-vision mirror; traffic signal light; 4-wheel brakes; full-size balloon tires; and two-beam acorn headlights, controlled from steering wheel.

Only the fact that Studebaker manufactures all the vital parts of its cars in its own great plants makes such outstanding values possible.

"Your No-Draft Ventilating Windshield not only adds considerably to the comfort of driving, but gives a definite protection against the ills caused by riding in a draft. I believe it to be a decided reform from cowl or open windshield ventilation."
DR. CHAS. J. WHALEN,
Past President,
Illinois Medical Assn.,
Editor, Ill. Medical Journal.

"I am glad to write you what I think about the new Studebaker windshield. I have been over the matter carefully and think that it looks so good I feel sure my next car will have it. It looks like a physical impossibility that any amount of draft can bother the occupants of the seats of the vehicle."
J. M. BLACKFORD, M. D.,
Seattle, Wash.

"In the new Custom Sedan which you have just brought out, the ventilating windshield attracted my attention. I believe this windshield and the ventilating system used thereon, is about the most attractive and up to date arrangement I have ever seen.
"I tried the full effects of the windshield on a rainy day and am very much enthused about the operation of same and the benefits derived therefrom."
J. T. TRAVERS, M. D.,
New York City.

"The new windshield ventilating system is ideal. Its 'overhead or underfoot' selective feature is excellent for the avoidance of the disagreeable draughts to which one is subjected in most cars; and its rainstorm ventilation is a triumph. No more hot, stuffy cars during summer showers."
DR. B. STEWART RALSTON,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

"The health protection afforded by the new Studebaker ventilation system is not only unique, but should prove very valuable to persons who are subject to colds and other ailments caused by sudden weather changes. Studebaker is to be congratulated on this important advancement."

SHORT TALKS BY THOUGHTFUL MOTHERS

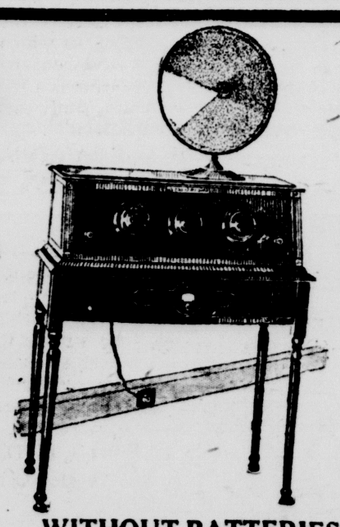

An Ohio (Cleveland) mother says this: "We prefer Foley's Honey and Tar Compound above all other cough remedies for our children because it contains no chloroform or harmful opiates and is not in the least constipating. It helps their coughs quickly and makes them comfortable when they have snuffles and feverish colds. Baby is subject to croup and it gives us a feeling of security to have Foley's Honey and Tar in the house." Mrs. E. H. I.—(name furnished). Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Sold everywhere.

Don't Risk Pneumonia By Neglecting a Cold

If you have a cough or cold, don't neglect it during this pneumonia weather. A cough or cold weakens your resistance. If you let it "go down" into your chest it always causes congestion in your bronchial tubes—and these tubes lead directly into your lungs.

If you get pneumonia, call a doctor immediately. But if you have a threatening cold or cough—even bronchitis—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! End it before inflammation goes down into the "danger zone."

Quickly and unfailingly Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of trouble. Real Medicine, reaching deep with its healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

With the very first swallow of Cherry Pectoral you feel its comforting warmth. The soothing, healing powers of this hospital-tested medicine are absorbed by the linings of throat, chest and bronchial tubes, just as ink is absorbed by a blotter. This is why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral so quickly stops the cough, drives out the cold and brings sure, lasting relief. pd24c

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is used by doctors and hospital clinics—for children and grown people. Even sick children love its flavor. At all druggists, 60c; twice as much, $1.00

D. W. Grittith Hit, 'Sorrows of Satan,' Is At Ceramic

Adolphe Menjou, Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and Others in Screen Success Cast.

What well-known actor can best play the role of Satan?

D. W. Griffith found himself asking that question some months ago. And it took him a long time to find the right man even though he was aided in his efforts by the whole of Paramount's huge production staff.

In the days of the operatic treatment of "Faust," it would have been easy. All that was needed was a tight-fitting red suit, long ears, eyebrows pointing up, sinister make-up, a pair of horns and there you were—old man Satan himself!

But that kind of Satan wouldn't do Griffith at all. His, had to be a man of stately presence, courtly manner, charming personality, breeding, and wealth,—one giving an impression of reserve power.

It was such a Satan that Marie Corelli created in her book, "Sorrows of Satan." To draw a pen picture of the man seems easy, but the director's task was different. He had to make him the central figure of the novel's picturization.

After a series of tests and conferences, a man deemed to be perfect was selected and given the role, Griffith, Mr. Lasky and every one concerned with the film, became enthusiastic. The actor's first day on the "Sorrows of Satan" set resembled nothing so much as a continuous ovation.

Why keep his name secret? No one less than Adolphe Menjou, hero of a thousand romances, had won the coveted role!

The picture opened a three-day run at the Ceramic theatre today.

Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and Lya de Putti are included in the roster of featured players. John Russell and George Hull adapted the novel for screen use. Forrest Halsey wrote the screen play.

ASK PAYMENT OF PAVING JOB

Commissioners Call for Eighth Street Money.

The city of East Liverpool today was again urged to reimburse the county commissioners for an unpaid balance of more than $7,000 for the West Eighth street improvement, completed last spring.

Cost of the job was borne jointly by the city, county and the traction company. The commissioners charged that the county agreed to contribute $25,000, the street car company $15,000, the city the balance. The amount, which is still due the county, under whose direction the improvement was made, has never been paid despite repeated attempts to collect it.

Unless a settlement is made, the commissioners may take steps to attach the automobile license funds due the city, it was hinted at Lisbon.

SOME of the news is bad, some good.

There is a plague of influenza sweeping Europe, not quite, but nearly as bad as the original attack that killed millions just after the war. In Spain alone 200,000 are ill, France and Switzerland are hit by the epidemic Big American cities would do well to segregate severe influenza cases. New York Citys health department has set the example.

HERE is good and interesting news. The various talking moving picture contrivances have got together for the general improvement of talking pictures that will be the great educational and amusement devices of the future.

B. F. Blume, president, and J. E. Otterson, vice-president, of the Western Electric company, which controls the vitaphone, saw in William Fox's studio yesterday remarkable pictures of Raquel Meller, the Spanish actress, singing and acting.

In reproduction of voice, movement of lips, gestures and expression of the face synchronization were absolutely perfect. Having seen and heard that picture, it is not necessary to see Raquel Meller herself.

MR. BLUME, in whose laboratories was perfected the mechanism for talking across the Atlantic ocean, announces a arrangement by which the Fox-Case talking pictures method and the vitaphone method would be interchanged. Those that own various talking picture devices have arranged to exchange information and allow one to use the ideas or patents of the other, for the benefit of the industry.

MESSRS. BLUME and Otterson also saw intensely interesting educational pictures for public schools in which Mr. Fox is specializing. That is the great moving picture need of the day and other producers should interest themselves in it.

Mr. Eastman, of the kodak company, is producing educational moving pictures and will distribute actual moving picture lessons in surgery for doctors. The moving picture will make it possible for surgeons to be heard and see lecturing and operating at the same time.

TO MAKE Spain's influenza epidemic seem worse, there are earthquakes in Portugal, sending people flying into the streets and fields. Subterranean rumbles add to the terror.

Portugal, more than any other country, dreads earthquakes with good reason. The worst earthquake in all recorded history destroyed the city of Lisbon and caused one distinguish-

ROBERT F. WOLFE IS KILLED IN PLUNGE FROM FIFTH FLOOR

Ohio Financial and Political Leader Accident Victim.

66 YEARS OLD

Publisher of Columbus Dispatch and Ohio State Journal.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Robert F. Wolfe, publisher of the Columbus Dispatch and the Ohio State Journal, and one of the most prominent men in Ohio financial and political circles, was instantly killed shortly before noon today, in a fall from a window of his office on the fifth floor of the Columbus Dispatch building.

Wolfe, who was alone in his private office, but a few minutes previously had remarked to one of his associates that he "felt dizzy," and would open all his windows to air out the room.

It is believed that he tripped in opening one of the large casement windows which give access to a wide coping around the building and in doing so, lost his balance and fell.

Sailor, Cowboy, Lumberjack.

Wolfe was born Nov. 7, 1860, and as a youth lived with his parents, the late Andrew Jackson Wolfe and Nancy Barton Wolfe, in Zanesville and later in Cumberland, O. He worked in a glass factory at Zanesville, and at 14, he was driving a canal boat between Cumberland, Md., and Georgetown, D. C. Later he served as a seaman on a coasting schooner, and was a newsboy on the streets of New York for awhile. His early life was filled with varied experiences, as a sailor, a cowboy in Texas, and a lumberjack in the Louisiana cypress swamps

He established a shoe factory in Columbus, after he moved here in 1888, and in 1903, with his brother, Harry P. Wolfe, purchased the State Journal. Two years later, the brothers bought the Dispatch.

Wolfe married Miss Ada Thurston, Jan. 14, 1890, and is survived by his son, Edgar B. Wolfe, who has succeeded to the management of the Journal.

Rated Multi-Millionaire.

The publisher was known for his many gifts to civic and charitable causes, and was rated several times a millionaire. He donated a 40-acre tract to the city for an extension of beautiful Franklin park, in 1913. He was commissioned a commodore in the Ohio naval reserve, for his part in the rescue work during the flood of 1913

Wolfe was known as a silent, but powerful influence in state and national political circles in Ohio. He advocated the reelection of Woodrow Wilson in 1916, and just as staunchly supported President Coolidge in the latest presidential campaign.

His son, Edgar B. Wolfe; one brother, Harry Preston Wolfe, and two sisters, Mrs. Henry A. Houstle, Columbus, and Mrs. David S. Beverly Babron, survive him

James Taylor, Stationary Engineer, Gets Prison Term

East End Man Sentenced After Pleading Guilty of Charges Made by His 16-year-old Daughter.

James Taylor, stationary engineer, residing in East End, was sentenced to serve from one to 10 years in the state penitentiary when he faced Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court yesterday upon an indictment returned against him by the grand jury as the result of disclosures made by his 16-year-old daughter.

Taylor was arrested here several months ago. He was held for action by the grand jury by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley and has been in the county jail at Lisbon in the interim.

Upon arraignment, Taylor pleaded not guilty. He told the court that he had no means to employ counsel, adding that "my wife has but I can't get my hands on it." He later asked that he be again taken before the judge when he changed his plea and was sentenced.

OHIO VALLEY OIL COMPANY WINS TWO-FOLD FIGHT OVER TRADE MARK

Right to Use "Super-Flash" Term is Upheld in Washington Ruling and Cleveland Court Decision.

The Ohio Valley Oil company, of East Liverpool, of which Frank G. Jones is president, today was a winner in two fights over the use of the trade mark, "Super-Flash," in the sale of gasoline, according to dispatches from Washington and Cleveland.

At a hearing before the commissioner of patents in the national capital, the East Liverpool company's application for registration of the trade mark was granted, despite objections made by the Western Oil company.

Later, in the United States district court in Cleveland, Judge Westenhaver refused the application of the Western Oil company for an injunction to restrain the Ohio Valley company from using the term, "Super-Flash." The Western company had charged that the name was an infringement upon their trade mark, "Silver Flash."

Attorney George E. Davidson represented Jones' interests in the two cases, while the Western Oil company's legal representatives included Roomler, Carter and Rust, and Hood and Hahn, Indianapolis, and Marty and Fuller, Cleveland.

TWO BANDITS NABBED AFTER GUN PLAY NEAR GREENSBURG, PA.

Robbers Overpowered When One Youth's Pistol is Jammed.

BRAKEMAN HERO

Dashes for Armed Outlaw After Trainman is Robbed.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 13—Two bandits who attempted to hold up the Pennsylvania railroad's Keystone express, bound from New York to St. Louis, near here, early today were overpowered and arrested when one bandit's gun jammed as he started to shoot their way to freedom.

Search Passengers.

The attempted robbery occurred between Greensburg and Pitcairn.

Police said the bandits gave their names as W. F. Hevner, 21, of Tyrone, and L. D. Rhodes, 25, Johnstown.

Authorities said Hevner only recently was released from the state reformatory at Huntingdon. He had in his possession a bag given inmates of the Huntingdon institution and a bank book issued by a Tyrone, Pa., institution, when arrested.

Hevner was armed but his companion was not. As the train pulled out of Greensburg, 40 miles east of Pittsburgh, the bandits walked through the smoking car, their revolver drawn, and ordered passengers to surrender their valuables.

While the bandits were searching the passengers in the front part, other passengers in the rear of the car went for aid. The bandits fled into the baggage car when J. J. Fulton, a brakeman off duty, approached them.

Panic On Front Coaches.

After robbing F. W. Dorsey, baggagemaster, the bandits re-entered the smoker and were accosted by Fulton who made a dash for Hevner, the armed bandit. Hevner warned him to stand back, and pulled the trigger when Fulton ignored his command police said.

Fulton owes his life to the fact that Hevner's gun jammed. An instant later the railroad man overpowered Hevner, wrestling his gun from him. While passengers pounced upon Rhodes.

The prisoners were taken to Pittsburgh and turned over to police. While panic prevailed on the front coaches during the robbery many passengers in the rear coaches did not know the train was being robbed until the bandits had been captured.

Bottled home brew was found, police said.

Clark paid part of his fine and arranged to pay the balance.

Salem Constable Is Awarded $10,000 Damages in Suit

Earl Ritchie, Perry township constable, was awarded $10,000 damages against Mrs. Lucretia Oltean, Salem, by a jury in common pleas court at Lisbon, yesterday afternoon.

Ritchie, a former dry raider, claimed that he suffered injuries of a permanent nature when the defendant pushed him through a window while he was searching her house for liquor. His arm was badly lacerated by the broken glass, he charged. He sued for $25,000. Judge Charles N. Moore presided at the trial.

Attorneys for the defense announced today that the case would be carried to the appellate court on error if a notice for a new trial is overruled.

NOTICE, KILNMEN!

There will be a special meeting of the L. U. No 9, Friday, Jan. 14 to vote on two important questions. By order of President.

WORKERS SPEED JOB OF ERECTING PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE CHURCH OF CHRIST ADDITION IN ONE DAY

A score of workers, directed by John Smith, boss carpenter, today were speeding the task of erecting in eight hours an addition to the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ to accommodate crowds at Fife Brothers' evangelistic services.

As a battery of hammers were driving nails into the tabernacle, which will adjoin one end of the structure, in the hope of completing it in time for services at 7:30 o'clock tonight, twenty-women were working over pots and pans in the kitchen of the church preparing a hot dinner for the laborers.

Judging from the progress made at noon, the enlarged structure, furnace-heated, electrically-lighted and sawdusted, will be opened tonight.

With the erection of the addition the name of the house of worship will be changed to "The Tabernacle Church of Christ." It will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

"If Rev. C. Melvin McKay and the Fife brothers did not believe this tabernacle would be a blessing and add new members to all the churches of this city and raise the general spiritual tide of this community, I would not want to see it built," said Dr. Clyde Fife, head of the Radio Log Cabin Boys from Kentucky.

"The time has long passed when people believe that salvation can only be brought through one church or one preacher. I am only here to do my part and we had to have a place to put the people.

Condemns "Trial Marriage."

"When I read such damnable doctrines as 'Trial Marriage,' 'Black Oxen' and other infidel rot which is being fed to the world today, I become disgusted with life and feel that the last days predicted in my mother's Bible are here. But when I think of Mary and the children and remember that millions of Godly people still have common sense and their feet on the ground, I take courage to fight on to a glorious consummation of this great unfinished task.

"I have a little daughter and I hope to God I die before I ever see her a part of any trial marriage.

"Unless people want to rear children and nourish these little hands by which we lay hold of heaven, in God's name what is the use of marrying?

"In the name of reason does it take a fool or a philosopher to guess who will take care of these little babies born of these trial marriages. Who always took care of them? The poor mothers and the church of the living God.

Hits Free Thinkers.

"When I was a boy in Kentucky my daddy took me one day to a free thinkers' convention. That matchless, silver-tongued orator, Bob Ingersol, stood there and preached that day the doctrine of free love. Had I accepted his doctrine, I would have been piled up in hell 20 years ago. What saved me?

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A moderate spurt in prices of railroad and dividend industrial stocks in early trading today was hailed as the evidence of an influx of investment buying. Meanwhile, the professionals have been gradually stirring up speculative interest in the oil stocks, which advanced in good form under the lead of Standard of New Jersey and a few of the well known independents.

Wall street was inclined to ignore the apparent gathering of the war clouds in Mexico and Nicaragua, and to place more emphasis on the evidences of easy money and the continuance of large scale industrial production. Gold importations from Canada, augmenting the new shipments from France yesterday, places the banks in a comfortable position. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

A 3 per cent gain in the mill operations of the U. S. Steel corporation helped to stiffen the market for the "big steel" stock, while Republic Iron and Steel continued the move which started on Monday, moving up to a new high at 62. Anaconda, Kennecott and other copper stocks were in good demand at fractionally higher prices.

Standard Oil of New Jersey showed unusual strength in moving up about a point to 39½ in the first hour in a huge volume of trading. Rights for the purchase of the new stock at $25 a share expire this week. Marland sold above 58, while Pure Oil, Simms, California Pet'o and Texas company were active and firm.

Lehigh Valley led the rails with its new advance to 106 on "inside buying." Atchison, Rock Island and New York Central sold fractionally higher. Motor stocks were inactive but firm. specialties steady.

My mother's prayers. I could answer Ingersol but I could not answer ma's life.

"I tell you the answer to all this. You mothers should open up the old fashioned parlor for your daughters to have their company at home and then sister, you get out of the room and don't try to do all the talking. I despise that. When you think more of your old, rotten furniture and carpets than you do of your children you become a zero with the rim rubbed out and drive your children from your home until the word home means not even hot soup for them.

"Let me ask you a question. Who will care for and what is to become of these cast-off women of trial marriages? What man of any self-respect wants a woman that has been pawned and licked over by every old yap. They become embittered and curse God and die. But before they die, they reap their revenge.

"Ben Lindsay talks about what all science has done for them. Hear me! What is the finality of this promiscuous business. Leprosy, what did science ever do for leprosy? Not a blooming thing. It does not even know what it is. Great God, men, go with me to the Island of Molokai and watch that leprous throng eaten slowly away by this knawing rot that dieth not. Rockefeller's millions, all human "foundations for scientific research" never touched that disease. And since the matchless Son of God healed that disease 2,000 year ago no other answer has been found. I therefore turn from Ben Lindsay to my mother's Bible and find in the teachings of my Saviour the answer for the problems that perplex the mind and vex the soul."

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P STEWART

UNCLE SAM'S ACTUARY RADIATES FIGURES INTO SPARKLING FACTS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Joseph S. McCoy is government actuary. He deals in statistics.

There are plenty of other government statisticians. All the departments have them. The army and navy departments can tell, on an average, just how much damage is done by a given number of pounds of high explosives The agriculture department has volumes of statistics on weather. The census bureau wallows in statistical comparisons. The labor department compiles them by the ream.

JOSEPH McCOY

Oh, yes, there are plenty of statisticians in Washington, but there's only one Joseph S. McCoy.

A statistician is supposed to be a dry-as-dust old duck—a creature of charts, with curves and zig-zag lines. He's supposed to know nothing but figures—to see nothing but what he's worked out mathematically.

How utterly unlike such conception is Joseph S. McCoy.

His surroundings are according to Hoyle, to be sure. He has a dim, dank dungeon in the bowels of the Treasury Buildings. It's a moldy, gloomy hole—and ideal place in which to look for a treasury actuary.

And then you see J. S. McCoy. The dungeon lights up immediately. With McCoy's inside it, no place could look grim and drear.

He's oldish, that's a fact. He has to be, to have assimilated as many figures as he has. Right there his resemblance to the conventional statistician ends. He probably is the jolliest-looking, white-mustached old gentleman in Washington.

You ask for some statistics and you get 'em, but statistics served in the funniest form you ever beheld. They don't suggest statistics at all.

The idea is, McCoy mixes his figures with imagination. He doesn't mix 'em with fiction. He deals only with facts, but he shows imagination in the way he combines them

Figures are his raw material. His product is romance.

I called on him the other day in connection with a query concerning post-war finances—interrational debts money market control, problems of exchange and the shape that current banking developments are likely to take.

"Well, you see," replied the veteran actuary, "you can't look far into the future without glancing back into the past."

And he glanced straightway back to the time of the earlier Crusades.

Then, it appears, was when the international financier got his real start.

There were some dabblers in the business in really ancient times, but the Crusaders were the folk who had to float the first sure-enough war loans.

From the Crusades, McCoy proceeded on down through history, hitting the financial high spots here and there, to the Battle of Waterloo, when the Rothschilds made their initial big killing.

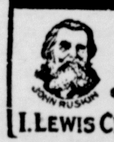

Jumping then to the United States, he sketched America's banking and commercial career to date.

On this foundation he built the superstructure of his prediction for the future.

What it was is neither here nor there, further than that it was optimistic, as might be expected from so cheerful a statistician as Joseph S. McCoy. The point is that there are mighty few actuaries who can compile a set of figures as thick as Webster's Unabridged and reel 'em off in the form of the most exciting kind of a story book, dating from the days of Richard the Lion Hearted to collection of the last war debt outstanding in favor of the United States.

Four Actions Before Common Pleas Court.

Steps to collect inheritance taxes from four former Columbiana county residents have been taken in the common pleas court. The judgments have been placed on the execuction docket to act as a lien against the property owned by the estate.

In the estate of the late Harrison B. Rinehart, of East Liverpool, there is a judgment for $141 and interest from April 10, 1924. In the case of the late A. P. Van Fleet, there is an unpaid tax of $175 and interest from November 11, 1920. The Elizabeth M. Ausley estate owes $227.57 and interest from September 25, 1923, while a judgment of $14 and interest from Nov. 20, 1922, rests against the estate of the late Henry C. Groff.

The sheriff is empowered to collect the taxes through public sale of the property involved.

MACHINE GUN SALE BAN MOVE

Representative Emmons Introduces Bill at Columbus.

State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester, has introduced a bill in the lower branch of the state legislature making the sale or possession of machine guns, except by police or national guardsmen, a felony.

The proposal would make the penalty for carrying concealed weapons, which is now from one to three years, 30 days to nine months in penitentiary. Concealed weapons, according to the provisions of the measure, would include "blackjack, billy, sandclub, sandbag, metal knuckles, bludgeon, dagger, dirk, dangerous knife, razor or stiletto.'

The bill also requires that all owners of firearms shall register them and procure a license from the county clerk. Sale or possession of a bomb would result, upon conviction, in a term of one to five years in the penitentiary. The measure it is claimed, has the backing of the American Legion.

Why We Become Weak, Run-Down It Glands Fail

THOUSANDS drag through life always tired and worn-out, suffering with loss of energy and vitality, and fail to recognize the cause of their trouble. Medical authorities now know the trouble as "asthenia," and claim it is caused by an unbalanced glandular system or weakened glands.

Glands exert a remarkable influence on health, strength and vitality. When the glands function normally they supply their vitalizing hormones (or secretions) which are essential to physical well-being. And when the glands fail to function, health fails.

Now, glandular treatment ,which is endorsed by eminent scientists and physicians of this country and Europe, is being used by thousands of men and women to help overcome a weakened, worn-out, rundown, exhausted condition, and to regain the strength, vigor and vitality that are the natural benefits resulting from a normal glandular system.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen is prepared in convenient tablet form, for both men and women. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Mathews Cut Rate Store will supply you.

Not Guilty

Confidence in the honesty of baseball since the outlawing of principals in the "fixed" world series of 1919, was strengthened yesterday by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis' decision exonerating Eddie Collins, of the Philadelphia Athletics; Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Ray Schalk, pilot of the Chicago White Sox; Clarence Rowland and others of charges preferred by Charles (Swede) Risberg and Arnold (Chick) Gandil, discredited players.

The baseball commissioner, accepting the testimony of the accused men that they had not been implicated in any crookedness, and comparing it with the statements of Risberg and Gandil, barred from participation in major league games because of their alleged complicity in "thrown" games, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The decision was no suprise to the fans, for the 33 men named in charges of a "sloughed" series between the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox had emphatically denied on the witness stand any knowledge of wrongdoing in the playing the games. And the Judge Landis believed their stories.

On the other hand, the supreme court of the national pastime, like most of the fans, took little stock in the statements of Risberg and Gandil, for they had nothing to lose and everything to gain by the so-called expose. And, too, it was hinted that their expenses, and probably other compensation, in connection with the investigation were paid by sources outside of baseball.

The only disappointment to the public in the exoneration of the men named in the Risberg-Gandil allegations was the fact that Judge Landis made no reference to the charges made by Hubert (Dutch) Leonard against Tris Speaker and Tyrus Cobb, former pilots of the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians. Both men are urging that the baseball commissioner define their status, and it will prove no surprise if they, too, are given a clean bill of health.

And at the same time, it is hoped that the judge shall pass upon the application of George (Buck) Weaver, star third baseman of the White Sox in the alleged "fixed" series with the Cincinnati Reds, for reinstatement. Weaver, one of the best infielders the national pastime has seen, always insisted, and many fans have believed him, that he was innocent of any complicity in the 1919 scandal. He refused to support Risberg and Gandil in their charges, and in concluding his testimony, in which he said he declined to contribute to a pool for Detroit pitchers, requested restoration to good standing. And Judge Landis has promised to act upon the request.

Within the next week or 10 days, finis probably will be written on all cases of alleged crookedness in the game. And it is a foregone conclusion that the revelations will serve as a warning in the future. The investigation should prove beneficial to the game.

Italian Saber-Rattling

War between France and Italy? Some writers see this possibility in the news that six Fascist legions have been mobilized along the French border. The French are reported to have sent troops in their turn as a counter-demonstration.

The mutual ill-will of the two countries had its chief origin a few months ago, when Mussolini denounced France for permitting criticism of the Italian government. Later it developed that Italy was hiring agents in France to work up conspiracies against Fascist rule, in order to be able to complain that these plots were hatched on French soil. (Among these agents was the grandson of the great Garibaldi). In other words, Mussolini was manufacturing his own grievances.

Unquestionably relations are strained, but war is unlikely. Not long ago prophets foretold immediate war between Italy and Germany. Now these countries have signed a ten-year arbitration treaty. Today the Italians threaten France; tomorrow it may be Turkey, where Mussolini sees an outlet for Italy's surplus population.

Italy has nothing to gain by war with France or Germany. The present hostile demonstrations probably aim only to flatter Italy's self-esteem and distract popular discontent. If any foreign blow is meant, Turkey is the most likely country to receive it.

Straw Print Paper

A plant now being installed in Edmonston, Canada, will turn out newsprint paper from straw. Apparently a process has been devised for transferring this rather difficult material into a pulp smooth and white enough for the purpose.

It is a good use for the strawstacks of the great Canadian wheat belt, and should do much to conserve the Canadian pulpwood forests.

And if in Canada, why not in the United States, where there is less timber and more straw? Cornstalks, which used to be mostly waste, are now, as silage, turned into beef, milk and butter. If straw, which probably represents the biggest wastage still left on the American farm, can be turned into newspapers, it will save the forests and make money for farmers.

WHEN THE POLICE START THINKING.

Either the secretary of the Los Angeles civil service commission is a practical joker or the first order of the members of the Los Angeles police department are a lot of unconscious humorists. Let the reader decide:

Some time ago an examination was held in the Fillum City for patrolmen who desired to qualify for future vacancies among the sergeants. Naturally, the candidates for promotion were numerous.

Afterwards the secretary of the commission, in going over the papers, compiled certain questions, with the answers to those questions, and made copies of them and distributed them among his friends. On his word of honor he swore that he had changed no single word and that, if anybody doubted his word, he had the original papers on file in his office to prove it.

Be that as it may, here is the collection:

Question: What would you do in case of a race riot?

Answer: Get the number of both cars.

Question: What is sabotage?

Answer: Breaking the laws of the Sabbath.

Question: Name an act that would constitute reckless driving.

Answer: Driving without due regard to the Presbyterians on the street.

Question: What is arson?

Answer: Mistreating a woman.

Question: What first-aid treatment would you give a person having an epileptic fit?

Answer: Take him to a doctor and have the bite treated.

Question: What are the rabies and what would you do for them?

Answer: Rabies are Jewish priests and I would be very glad to do anything I could for them.

Question: To what extent may an officer use force in effecting an arrest.

Answer: Use good common sense, and if not capable, summon help.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—Hollywood dinners are mostly buffet. Thus no embarrassment. A hostess may invite 15 and 50 will arrive. The camaraderie is close knit and "crashing the gate" is not considered a breach of etiquette nor does it offend.

Last night at George Van Cleve's I met more of those who had attained Hollywood celebrity. Tom Mix was there in correct dinner dress but clinging to the wide, white two gallon hat of the pampas. Jack Pickford who is considered Hollywood's neatest dancer.

Anita Stewart who is going in for voice culture on the side. Fragile Lila Lee and her robust husband, James Kirkwood. Carmel Myers who has a flair for poetry. Charles Christy who with his brother Al built the first studio in Hollywood. G. G. Young, the publisher, who collects stamps when not civic promoting.

Marion Davies was also there. She is the Hollywood hoyden—the life of every party and considered the best story teller in the colony. Also Elinor Glyn in severe black with tufts of fiery red hair peeping from under a wide Gainsborough hat.

Bebe Daniels—whose off hours are spent flushing out antiques—and her mother. Several who had come out here for the last great adventure and were in the bloom of rugged health. Cecil De Mille, coming late from the studio, to tell a good story.

It was the sort of party to which I might have taken Aunt Het, who has spells, with her knitting and she would have never dropped a stitch. There was a cycle of songs by a London singer, a duet, a piano number and several amusing slitherings of the Black Bottom.

Afterward some drifted off to bridge, others danced and still others paired off into chatting groups. I am still on the trail of a "wild" Hollywood party where they stay out later than midnight. But too many must be at the studios early, it seems, for that.

Elinor Glyn's chief fame perhaps lies in her novel "Three Weeks." One expects to find an exotic lady a little aflame with varying emotions. She is instead soft spoken, sedate and the sort usually described as "motherly."

It has been a dream when my ship comes in to buy the famous Bernheimer Japanese mansion poised with such delicate grace on the Hollywood hills. Today I met its new owner Joe Toplitzky. He is a New York youth in his thirties with a collegiate look and boyish smile. He is one of those young Americans to spring up like a Jack-in-the-box from nowhere to astounding wealth. His realty holdings are in the millions and his hat fits him still.

Early this morning I visited the Valentino estate in Beverly hills It has been ravaged of its treasures for public auction and the home seemed an empty echo of an amazing glory. I remained there only a few moments.

There are very few taxicabs in Los Angeles for the simple reason there is one private auto to every three persons in the town. Taxis are used by hotel visitors and in a rain by Los Angelans and that is all. I have always believed ramshackled, loud patterned taxis spoiled the beauty of many streets. This is proved in Los Angeles.

Hollywood streets in the evening resemble somewhat the popular notion. Here you see the sheiks and Shebas strolling about. Also those lisping infants whose mouths are pused in perpetual puckers, thrumming the one stringed ukes. And hoping to be discovered by Mons. Griffith

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

How Salt is Produced.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—Salt is said to be the most universally uesd article of food known to mankind. It is so common and so cheap that when one wishes to disparage a man the expression, "He's not worth his salt," is frequently used, and on the other hand it is so important and of such excellence in savouring food that it is a term of the highest praise to say of a man that he is the salt intervened.

Wars have been waged over sources of salt supply, salt has been used as a medium of exchange, many of the ancient trade routes were laid out for the transportation of salt, soldiers of the Roman Empire at one time were paid in part in salt, salt taxes in the olden days were found a prolific source of revenue, and quite recently some natives in Ecuador were killed when, desperate for need of salt, they attempted to raid a government warehouse and seize a supply. In fact, salt's value to man has been comparable to that of water, and man has shown that he will do almost anything to possess himself of this essential condiment.

Salt is produced either by the evaporation of sea or other salt water or by mining. In some of the latter processes it is mined like coal; in others the said deposits are reduced to brine and then pumped or forced out. Europe goes in largely for the former process. At Wieliczka, in Austria, is one of the most famous of the old world salt mines, opened up in 1608, that is said to be even yet the largest in the world. It is 984 feet deep and extends 300 feet below sea level. In the mine are over 25 miles of railroad converging in a central station that has been carved out of solid salt, and there is an enormous salt room in the mine in which many royal fetes have been held. More than 1200 miners are employed. At Sperenberg, Germany, is another famous salt deposit that is known to be over 3,000 feet in thickness.

A Colonial Salt Works.

In colonial days in this country salt was secured by allowing sea water to evaporate in open pans. The product was not pure, but it was the best obtainable. The first salt works for producing this crude article was operated in Virginia along about 1620.

The more extensive deposits of salt in the United States are found in New York, Michigan, Ohio, Louisiana, Kansas, Texas, California, Nevada, Utah, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In New York, Michigan and Ohio the deposits are found at depths varying from 1,200 to 2,700 feet; in some of the Kansas fields, at a depth of only 100 feet. Some of the New York and Kansas beds are fully 300 feet in thickness.

By the more modern mining processes generally used in this country, wells are drilled into the salt bed and two pipes, one inside the other, are sunk to the bottom of the wells. Then water is forced down the outer pipe under great pressure to dissolve the salt and be returned as brine through the inner pipe. In a few plants the water is permitted to flow into the wells from natural sources and the brine is pumped out.

From the well houses the brine is conveyed to enourmous settling tanks, which may be two or three stories in height, and are used for the precipitation of the impurities in the salt. After the impurities have left the brine it is pumped into huge storage tanks where it presents a beautifully clear, sparkling appearance. Looking down from the top, the bottom of the tank may be seen as clearly as if no liquid interevened.

As the first step in forcing the brine to give up its salt, explains M. H. Joffe, of the Colonial Salt company, of Akron, it is preheated. From this point two paths may be taken, one leading to the vacuum pans where hard cube salt is made, and the other to the grainer where the soft, porous, flaky variety is produced. The grainer is a vast hollow vat. Steam pipes run through its entire length, and below the pipes are ingenious automatic rakes. As the temperature of the brine is increased, and the water begins to evaporate, the point is soon reached where the salt leaves the solution and falls like snow to the bottom.

Final Drying Done in Kilns.

The flow of the brine and the temperature are carefully controlled, so that a constant formation of salt is secured, continues Mr. Joffe. The automatic rakes travel along the bottom of the grainer, and the accumulating salt is slowly worked toward the fornt where it is carried up a slight incline. There most of the water drains out. More moisture is driven out by a series of centrifugal machines to which wide belt conveyors carry the wet salt, but the finel drying is done in the kiln driers.

A kiln drier is nothing more than a boiler plate cylinder mounted horizontally and at a slight incline. A series of narrow shelves are arranged equidistant around the inner surface for the entire length of the drier. In the center is a cylindrical drum, also running the entire length of the drier, which is kept extremely hot by means of steam coils inside. The drier rotates slowly and the salt from the centrifugal machine as it enters at one end, drops from the shelf to the hot drum in the center. This operation is repeated hundreds of times during its slow journey through the drier.

Next the dried salt is conveyed to the screening department where it passes over a series of screens of differing mesh. The fine salt drops through at the first or finest mesh screen, of course, and so on, until at the end of the very coarse salt is screened. Each grade has its own storage bins, where it is ready for packing and shipping.

Cube salt is made by placing the huge tops. Some of the air in these the brine in containers that resemble vacuum pans, which are pans only in name, is removed so that the water or brine in them will boil at a lower temperature than in the open air. This process produces salt much more economically than the grainer, it is stated, but it is a salt of hard crystalline character that is much less soluable than the flake salt produced by the grainer.

The differing types of salt to be found in the market are prepared by adding certain ingredients to pure salt. The common variety of free-running table salt is made by adding a small amount of magnesium carbonate or similar material, and iodized salt, of which much is now heard, is produced by the addition of a very small amount of sodium iodide.

Included in a modern salt plant are the shops where barrels and boxes paper cartons of various shapes and sizes and cloth sacks are made. Also there bust be a printing plant for turning out the labels that are used on the containers.

Brine is very corrosive and the machinery in a salt plant wears out very quickly.

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, narrator of the tale, is an American employed by a bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to visit the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying abroad. During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the league is discussing the illicit drug traffic. At the municipal casino he sees a stout, flashily dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a dancing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marce—calls on him and demands the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped, made prisoner in a house outside the city and questioned by a Japanese. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door, which he cannot open, but through which finally comes a shaft of light.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Something was happening to the door, and I watched it breathlessly. Some sort of panel had slipped back, disclosing a square opening in the middle, through the light was streaming. Presently a bare hand and arm came slowly through the aperture, and began groping at my side of the door. I held my breath, and could hear the scratch and patter of fingers as the hand probed this way and that. Presently it stopped, and a thumb pressed hard a small knot in the middle of the door. Nothing happened, however, and I heard an exclamation of annoyance from the unseeen owner of the arm. After some further fumbling and pressing, the arm was withdrawn, and I heard a voice saying in French, with a strange foreign accent, which I could not immediately place:

"The door is jammed. I must get some oil."

The arm vanished, and I heard footsteps upon the farther side. The panel, however, was not closed, and creeping up to it I cautiously applied my eyes to the hole.

This is what I saw. Half lying, half kneeling on a heap of straw was the little man whom I had met at Dijon who had behaved so mysteriously, and who had so strangely disappeared during the night. I recognized him immediately by his oddly contrasting chin and mustache, though he was no longer wearing the horn spectacles. His wrists were bound to his ankles, and his whole body bent back in an attitude of considerable strain. His face was white, dirty and streaked with sweat, and every now and again

A bare hand and arm came slowly through the aperture.

he moaned. I no longer had any doubt as to his identity.

It was the man from New York!

Opposite the man from New York was another familiar figure—none other than the fat Italian Baldassare Marce. His back was toward me, and he was shouting something to an unseen person whose steps were faintly retreating. Then he turned to my friend from Dijon, the man who, according to the Japanese whom I had met in the room with the silken hangings, "had to go." Nor was I left long in doubt as to the manner of his going.

"Why not end this ceremony quickly, brother?" said my late companion. "Isn't there any member of this concern who can shoot a gun?"

The Italian laughed.

"Plenty, mio povere Americano," he said in English. "You've got to 'quit,' as you say in America. Persons who get up against the Center usually do quit sooner or later, but you ought to feel yourself flattered. The old well has not been used since the Middle Ages. This is the way into Count Emilco's passage. He was a great lord on the lake in the twelfth century, and this house is all that remains of his castle. A fine man was Count Emilco. He disliked strangers who spied upon him and little rats of foreigners. So he gave them the home of a rat to live in and the death of a rat to die."

The American groaned. This Italian rhetoric was clearly not to his fancy, and I could quite understand his point of view. I was myself overcome with horror as I listened, but before I could make up my mind what to do next, I heard footsteps returning. A moment later the door into the cellar was flung open and a little Japanese entered, carrying a lantern which lit up his impassive yellow countenance.

"There is oil," he said, "but where is sack and what have you done with pole?"

Baldassare glared at him.

"What's the matter with you, Fugi? I left them for you to bring along. I suppose I must go and get them myself while you attend to the door."

Baldassare departed, grumbling, up the steps.

The little Japanese hung the lantern on a hook in the middle of the cellar and approached the aperture. I stooped and watched his bare yellow arm as it came through the crack and made its way towards the knot of wood. Presently I heard a creaking, and with much protesting the door began to slide sideways into the wall.

At that instant I made up my mind. I crouched down, making myself as small as I could on the side of the wall into which the door was disappearing. Fortunately it had not been used for a long while, for it stuck several times, and finally stopped with some six inches still protruding from the wall, thus screening me partially from view. I took a hasty peep at the little Japanese.

His back was towards me, and he was bending down to look at my American friend. I took a stealthy step forward, and raising the leg of the couch, hit him as hard as I could behind the ear. He fell forward with a slight groan beside my late traveling companion.

The American uttered a cry of astonishment.

"It's all right," I assured him. "Quick. We must do something."

I went to the little Japanese and examined him. I had dealt him a shrewd blow. He was quite unconscious, and for all I knew he might be dead. I did not stop to look further, but turned my attention to his prisoner. The late schoolmaster from the Middle West was on his knees, bewildered.

"Don't you remember me," I said. "We met at Dijon yesterday. I'm lending a friendly hand if it's any use to you."

He looked at me, puzzled for a moment, then his expression cleared.

"Holy Mike," he said, "and I had begun to think you were one of the bunch."

I felt in my pocket for a knife.

"Can you lock the cellar door?" he asked. "The Italian will be back in a moment, and we would like to be private."

His voice broke, and I saw he was on the edge of hysteria—a fact that explained his nervous behavior at Dijon.

I unhooked the lantern and looked at the door. It was of heavy timber and stood ajar. Feeling outside with my hand I discovered the key. I pulled it out of the lock, shut the door and locked it on the inside.

"It will take him some time to get through that," I said.

Prague Municipality Accepts Program for Electrical Railroads

PRAGUE.—Headed by the Mayor, M. Baxa, the municipality of Prague has practically accepted a scheme for underground electric railroads.

Numerous offers have been made both by American and German financiers in the past few years to float similar concerns; but there has been considerable opposition to the idea of using foreign money in city enterprise.

The outlying inhabitants welcome the scheme with enthusiasm because, until now, street cars have been their only means of transportation. It is estimated that 44,000 passengers will be transported in one hour by the new system at the busy hours of the day, and that there will be a minute service of trains, travelling at 17 miles per hour.

The total cost will be 110,000,000 Czech crowns.

ROAD BUILDING TOPIC AT MEET

Farmers of State Told $35,000,000 Needed to Complete System.

Approximately $35,000,000 will be required to complete West Virginia's system of state highways, declared F. O. Sanders, head of the transportation division of the state road commission in an address delivered last night before more than 400 men and women attending the annual farmers' week convention at the state university, Morgantown.

Mr. Sanders said that the system contains 3,780 miles of highways, 1,800 miles of which are surfaced, 1,150 miles are graded and 830 miles are unimproved. The average costs are $26,000 a mile for hard surfacing, $15,000 for grading and drainage only, and $5,000 for graveling. The grading of the unimproved roads in the state system would cost about $12,500,000.

For 1926, the state had receipts of $3,700,000 from license fees and $2,925,000 from a gasoline tax. Of this amount, $4,225,000 was used for the sinking fund and interest on the $50,000,000 state road bond issue leaving $2,400,000 to supplement a $450,000 legislative appropriation for the maintainance of highways and other expenses of the state road commission. With this sum, the commission has been able to allot only $750 a mile for maintenance, whereas a minimum of $1,000 a mile should be set aside, he said.

Sanders estimated that about $8,000,000 a year should be available for the completion of the state system, but did not propose any means of raising this money, however, other than to say that four means were possible; an additional bond issue, a direct state levy, an increase in the gasoline tax, or an appropriation out of the general state funds raised by indirect taxation.

Sanders asked the farmers to regard the state's road-building activities as confined to the completion and maintenance of the state highway system, and to depend upon counties to handle local problems that the state had no means of solving.

BRITONS MADE MAD AS SPAIN TAKES RAILWAY

Madrid-Portugal Line Directors are Indignant.

ROAD IS SEIZED

See Government Plan to Nationalize Transportation System.

LONDON—British directors of the Madrid and Portugal Direct Railway (Avila and Salamanca) Ltd.—which was built by British capital—are frantically indignant at the Spanish government's alleged unwarrantable confiscation of the line.

The annual report, signed by John Kitching, Chairman of Directors, states that the company, on the faith of the Spanish Government Commissary's report on the brilliant traffic prospects, took up the concession granted in 1888 of the projected railway from Avila to Salamanca, a distance of about 69 miles.

"The concession carried no Government subvention or assistance of any kind, nor freedom from import duties on construction materials, and the line had to be completed by 1896. The section from Salamanca to Peñaranda, about 25 miles, was constructed entirely with British capital, and opened for traffic in 1894, but owing to the unsatisfactory position of Spain, both financial and political it was found impossible to raise the further moneys required for the construction of the line between Peñaranda and Avila.

Government Refused.

"The company offer to the Spanish government either to surrender the concession as applying to the Peñeranda-Avila section, thus forfeiting the considerable expenditure already incurred thereon, or to finish the line throughout if granted the assistance usual to Spanish railroads—a cash subvention per kilometre and freedom from import duties on materials.

"The Spanish government refused both offers, and although the company had operated the Salamanca-Peranda section efficiently and satisfactorily since 1894, and at a loss to itself, the government, in 1906, purely as the result of local political pressure declared the commission in a state of forfeiture.

"In 1908, after having officially valued the existing line at some 210,000 pounds, and offerd it three times by public auction, as required by the law, but without success, the government took forcible possession of the property without any compensation whatever.

To Nationalize Lines.

The Spanish government thence forward has claimed the railroad as its own property.

"The efforts of the directors having failed, there appears no chance of the debenture holders, and still less of the shareholders, receiving anything.

This company adds one more to the disastrous failures of Spanish railways, which, with only two or three exceptions, pay little or nothing to their original investors. It is said that the Spanish government intends to nationalize its railways. In the case of this company it has made a very cheap beginning."

The message was subdivided into discussion of industrial peace, removal of the state auditor from office, the budget, roads, election methods, taxes, prohibition, water power, the state capitol and insurance.

My Smile

Shows a row of pearls

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I am asked by countless people how I got such pretty teeth. And how I keep them sound and glistening at my age.

This is what I tell them.

For many years I spent on my teeth about 30 minutes daily. I used a cleanser, then a polisher, then an antiseptic mouth wash. And I forced magnesia between the teeth to neutralize all acids.

All this I did under dental advice, and I consulted high authorities. But now the great experts have combined all these helps in one tooth paste. I just apply that, and it does in a minute, all I did with many applications.

This new-type dentifrice is called Quindent, which means five in one. It is made by Quindent Laboratories to meet modern requirements. The makers supply me ten-day samples and I will gladly mail one to anyone who asks. The coupon will bring it with my Beauty Book. Even one night's use will bring you new conceptions of a tooth paste.

Q. Can you tell me about how many people took motor tours last year? S. A. H.

A. The American Automobile association estimates that during last summer 12,000,000 persons in 3,000,000 cars took such trips. This represents those who camped along the way and not those who merely motored from one city to another.

Q. What was the largest cake ever made? G. E. L.

A. Probably the largest cake was that ordered by Frederick William I, King of Prussia, in June 1730. It is said that this contained 36 bushels of flour, 200 gallons of milk, one ton of butter, one ton of yeast, and 5,000 eggs. The finished cake was 18 yards long, 8 yards broad, and more than half a yard thick. It was so large that 30,000 soldiers could not eat it all.

Q. Why does water take the form of leaves, ferns, and other crystals when it freezes on a window pane? V. E. S.

A. Frost crystallizations have a great variety and the formation of each of the various types seems to depend upon meteorological and other conditions—some of them obscure. On window panes three types generally form—the granular, crystalline, and membranous. The last variety forms only in heated rooms on panes covered with an uncongealed film of water, as a dew-like condensation of Moisture: It occurs most frequently in the form of long curving feather-like ferns or a net-work of lines. This is due to the process of crystallization taking place during the conversion of a film of water into ice. The crystalline variety forms only on panes that are free from water in liquid form.

Q. What is the probable reason for King David making reference to renewing "thy youth like the eagle's"? F. M. W.

A. The International Critical Commentary of the Bible says with respect to the verse you cite that the metaphor undoubtedly originated in the known longevity of the eagle and the fact that even at the present time an infirm or ailing eagle is hardly known. The ancients were superstitious in their veneration of this bird and endowed it with many supernatural powers which do not exist in actual fact.

Q. When paper money is totally destroyed by fire, is the government treasury enriched? G. A.

A. When paper money is destroyed by fire, theoretically, the United States treasury gains, since it is never called upon to redeem this paper currency.

CONVICTED SLAYER OF DON R. MELLETT ENTERS PRISON

PAT M'DERMOTT TODAY BECAME CONVICT 56,488

Wise-cracking Fails to Impress Warden With Same Initials.

GETS AUTO TRIP

Gives Occupation as Barber as he Begins Life Sentence.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Wise-cracking Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, lost his monicker here today and became No. 56,488 on the records of P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio state penitentiary.

McDermott arrived at the prison late yesterday to begin his life sentence, and get a close-up view of the death house and electric chair he escaped when the jury which found him guilty of first degree murder recommended mercy.

The Nanty Glo, Pa., man grinned and beamed as usual when he and six Stark county deputies rolled to the prison entrance in a big touring car.

"Your initials and mine are the same," Patrick Eugene told the warden as that official put his official "P. E. Thomas' to a document the Canton authorities brought with them.

The warden wasn't in the humor for jokes, and McDermott's repartee was lost on the grim stones of the high prison walls.

Another "Lifer" Arrives.

McDermott gave his occupation as barber, but it is expected he will not labor at that trade for the present. Warden Thomas said today McDermott would not be assigned for any particular duty for the present.

Just before the arrival of McDermott, penitentiary attaches received Montrose Hickman, convicted at Chillicothe with his brother John, for the killing of Patrolman Dan Garrett.

Hickman became No. 56,487, and is to serve a second degree murder life sentence.

John Hickman is in the death house awaiting execution.

Says Five Killed Mellett.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—All suspicion that Jack Lopez, Laredo, Texas, prisoner, might have participated in the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher, at Canton last July, was eliminated here today when Governor Vic Donahey was informed that Lopez was in jail at Sharon, Pa., the night Mellett was murdered.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13. — Claim that five persons, including Pat McDermott, Louis Mazer, Jack Lopez, a man named Palmer and another man, known as "Jackie, the Greek," of Chicago, participated in the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, at Canton last July, is contained in an alleged written confession, signed by Lopez and submitted to Prosecuting Attorney Henry W. Harter, Ja., at Canton, by C. H. Sisson, special investigator for Governor Vic Donahey, it became known here today.

McDermott, convicted recently of murdering Mellett, is serving life in the Ohio penitentiary. Mazer is awaiting trial at Canton on a first degree murder charge in connection with the editor's death.

Lopez, a prisoner at Laredo, Texas, has been ordered deported to Mexico, following conviction of a crime in Pennsylvania.

Officials at the office of Governor Donahey today explained that Sisson was sent to Laredo to interview Lopez after the governor received a letter from an U. S. Immigration official there in which belief was expressed that Lopez was "the real murderer of Mellett."

Returning to Columbus with Lopez's confession, Sisson conferred with Governor Donahey and then went to Cleveland Tuesday where he conferred with federal authorities. From Cleveland, Sisson went to Canton where he presented the confession to Prosecutor Harter Wednesday it was stated.

Drove in Stutz Car.

Lopez told Sisson, it was stated at the governor's office, that McDermott, Mazer, Lopez, Palmer, and "Jackie, the Greek," drove in a Stutz car to Mellett's home the night of the murder and that McDermott, "Jackie, the Greek," and Lopez fired the shots at Mellett while Mazer remained in the auto to watch Palmer, the driver, who, according to Lopez, was distrusted, the other members of the party fearing he might "drive off and leave them in the lurch," if someone did not remain in the machine with him.

Officials at the governor's office declared that a number of the statements made by Lopez have been corroborated, but that others have not.

Since Sisson's return from Texas, it was stated, Governor Donahey has been told that Lopez bore a reputation for confessing that he committed or participated in, a number of "murders (?)" Taking no stock in Lopez's alleged confessions, authorities at Canton, and elsewhere, the governor's office was told, have consistently refused to indict Lopez.

Believe Lopez Was in Canton.

Despite the fact that Lopez' alleged confession might turn out to be worthless, Governor Donahey, it was stated, in view of the positive declaration of the Texas federal immigration officer that Lopez helped murder Mellett, felt that nothing should be left undone that might aid in properly punishing the slayers of the editor. It was for this reason, it was said, that Sisson was sent to interview Lonez.

Officials at the governor's office were confident, they stated today, that Lopez was in Canton when Mellett was murdered.

State authorities here were told that the order of deportation to Mexico was based upon the belief that Lopez was a Mexican. It is reported, however, that Mexican authorities claimed Lopez is not a Mexican citizen and will not permit him to enter Mexico.

Some state officials here today voiced the opinion that Lopez, knowing some of the facts connected with the Mellett murder, but not being a participant in the crime itself, concocted his latest alleged confession in the hope that, as a result, he would be returned to Canton and liberated there after the authorities decided they could make no case against him.

GUARD KILLS ARMY PRIVATE

Exoneration Expected in Shooting in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Exoneration for the guard who shot and killed Private John B. Kearns, 25, Philadelphia, is expected today after an investigation by Captain R. E. Jones, adjutant at Fort Hayes.

Kearns, an alleged deserter, held in the guard house here awaiting court-martial, the adjutant reported, sawed his way from his cell and was making a dash for nearby railroad yards when ordered to halt. He failed to comply and the guard shot. Kearns died an hour later in the post hospital with a bullet wound in his head.

Records at the post disclose Kearns deserted from the army signal school, Brooklyn, and was captured January 3 at Pittsburgh. He was brought to the Columbus post January 4.

DR. COPELAND TELLS HOW TO WARD OFF FLU

Re-appearance of Disease Prompts Hints by Medical Authority.

Senator Says Influence is Generally Hand-conveyed.

(Editor's Note—Public health authorities and the medical profession are perturbed over the reappearance of influenza in some sections. While not as virulent apparently as in the war years, it is nevertheless sufficiently widespread to cause alarm. In the following article, Senator Royal S. Copeland (D.) of New York, the senate's medical authority, tells how to avoid the disease.)

BY SENATOR ROYAL S. COPELAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—If we are to have a repetition of the 1918 experience with influenza, let us profit now by what we learned then. What did we learn?

The first things is that influenza is a hand conveyed disease. The spray from the nose and throat carries the germs, and this moisture reaching the lips or the nostrils of another will lead to the infection of the susceptible person. But the common way to get the germs is from the hands of the influenza patients who pass the germs to toilet articles, eating utensils, door knobs, pencils, or anything liable to be handled by others. More commonly, of course, hand to hand contact is the way the infection is conveyed.

Lowered physical vitality, fear, fatigue, poor ventilation, loss of sleep, and any act which lowers resistance, will prepare the way for the germs of dread influenza.

The following are rules of conduct which will help to ward off the disease:

1—Wash the hands frequently and invariably do so before eating.

2—Keep the hands from the face, and, on returning home at night, wash the face with soap and abundance of water. Wash out the openings of the nostrils whenever the face is bathed.

3—Brush the teeth thoroughly three times a day.

4—If you have occasion to cough or sneeze, cover the face with the handkerchief, and, under no circumstances, receive in your face the moist blast of another's sneezing or coughing.

5—Eat in no place where the table utensils are not boiled in the cleansing process. Eat sparingly whenever and wherever you eat.

6—Sleep a lot in a well ventilated room.

7—Go about your affairs calmly and unafraid.

8—If you find yourself sneezing, with eyes running, and a feeling of feverishness, go home, take a hot bath, and go to bed. If you are not right the next morning, call your doctor.

Epidemic in Philippines.

MANILA, Jan. 13.—The Philippine islands were being swept by an epidemic of influenza today. Health officers declared that several thousand cases have been reported, but owing to those who refuse to consult physicians the exact number of cases is not definitely known.

Authorities said that deaths so far were less than a hundred.

Thousands died in the Philippines during the epidemic of 1918, the disease being especially virulent among the mountain tribes.

One Stolen Auto Recovered; Another Machine Abandoned

Ford touring car, belonging to Elmer Crawford, Allison street insurance agent, stolen while parked on Broadway Tuesday night, was found last evening by police on Dresden avenue where it had been abandoned. The car was not damaged except for a torn side curtain.

Sedan belonging to J. C. Springer, which was stolen while parked in front of his home on Thompson avenue, last evening, was located a few hours later. "Joy riders" are believed to have "borrowed" both machines.

Bolshevik Troops And Gunboat Fire Upon Roumanians

LONDON, Jan. 13. — Bolshevik troops aided by a soviet gunboat have made an attack upon the Roumanian frontier near Bugaz, according to an official communique issued in Bucharest, dispatches from the Roumanian capital said today.

The Bolshevik soldiers are reported to have crossed the Dniester and opened a machine-gun attack upon the Roumanian outpost.

After a sharp exchange of shots the Bolsheviks were driven back towards Odessa, with the loss of one Roumanian.

Scion of Wealth is Arrested.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 13.—Richard Ray, 22, who claimed to be the son of a wealthy Indianapolis, Ind., merchant, today was being held under $5,000 bond for grand jury action in a robbery charge now pending against him.

Murder Solved?

The brutal assault and murder of Beulah Purvis, 19, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., is believed solved by the reported statement of Joseph Carr, 23, to Assistant Prosecutor Carl Basler, of Hamilton county, O. The body of Miss Purvis was found battered and bruised on the bank of the Big Miami river near Valley Junction, O., last October 20, just 10 days after she disappeared from home. Carr made his statement to Marshall Andrew Wagner, of Lockland, O., while the latter was questioning him regarding a burglary. Wagner turned him over to the assistant prosecutor.

TRAIN KILLS PROOF READER

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 13.—Roy A. Booth, 21, proof reader for the Morning Times-Recorder, was almost instantly killed at the State street railroad crossing when his auto was struck by a fast B. and O. passenger train at 2:35 o'clock this morning. He died in Bethesda hospital an hour later without regaining consciousness. He was active in Y. M. C. A. gymnasium work and was widely known in "Y" circles.

Government Plans Slap at Ford in Tax Appeals Suit

DETROIT, Jan. 13.—A slap at Henry Ford is being planned by the government as one of its trump cards in the contest to recover about $34,000,000 from former stockholders of the Ford Motor company, it was revealed today.

Alexander W. Gregg, 27-year-old government attorney, revealed that the government will attack the methods used by Henry and Edsel Ford in 1919 when they obtained an advance valuation from the internal revenue department on Ford stock.

MISSIONARIES QUIT WAR ZONE

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Two hundred Americans and 400 British mostly missionaries, are evacuating the Province of Szechon, according to a Hankow dispatch to the Evening News.

Missionaries in the vicinity of Hankow are steadily leaving their posts and taking refuge in the international centers, the dispatch states.

Two Men Killed, Third Injured by Engine Explosion

ROME, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured today by an engine explosion on a New York Central freight train three miles east of here.

The men killed were Thomas Steinbeck, a brakeman, and C. Johnson, a fireman. Moxy Reidell, engineer of the freight, was seriously scalded, and is not expected to live.

The engine was demolished.

Follows Rickard's Plans.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Jack Dempsey is willing to place his activities in the hands of Tex Rickard, even to the extent of meeting the winner of Rickard's heavyweight elimination, Leonard Sachs, secretary of the ex-champion, said today. Sachs held a long distance conversation with Dempsey last night, he said, and that Jack, abandoning his demand for a return bout with Gene Tunney without further ado, had decided to string along with Rickard's plans.

ADD LIFE TO YOUR YEARS

As well as years to your life. Life without health is burdensome and the lack of it casts a shadow over all our activities. Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant to the kidneys, cause a regular, health-giving flow, carrying out of the body in a natural way, that waste matter, which, if not promptly removed, spreads its poisons throughout the entire system, to the detriment of health. Bodily aches, severe pains, a run-down condition of the system, inevitably results. Avoid this. Ask for Foley Pills, diuretic. Sold everywhere.

"ABSURD," SAYS SOVIET ANSWER TO KELLOGG

Denies Bolsheviks are Fomenting Trouble in Central America.

BORAH TO SPEAK

Mexican-Nicaraguan Controversy Rages in Congress.

MOSCOW, Jan. 13.—"The height of absurdity" . . . This was the reply of the soviet foreign office today to the charges of United States Secretary of State Kellogg that Bolsheviks are fomenting troubles in Central America.

"Only Americans could be naive enough to credit such a yarn," said a high official of the soviet foreign office.

Hint Diplomatic Break.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 3.—A severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico at an early date was regarded as inevitable today, as the reaction here to the publication of Secretary of State Kellogg's charges to the senate committee that the Soviet government of Russia was operating here and in Central America against the interests of the United States.

The early recall of Ambassador Sheffield was presaged, as the Ambassador is generally regarded as being responsible for the state department's vigorous attitude toward the protection of American rights.

Denies Sheffield Recall.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Secretary of State Kellogg denied today renewed reports that Ambassador Sheffield is shortly to leave his post at Mexico City.

The secretary's denial was said to refer, however, to reports of Sheffield's retirement, and not to the possibility that he might be withdrawn because of a break in diplomatic relations.

Defeat Anti-administration Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A move to have the house investigate the Mexican-Nicaraguan policy of President Coolidge was squelched in the foreign affairs committee today, when by a vote of 8 to 5, it defeated a motion to bring Secretary of State Kellogg before the committee tomorrow.

The vote followed a sever attack upon administration policy in Latin-America, and a staunch defense of it by the Republican members.

Opposition Without Leader.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Mexican-Nicaraguan controversy continued to burn fiercely in congress today.

Secretary of State Kellogg's open charges of a "red plot" to undermine and destroy American influence in Latin-America, directed from Mexico, had the effect of solidifying wavering Republicans behind the administration program, but it left the leadership of the opposition absolutely cold

The attitude of the Democrats generally was one of "watchful waiting." Some Democrats will support the administration's firm policy below the Rio Grande, others will not, but it was apparent today that the majority prefer to await developments before committing themselves to a party policy. It is likely a Democratic caucus will be called shortly to discuss the situation.

Senator Borah served notice this morning that he would address the senate this afternoon on the American-Nicaraguan situation.

Wrangling in House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy was again subjected to severe attack today at a wrangling session of the house foreign affairs committee.

Representative Huddleston (D.) of Alabama, who charged that the administration is moving "consciously and deliberately toward war with Mexico," asserted that President Coolidge has exceeded his authority in Nicaragua.

Republican members countered with denials and said the president was merely employing the police power of the nation to protect American interests.

Calles Crushing Rebellion

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The Calles government insists today that the rebellion in north and central Mexico presents no great difficulty and announced its firm intention of using drastic measures to put down the insurrectionary movement.

As mute evidence of the government's stern program travelers reaching Mexico City report that 142 bodies are swaying from the branches of trees on the hillside at Ozumba—apparently the bodies of those sentenced to death after having been implicated in rebel activities.

Mexican Rebels Routed.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The complete rout of 300 rebels with a loss of 40 dead, at the hands of 80 federal dragoons, who have recaptured the village of Cocula in Jailisco, was reported to the war department today.

For eight hours the battle raged before the rebels were put to flight and the federal forces lost but one dead and two wounded.

Primary elections are not the only cause of the lack of popular interest in politics; there's the automobile.—Fostoria Times.

Woman Kills Self As Cononer Probes Deaths in Indiana

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Emma J. Werner committed suicide today as Coroner Ralph E. Johnson extended his probe of the death of Russell West, 20-year old youth who lived at the Werner home, to include the death of his brother, Ralph West, last September.

Coroner Johnson announced he had learned Mrs. Werner had collected $1,000 insurance upon Ralph's death and that she also had a similar insurance policy on Russell's life.

Battle in Senate Over Interstate Board Membership

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—One of the most complicated political battles in its history was pending in the senate today over the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, as a member of the inter-state commerce commission.

Although his appointment was rejected by the senate interstate commerce committee by a vote of 8 to 6, the ultimate action of the senate remained in doubt. Both his friends and foes predicted victory.

A former American diplomat, a successful business man and the personal selection of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Woods was said to possess all the necessary personal qualifications for the post. His nomination, however, may be rejected by the senate because the senate has split into two of the strangest political camps on record.

COUNT SALM GETS $325,000 FOR LOST LOVE

Separation Suit Against Former Millicent Rogers Settled.

ACTION DROPPED

Quiet Divorce Case in Paris by Countess is Forecast.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Count Ludwig Salm's suit for separation from the former Millicent Rogers, heiress to the $40,000,000 Standard oil fortune of her father, Colonel H. H. Rogers, has been settled out of court, it was reported today.

By the terms of the settlement the Austrian nobleman will receive $325,000 from his wife's father, it was reliably stated. The payment of this sum was said to be in abatement of the count's projected suits against Colonel and Mrs. Rogers for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

The count's suit for separation will be dropped forever, the reports said, but a quiet divorce in Paris was forecast for the countess.

A further provision of the settlement will accord Count Salm partial custody of his little son, Peter, the figure around whom the suit for separation pivoted. The extent of this custody has not yet been determined, it was said.

Ends International Romance.

Thus ends one of the most spectacular international romances of recent years. Attorneys for both sides, advising the court that a settlement had been reached, stated that reconciliation was not the basis of settlement.

The suit, brought by the count against his young American wife, opened in New York county supreme court December 8, but was abruptly adjourned December 9 until January 17, next Monday, after two days of taking testimony, during which several letters written by the countess to the count's mother, following the couple's separation in Paris, were read in open court. In these letters the countess expressed her affection for the count, and revealed that the count had been offered $12,000 a year by Colonel Rogers to remain out of America and away from the countess.

Following the adjournment there were numerous reports that the count had been offered amounts ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to abandon his suit. These reports were denied by both parties.

Yesterday, as a preliminary to the final public announcement of the suit's discontinuance, counsel for the count and the countess again adjourned the renewed hearing until March 21. It was then they advised Justice Levy that the suit had been settled.

CHAPLIN WINS RACE AGAINST NEWS SCRIBES

Charley, "Cornered" in Chicago, Outwits Newspapermen.

"It's Terrible" Only Comment on Wife's Divorce Suit.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Charley Chaplin continued as elusive as ever today, despite the fact that newspaper reporters had him "cornered" for a few minutes here last night after he stepped off a Santa Fe train from California.

The famous film comedian is believed enroute to New York, although no one is quite sure just what became of him. The Atlantic express which left here early today with one Pullman for New York, was reported carrying a passenger and a servant who resembles Chaplin and his Japanese valet.

"It's terrible—simply terrible," said Chaplin to reporters who met him as he stepped off the Santa Fe train. When asked for a statement regarding the divorce suit filed against him in Los Angeles last Monday by Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, the comedian said:

"Please, boys, let's don't talk about it. It's too terrible for words. I can't make any statement—not now. Not until I confer with my attorney."

Lost in Traffic.

Chaplin was very nervous. He appeared drawn and worried. Apparently he hoped to slip into the city unnoticed, as he and his servant were the last to leave the train.

When Charley learned he had been discovered, he shrugged his shoulders resignedly and paused in the group of reporters and photographers. But the old Chaplin smile was missing. He was a sorry, pathetic figure.

"Don't steal a picture of me, boys," he told the photographers. "I'll pose for you." And so he did. But after refusing point blank to make a statement concerning the divorce proceedings, his only reply to further questioning was a tightening of the lips.

Suddenly, as though by a prearranged plan, Charley and his servant stepped through a side door of the station, into a taxicab and were soon lost in the traffic. Efforts to follow them in other cabs proved futile.

Lita Grey Fights for Estate.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin, who is seeking a divorce from Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, may seek to obtain the entire Chaplin estate for herself and her two babies, instead of asking for half of the $16,000,000 fortune as is customary in California divorce settlements, it was learned here today from attorneys representing the young wife.

At the same time it was learned that Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys were prepared to take drastic steps to protect the interests of the film comedian's girl wife.

On the heels of the receivership which left all of Chaplin's funds and property in California "tied up," notice was served by Edwin T. McMurray, heading Mrs. Chaplin's legal battery, that he will move to halt the pay of Edna Purviance, one-time leading woman for Chaplin, and still said to be on the Chaplin payroll at $250 a week.

Murray contended that Miss Purviance was not entitled to any salary because, he alleged, she had not been in the employ of the Chaplin studios for several years. He also declared he would investigate just why this money was still being paid Miss Purviance.

"This money should go to Chaplin's children," Murray said.

LEWIS STONE AT AMERICAN

"Midnight Lovers" Screen Show Friday and Saturday.

If a man loves his wife should he help her get a divorce?

Lewis Stone is cast in this unique predicament in his feathered role of "Midnight Lovers," which will be shown at the American theatre Friday and Saturday.

Deeply in love with his wife of a month, the husband is asked by her lawyer to help her get a divorce so she can marry another whom she loves.

The process for securing the divorce is very interesting, as demonstrated on the screen. By forging past letters to each other, in which the wife asks the husband to return and the husband refuses, the proper grounds for divorce are established.

"Gums the Detail."

The husband does all this for his wife, but gets drunk, and returns to his house before the proper time limit for desertion is past. The rest of the story is hilarious in the denouement by which the husband wins back his wife and ejects the other suitor.

Anna Q. Nilsson plays the role of the sentimentally comic wife, and John Roche acts as the other lover.

The others in the cast are Chester Conklin, Dale Fuller, Purnell Pratt and Harvey Clarke.

Carey Wilson, who wrote the adaptation, also was editorial director of the production, and John Francis Dillon directed it.

"Midnight Lovers" was produced for First National under the management of John McCormick.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEETS

C. C. Bair, Field Service Agent, Delivers Principal Address.

"Even one of the outstanding accomplishments of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation is worth $10 a year to any one who is interested in agriculture," declared C. C. Bair, of North Canton and field agent for the farm bureau federation, who spoke to over 200 men and women associated with Columbiana County Farm Bureau following a dinner served in the ball room of the Knights of Pythian lodge at Lisbon Wednesday.

"The four points which farmers should consider when they refer to the activity of the farm bureau work is that they 'have a voice in government,' 'lower farmers' costs,' 'central marketing for farm products,' 'rendering a better service to the home of farmers, the farmers' community and the farm craft,," Mr. Bair declared.

"It is the farmers' organizations that obtained the gasoline tax in Ohio, and in this state the farmers pay most of the cost for road improvements. Farmers pay an excessive large freight rate, because they pay the freight on the merchandise they buy, and they pay the freight on the products they have to sell. For years the Ohio farm bureau has taken a great interest in traffic problems, and it may be of interest to you to know how many large manufacturers in Ohio now contribute to the support of the farm bureau traffic bureau for the reason that they derive a great benefit from this service. This shows that the Ohio farm bureau organization is of not only a great benefit to agriculture, but to others just as well.

"There are now seven important hearings scheduled before the I. C. C. at Washington that have to do with agricultural problems.

"Another important matter that the Ohio farm bureau federation has done, that is worth $10 per year to any member, is that it has stopped the sale of fake stocks. It may be of interest for you to know that a few years ago there were more than 9,000 fake stock salesmen working in Ohio, and today there are less than 900 salesmen, and all of these are selling legitimate issues as approved by the state banking department. That's something the farm bureau has done for the people of Ohio and has saved the investor thousands of dollars.

"We hear that we don't sell stock feeds lower than any one else. Well, we do not. We never said that we did, but we do say that we do sell a better feed that gives better results over a period of years than any other on the market—and that's worth something to the man who operates a stock farm. The same can be said about the fertilizer that is sold through the farm bureau. Last year farmers who bought fertilizer through the farm bureau saved eight per cent. in all, you must think of the Ohio farm bureau federation and the grange as an insurance proposition for the benefit of the farmer, and then you have the situation sized up aright."

O. R. Keyser, county agent of Stark county, with offices at Canton, spoke on the subject of "Building Without a Hammer."

Mr. Keyser referred to certain movements that had been launched in the years gone by by some thinker, and that after these ideas had been adopted generally those who thought out such movements were called progressive. "Then," he said, "after these movements and ideas were accepted by society, and continued on, that unless other improvements were made the initial movement got beyond the one who thought it out.

"The habit of the people is to pull back at the beginning, and these people can be classed as knockers.

"Constructive criticism is excellent when used in the right way, but there is no use in condemning a whole structure when one or two people within that structure go wrong. This would apply to a religious organization as well as to any other institution no matter what it be, provided that institution is founded on a sound basis."

Mr. Keyser urged the crowd to read and study. "Read the local newspapers," he declared. "You have to get your mind off the one or two things you constantly come into contact with and broaden your mind. This will give you a different view of life. Do not have a closed mind, but keep it open always."

Mrs. Blanche Bowers, of the extension service department of Ohio State university spoke briefly upon home economics and the value of a home demonstration agent attached to the county farm bureau units. Mrs. Bowers explained that such a worker is needed just as much today as is the county agent.

The gathering was designed by the Columbiana county farm bureau for the purpose of bringing the members in township units in closer contact. The meeting was opened by President Whinnery, and the singing of "America." The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. P. W. Macaulay of the Lisbon Presbyterian church. Outside of the annual farm bureau meeting, the event was the largest attended of the character the bureau ever arranged at Lisbon.

PETITION FILED FOR RECEIVER

An application for the appointment of a receiver has been made in the petition filed in common pleas court by Billingsley & Moore of Lisbon in behalf of the Meyercord Co., Inc., of Chicago, Ill., against Gibbs & Brown and the Modern Lubricating company of Columbiana. In addition the plaintiff seeks a judgment against the defendants for $405 and interest on a bill of merchandise sold the defendant Gibbs & Brown.

It is related in the petition that Gibbs & Brown transferred in bulk all its stock of materials and goods to the Modern Lubricating company and that the latter interest received from Gibbs & Brown no list of the creditors of Gibbs & Brown. The court is also asked by the plaintiff to declare the transfer void.

The plaintiff sold the defendant Gibbs & Brown 1,100 sets of decal transfers on April 5, 1926, and the claim, it is alleged, has not been paid.

A marriage license has been issued to James Stewart, of Kensington, and a former resident of Carroll county, and Miss Ruth Archibald, of Kensington, and formerly residing at Minerva, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Archibald. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Presbyterian church by the Rev. P. W. Macaulay.

Case Settled.

A settlement out of court has been announced in the case of James McConville against William F. Smith and others, an action for a dissolution of partnership filed in common pleas court April 19, 1923. The case goes without record, and the settlement has been at the costs of the plaintiff.

LOAN ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS NAMED

The eighth annual meeting of the Columbiana County National Farm Loan association was held at the office of the County Farm Bureau at Lisbon.

Directors elected for the fiscal year are: Clark J. Halverstadt, Leetonia; Harry Reash, Columbiana; John G. Houlette, Columbiana; W. H. Zundel, Negley; J. Ellsworth Rice, Lisbon; Harry Shinn, Salem. The board organized by electing Mr. Halverstadt president, Mr. Reash vice president and Mr. Houlette secretary-treasurer, the latter having held this office for some years.

During 1926, the report of Mr. Houlette disclosed, loans totaling $39,000 were closed, and two loans were paid off in full. The loans now outstanding total $296,500. Dividends paid members of the association for 1926 amounted to $1,083.24, eight per cent being issued by the National Farm Loan association.

The association in this district now has a membership of 100.

Awarded Judgment.

A jury was waived and there was a trial to the court in the case of M. Hammerschlag & Son against R. A. McMullin for an account for $198.05, and a judgment for $150 was handed down.

Old At 40? Or Full of "Pep" And Energy? How To "Come Back"

Not age, but overworked, sluggish kidneys, bladder weakness and prostate gland trouble are what makes practically seven out of ten men past forty care-worn, fagged-out and old in every way before their time. They break down easily and are unfit for either work or pleasure. But now, with the vitalizing internal exercise produced by the marvelous restorative radium power of ARIUM Tablets, the normal, youthful action of the glands and organs is often quickly renewed, just as Nature intended. No more such alarming symptoms as lame back, rheumatic twinges, dizziness, pains in the head, high blood-pressure sour stomach, frequent getting up nights, nervous weakness and lack of vital force. You should see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

Amazing testimony of physicians and users gives convincing proof of the remarkable power of ARIUM to help restore health and strength to the sick and afflicted. H. Elzey of Indiana says: "I have been taking ARIUM for the past two weeks and I am well pleased. The radium rays are sure clearing up my kidneys. The puss and poison that I passed was a fright. Just two weeks after I commenced taking ARIUM, I had my water tested; they found no albumin and it is clearing up nicely. I am feeling better in every way." T. H. Houlihan of North Dakota writes: "I had irritation of the prostate gland but now feel all right." Dr. C. E. Morris of New York City States: "ARIUM puts back force and vigor into the veins and strengthens the entire system to fight off disease and signs of old age."

The Associated Radium Chemists, Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM guarantees successful and satisfactory results in every case from its progressive use or money refunded and also that a definite quantity of genuine radium is used in its preparation. ARIUM is easy and economical to take and may now be readily obtained in this city from any good druggist such as Chas. T. Larkin, Carnahan's, Herche's Drug Store and Mathews.

County League First Half Title At Stake Here Tomorrow

ELKS BATTLE WITH STRONG DAMASCUS FIVE

Victory Will Practically Clinch Honors for Locals.

THE top rung in the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league, to which the East Liverpool Elks are now clinging as a result of an unbroken string of seven victories, will be at stake in Friday night's circuit battle with Damascus at the high school gymnasium.

A victory will keep the Elks out in front and a defeat will permit the Quakers to go into the lead.

The contest, in fact, sizes up as the engagement that will decide the championship for the first half of the season, with the two strongest teams of the loop scrapping for the coveted position.

If the Elks lose tomorrow night, it'll be all off, so far as the first half is concerned, for this will be the second clash with the Damascus team, permitting, consequently, no comeback. The league schedule for the half, calls for two games against each league opponent, one at home and one abroad. The Elks dropped their first one at Damascus in the opening week of play and if they should lost this one, the title likely will go winging its way to Quakertown, for it is improbable that any other outfit will take the measure of the Damascans before the end of the half.

Damascus had lost two and the Elks have dropped two and if the locals should have another loss tackled on the chase would be almost hopeless.

However, the Antlers are entertaining no thoughts except those of victory for Bill Powell's outfit is out after that first half championship. Two obstacles must be surmounted, the game with Damascus tomorrow night and the concluding first half setto at Salem on January 28.

The two Laughlin, Newell, basketball squads, will clash in the preliminary tomorrow night.

The league race today remains unchanged as a result of scheduled attractions last night, Lisbon and Columbiana being the beneficiaries of forfeit victories from Wellsville and East Palestine, respectively.

The Wellsville quint was scheduled at Columbiana and East Palestine at Lisbon.

East Palestine went out of the circuit a week or so ago, their action being ratified at Sunday's meeting, and Wellsville went out yesterday.

"The league is now a circuit of six teams and it will continue the first half of the season without East Palestine and Wellsville," Secretary H. P. Brahman announced today. "Both teams were officially dropped from the league's roll yesterday and notices were sent to all managers. Wellsville hopes to re-enter the league at the second half, if a floor can be obtained there. This has been the stumbling block for several weeks, and the team has made every effort to continue."

As a result of the retirement of the Wellsville and East Palestine clubs, all games during the remainder of the first half will be forfeited to the opposing teams.

Bethany Cage Quint Faces Tough Game With Waynesburg

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 13.—Preparation for the Fairmont encounter having proven of real value, the Bethany college varsity basketeers will now turn to their second big contest of the week, that with Waynesburg college at the Waynesburg armory on Friday evening. The Bisons have come through three collegiate contests to date on the long end of the scores, and from all indications, a remarkable record should be hung up by the great team of this year.

Bethany is now sharing first place honors in the Tri-State Conference with Duquesne and Geneva. Coming contests this week and next, will ultimately determine the probable finish of the Bisons in this titular chase, as a good start has never yet failed to instill into Bison team that "consistent team play" will produce successful results. Those three words have been taken as the Green and White basketball motto with Captain Leland Beckwith and Coach Nuss as the leaders, therefore, Bison followers and alumni can look for nothing but real contests wherever the West Virginians play.

CHICAGO CAUSES BIG TEN UPSET

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 13.—Another upset of the Big Ten basketball season was in the records today as a result of Chicago's brilliant triumph over Northwestern at Patton gymnasium last night. The score was 34 to 27.

The Wildcats got away fast and were leading at the half 19 to 14, but they could not maintain the pace. They tired in the final period and the Maroons won "easing up."

Kaplan and Gist starred for the victors, each shooting four ringers. Gleichman and Fisher did good work for the Purple.

Speaker-Cobb Case Action Is Expected; Landis Is Evasive

Stars Accused in Leonard's Charges May Try to Force Commissioner's Hand; May Hold Risberg Verdict as Precedent.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—There was a vague yet conscious promise today of possible developments in the scandal of Cobb and Speaker versus organized—or disorganized—baseball, hard upon Judge Landis' verdict of acquittal for Eddie Collins, Schalk, Bush, Rowland, Dauss, Ehmke and other defendants charged by Swede Risberg with being accessories to a "barney" in September, 1917. Some undercurrent of activity in the Cobb-Speaker matter is eddying around the judge's headquarters in Chicago but the official policy seems to call for neither admission nor denial.

The judge, usually frank with newspapermen, was evasive when I asked him whether he would receive Cobb and Speaker in the event that they attempted to re-open their case.

"I have reasons of my own for not saying what course I would take in that event," was his reply. "Just say that anybody can see me any time."

That Cobb and Speaker, having bided their time while awaiting the Risberg verdict, have been in communication with Landis, either personally or through their attorneys, seems to be pretty well understood in certain well-informed circles in Chicago. That the accused but neither convicted nor exonerated stars will try to force Landis' hand appears to be equally probable.

They may take the Risberg verdict, with its refusal to accept the word of self-implicated "fixers," as having established a precedent and demand that Landis render a decision in their case. It was because of the deposition of "Dutch" Leonard, who freely admitted his party in the alleged conspiracy, that Cobb and Speaker became involved in charges of engaging in a betting coup late in the season of 1919.

However, the judge was smart enough not to commit himself either one way or the other on Leonard's charges; therefore, it can't very well be said that he took anybody's word for anything. It will be the policy of Cobb and Speaker, in consequence, to attempt the forcing of an admission of guilt or innocence and, if the former be the verdict, to take the matter into court.

Indications are, however, that Landis will decline to pass judgment on the case, in which event the courts again will be the choice of the accused stars. They will contend that their names have been maligned and that baseball has left them without the benefit of an official ruling.

A possible factor in Cobb's defense clearly was established by his telegram to Landis, which gained a denial from all witnesses at the Risberg hearing that they never had known of Cobb being other than an exemplary ball player. John McGraw's rather damaging admission that he had been told to "lay off" when he proposed signing Cobb also may be used as evidence that baseball, while officially refusing to condemn the players, has raised the bars against them.

It may be that another attempt will be made to persuade Leonard to come on from California to testify, that reopening the case automatically. Or it may be that the mountain, having refused to come to mohammed, mohammed will go to the mountain.

In other words, Landis may give the three defendants, Cobb, Speaker and Joe Wood, a chance to face Leonard at Fresno and engage in a final show down. Even if the judge doesn't offer to pay expenses, I can't see how that would be of any great moment under the circumstances If the choice was left to me, I'd rather lose good money than a good name.

NINETEEN GAMES ON DAYTON CARD

DAYTON, Jan. 13.—Dayton university is playing a 19-game basketball schedule in 1927, seven of the contests being carded with Ohio Conference foes.

Only a handful of veterans have returned for practice this year. Among them are Captain Sam Hipa, star guard of three season's play; John Debesis, his running mate at guard who is a junior; Shorty Sharpenter, a junior who uses his six foot six to advantage at center, and football captain-elect John McGarry, forward.

Dick Snelling, all star forward of last year's quintet, failed to report this year. Graduation and ineligibility took their toll in Guard Louis Maurt, Forward Bill Blake and Guard Conan Doyle.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

When you hold your head still during the back swing by having some one hold his hand against it you will observe that when you reach the top of the back swing there will have taken place a very considerable tightening of the muscles about the waist and the legs. However, there is no tightening up in the arms and shoulders. The arms are perfect free and, as you stand at the top position, you can if you wish hold that position, then whip the arms up and down with the club with absolute freedom. This illustrates that the forward swing is in the arms. From the top of the back swing you start forward with the hands and arms—exactly as you start away from the ball with the hands—and you whip the club entirely with the hands and arms, the head holding still until the ball is hit. To accomplish this best the player will do well to stand firmly on the right foot until the ball is hit. This accelerates the arm and hand action with the club, whereas if you let the right foot lift it releases the spring of the body and encourages you to begin lunging.

PLAN TO AMEND DIAMOND RULES

Landis Suggests Four Drastic Regulations.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. — Four drastic amendments to the rules that regulate organized baseball may be a direct result of the late Risberg scandal affair, it was learned today.

Commissioner K. M. Landis, who returned a score or more of baseball's celebrities to their "lily white" standing with his decision which exonerated them of the charges brought by Swede Risberg, will himself suggest the four proposed changes in the baseball rules.

The amendments will be proposed and considered when a committee representing the major and minor leagues meet at French Lick Springs next Monday.

The commissioner's suggestions, which no doubt will be adopted, are these:

1—A statute of limitations with respect to alleged baseball offenses.

2—Ineligibility for one year for offering or giving any gift or "reward" by the players or management of one club to the players or management of another club for services rendered in defeating a competing club.

3—Ineligibility for one year for betting any sum whatever upon any ball game in connection with which the bettor has no duty to perform.

4—Permanent ineligibility for betting any sum whatsoever upon any ball game in connection with which the bettor has any duty to perform.

BERGER VICTOR IN ACADEMY TILT

"Dutch" Berger nosed out H. Small by a three-point margin in their three cushion billiard match last night at the Academy parlors. The final count was 25 to 22.

Each of the contenders had runs of three. Small, substituting for Connelly, made Berger extend himself to the limit to cop.

Tonight's match will bring together McDowell and C. Shenkel, beginning at 8 o'clock.

OSBORNE WINS AT AMERICAN

Clicking off a high run of 31 straight, B. Osborne triumphed over Lanning, 75 to 47, in last night's match in the American pocket billiard tournament. The contest was fairly close until Osborne started his run.

Tonight's schedule is: L. Herbert vs B. Hanna; N. Johnson vs T. Watson.

LAUGHLIN HALL TO OPEN FRIDAY

The following members are requested to report at Hume's, at 6:30 Friday night: Golden, Kirkham, Kittridge, Berg, Holt, V. Bailey, Bickerton, Rardin, Gilchrist, Laughlin, E. Bailey, Greenwood, Rose, Williams, Cubberly, Boso, L. Applegate, Edgar and E. Applegate.

HIGHS TO FACE YOUNGSTOWN, SALEM SQUADS

Clash With Red and White Friday on North County Court.

SALEM and Youngstown Chaney formerly known as Youngstown East, are the two foes who will appear this week on the East Liverpool high school basketball schedule.

Lohrah's Blue and White passers, victorious in their last two contests, Akron East and Lisbon, will tackle a tough job tomorrow night at Salem This engagement probably will provide considerable more opposition than the contest with the Youngstown aggregation.

After several straight setbacks, the locals found themselves in the Akron East game here last Friday night which they won decisively after overcoming an eight point lead and they continued their drive on the following night when they ran away from Lisbon at the county seat.

Salem has one of the strongest squads in recent years and one of the most formidable in county circles. The Red and White trounced Alliance recently and last week indulged in a practice tilt with Wooster.

In the latter contest Salem ran up a score of 30 to 1 in the first half, permitting the Wooster lads to collect 11 more points in the second half with every available Salem substitute performing.

While Salem is an old and worthy foe, Chaney, of Youngstown, is a newcomer among the ranks of E. L. H. S. opponents and will be more or less an unknown quantity until they put in their appearance here Saturday night

150 ENTERED IN CATALINA DERBY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—The 20-mile swim across Catalina channel next Saturday for the $40,000 Wrigley prizes promises to be one of the greatest open-sea marathons in the history of sport.

One hundred and fifty-three swimmers from all parts of the United States and Canada, including many of the famous and near famous of the sport, have already been entered for the big swim.

Of this number, 16 are women, with such swimmers as Mrs. Charlotte Moore Schoemmell, Clarabelle Barrett and Lottie Mayer given an edge over the rest of the field of feminine contestants and a good chance of finishing.

Norman Ross, of Chicago, continues to hold sway as the favorite in the race. Ross has the speed and the ability and the experience, and in addition he is said to be in top condition.

Baseball "Scandal" Figures are Glad That "It's Over"

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Here is what five local baseball men, concerned in the latest scandal, had to say regarding the decision of commissioner Landis exonerating all those involved:

Ban Johnson, president of the American league:—It's simply a revival of the cases tried by Judge Landis six years ago. The same men were given a clean bill. There was nothing new, either in the charges or the exoneration.

Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox:—I do not see how it would have been possible for the commissioner to have done otherwise.

Ray Schalk, manager of the White Sox and one of the accused:—That's just the way I knew it would finish. Now we will get ready for the battles on the ball field.

Eddie Collins, also accused:—There never was any question in my mind as to what the decision would be. I am glad it is settled. Now I can get in shape for the coming season.

Clarence Rowland, American league umpire, also named in the charges:—I was confident it would end in such a verdict. Those stories told by Risberg and Gandil were lies. Judge Landis knew it.

A Seattle man has been arrested for breaking into a laundry. That's a new way of getting back what you want.—Canton News.

Movin' On

LEFTY LEIFIELD, twenty-four years after his entry into baseball, is still hard at it—and will be coach of the Detroit Tigers next season.

LEFTY LEIFIELD

He starred for the Pittsburgh Pirates for eight years — 1905 to 1912—and won the rep of being one of the greatest left-handers in the game.

Then after a few months with the Chicago Cubs and later the Atlanta and San Francisco teams, he dropped out of the game—only to the semi-pro ranks in St. Louis.

But his reputation as a brainy hurler failed to die out with his departure from the big show, Lee Fohl calling him back in 1918 to coach the Brown hurlers.

Even the failure of Fohl at St. Louis and Boston (whither Lefty went with Lee) failed to dim Leifield's fame as a coach.

Now he has a better chance than ever to show his stuff with the Tiger pitchers—always an uncertain and faltering factor in the Tiger makeup.

Doctors Endorse New Studebaker No-Draft Windshield

This diagram shows how the Studebaker no-draft ventilating windshield, when opened outward, directs the air up over the occupants' heads. The convenient handle on the dash adjusts the windshield to any desired position. A hidden trough under the cowl carries off rain when the windshield is set for storm-proof ventilation.

IN the matter of giving professional endorsements, doctors are the most conservative of men. Nevertheless, many leaders of the profession have volunteered their approval of the new no-draft ventilating windshield (patented by Studebaker).

Keeps Out Rain—Lets In Air—Avoids Drafts

Opened inwardly, this new Studebaker windshield directs the air currents down into the driver's compartment. In this position the windshield is also waterproof. In the stormiest downpour, with a driving rain slashing head-on against the open windshield, none can enter the car.

Opened outwardly, it deflects the air in a gentle current up over the heads of the occupants.

In neither case is there any direct draft, yet tobacco smoke and stale air are carried off, while the supply of clean, fresh air is constantly renewed.

All Studebaker Custom Cars have the following equipment

Front and rear bumpers; engine thermometer and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on the dash; coincidental lock; oil filter; automatic windshield cleaner; rear-vision mirror; traffic signal light; 4-wheel brakes; full-size balloon tires; and two-beam acorn headlights, controlled from steering wheel.

Only the fact that Studebaker manufactures all the vital parts of its cars in its own great plants makes such outstanding values possible.

"Your No-Draft Ventilating Windshield not only adds considerably to the comfort of driving, but gives a definite protection against the ills caused by riding in a draft. I believe it to be a decided reform from cowl or open windshield ventilation."

DR. CHAS. J. WHALEN,
Past President,
Illinois Medical Assn.,
Editor, Ill. Medical Journal.

* * *

"I am glad to write you what I think about the new Studebaker windshield. I have been over the matter carefully and think that it looks so good I feel sure my next car will have it. It looks like a physical impossibility that any amount of draft can bother the occupants of the seats of the vehicle."

J. M. BLACKFORD, M. D.,
Seattle, Wash.

* * *

"In the new Custom Sedan which you have just brought out, the ventilating windshield attracted my attention. I believe this windshield and the ventilating system used thereon, is about the most attractive and up to date arrangement I have ever seen.

"I tried the full effects of the windshield on a rainy day and am very much enthused about the operation of same and the benefits derived therefrom."

J. T. TRAVERS, M. D.,
New York City.

* * *

"The new windshield ventilating system is ideal. Its 'overhead or underfoot' selective feature is excellent for the avoidance of the disagreeable draughts to which one is subjected in most cars; and its rainstorm ventilation is a triumph. No more hot, stuffy cars during summer showers."

DR. B. STEWART RALSTON,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

* * *

BOYCE CHURCH MEETS PLANNED

Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, announced today that revival services would open in the church Sunday and will continue until January 30.

The meetings will be in charge of Rev. Gene Phillips, of Trinway, while the song services will be directed by John Guy, of Delroy, O.

Rev. Phillips is a graduate of Asburg college, Wilmore, Ky.

To Attend Inauguration.

Large number of Beaver county residents plan to attend the inauguration of Governor John S. Fisher which will take place next Monday at Harrisburg. The affair will be on an elaborate scale and will include a parade by political and civic clubs.

Lodge Meeting Tonight.

Regular meeting of Pennova lodge No. 880, I. O. O. F., will be held tonight in the Hill building, Mulberry street.

Revival Continues.

Another large crowd attended the revival services last night being conducted by Rev. George C. Westlake in the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. Special music is being featured.

Class Meeting Scheduled.

Members of class No. 14, of the Second Presbyterian church, will meet tomorrow night in the lecture room of the church. The social committee is composed of Mesdames Charles Podwells, J. C. Clemenson and Mrs. Hannah Broome.

Don't Risk Pneumonia By Neglecting a Cold

If you have a cough or cold, don't neglect it during this pneumonia weather. A cough or cold weakens your resistance. If you let it "go down" into your chest it always causes congestion in your bronchial tubes—and these tubes lead directly into your lungs.

If you get pneumonia, call a doctor immediately. But if you have a threatening cold or cough—even bronchitis—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! End it before inflammation goes down into the "danger zone."

Quickly and unfailingly Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of trouble. Real Medicine, reaching deep with its healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

With the very first swallow of Cherry Pectoral you feel its comforting warmth. The soothing, healing powers of this hospital-tested medicine are absorbed by the linings of throat, chest and bronchial tubes, just as ink is absorbed by a blotter. This is why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral so quickly stops the cough, drives out the cold and brings sure, lasting relief. pd24c

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is used by doctors and hospital clinics—for children and grown people. Even sick children love its flavor. At all druggists, 60c; twice as much, $1.00

D. W. Grittith Hit, 'Sorrows of Satan,' Is At Ceramic

Adolphe Menjou, Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and Others in Screen Success Cast.

What well-known actor can best play the role of Satan?

D. W. Griffith found himself asking that question some months ago. And it took him a long time to find the right man even though he was aided in his efforts by the whole of Paramount's huge production staff.

In the days of the operatic treatment of "Faust," it would have been easy. All that was needed was a tight-fitting red suit, long ears, eyebrows pointing up, sinister make-up, a pair of horns and there you were—old man Satan himself!

But that kind of Satan wouldn't do Griffith at all. His, had to be a man of stately presence, courtly manner, charming personality, breeding, and wealth,—one giving an impression of reserve power.

It was such a Satan that Marie Corelli created in her book, "Sorrows of Satan." To draw a pen picture of the man seems easy, but the director's task was different. He had to make him the central figure of the novel's picturization.

After a series of tests and conferences, a man deemed to be perfect was selected and given the role, Griffith, Mr. Lasky and every one concerned with the film, became enthusiastic. The actor's first day on the "Sorrows of Satan" set resembled nothing so much as a continuous ovation.

Why keep his name secret? No one less than Adolphe Menjou, hero of a thousand romances, had won the coveted role!

The picture opened a three-day run at the Ceramic theatre today.

Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and Lya de Putti are included in the roster of featured players. John Russell and George Hull adapted the novel for screen use. Forrest Halsey wrote the screen play.

ASK PAYMENT OF PAVING JOB

Commissioners Call for Eighth Street Money.

The city of East Liverpool today was again urged to reimburse the county commissioners for an unpaid balance of more than $7,000 for the West Eighth street improvement, completed last spring.

Cost of the job was borne jointly by the city, county and the traction company. The commissioners charged that the county agreed to contribute $25,000, the street car company $15,000, the city the balance. The amount, which is still due the county, under whose direction the improvement was made, has never been paid despite repeated attempts to collect it.

Unless a settlement is made, the commissioners may take steps to attach the automobile license funds due the city, it was hinted at Lisbon.

MIDLAND

Group No. 1 of the Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church will conduct a bake sale in the Miller drug store, Saturday, January 29. The following will be in charge: Mrs. Robert Graham, Mrs. C. J. Post, Mrs. W. J. Law, Mrs. William Gloetzer, Mrs. Hawthorne and Mrs. C. R. Rapp.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Jack of Virginia avenue, a daughter.

Mrs. T. J. McCarthy of Beaver avenue, who has been confined in the Allegheny General hospital is reported improving.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Roller of Ohio avenue have returned home after a visit with friends and relatives of Wheeling, W. Va.

Mrs. Frank Jones of West drive was a Pittsburgh visitor recently.

Mrs. Arndt of Eleventh street has returned after a visit with friends and relatives of Ambridge, Pa.

On jobs like this men will get hurt

HURT ARM IN FALL FROM BOX CAR

Sustains painful injury but gets quick relief

In a fall from the top of a box car, a freight brakeman on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway badly sprained his left arm and tore some of the ligaments.

"I suffered great pain," he writes from Belle Plaine, Iowa. "Then I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and it relieved the pain right away."

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It stirs up the body to throw off the cause.
